

For Homecoming Queen Pam Wragge of Fremont, Happiness Is — and sometimes isn't. Here she sees Huskers make it five in a row 21-10 over Kansas State.

Game stories and pictures in Section C.

With This Autumn Bliss . . .

. . . It Must Be Homecoming

By DEAN TERRILL

When that new-car smell collides mid-field with the scent of burning leaves, you know it's Homecoming.

What 64,108 Memorial Stadium fans didn't sense that way Saturday, they felt — almost tasted — in the 50-degree weather. The apple crisp day was made for Nebraska's 21-10 creaming of Kansas State.

Even the Wildcats had their smiling moments, several more than had been predicted. And a 15 m.p.h. flag-rippling wind subsided considerably after kick-off.

Adding to the autumn bliss, though not out of necessity, were half-time definitions of what "Happiness Is." Among musically-amplified suggestions from Jack Snider and his 180 Marching Men: "Happiness is being late for a 7:30 a.m. class and finding the instructor has overslept."

"Happiness is bumping into your wife's former pinmate and finding he's a fat, out-of-work drunk. Double happiness is having your mother-in-law bump into your wife's former pinmate and finding he's a fat, out-of-work drunk."

Three Happy Times
For 19-year-old Pam Wragge of Fremont, there was personal treasure in being Homecoming Queen and receiving a team-autographed football from NU Athletic Director Tippy Dye. A much-photographed kiss brought him joy each time enacted — once, twice, three happy times yet.

One spectator's afternoon was brightened by a souvenir football — if he got out of the stadium without being rushed to a maternity ward.

A diligent and muchboomed police search apparently proved fruitless following Larry Wachholz's second PAT into the south stands.

One October mystery was how 565 more fans found places in the stadium than had set a new stadium record on Band Day. But they did — and 64,108 now stands as the largest sports crowd in state history.

Looking Ahead

Several score of "Californians for Nebraska" admittedly liked the return to fall briskness. But they intended to return to the coast as they came, by air.

Looking ahead seven days, the half-time ceremony came up with one more "Happiness Is" which all Huskers hope is a prediction.

"Easily defeating Colorado next week at their Homecoming," was that definition.

After K-State, Nebraskans might even be happy without the "easily."

Brezhnev Rebuff Expected but Optimism Prevails

Washington (AP) — The Soviet rebuff of President Johnson's call for "peaceful engagements" between East and West represent the expected optimism that relations with the Communists can steadily improve, U.S. officials commented.

This optimistic belief, not shared by all experts on Soviet affairs, was based on private talks the President, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, and British Foreign Secretary George A. Brown had with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in New York and in Washington earlier this month.

Officials noted that Leonid I. Brezhnev, general secretary of the Communist party, voiced rejection of Johnson's appeal in speaking at a Kremlin rally and his speech was for public consumption. Gromyko, on the other hand, conferred privately with American leaders and the British foreign secretary.

There also were reports that the rebels were displeased with the strong influence of the military in the government.

Informed sources said, however, the six had agreed to keep the dispute "on the back burner" until after the seven-nation Manila summit conference on Vietnam.

Buried Forty Years Ago

1913 Model T 'Comes Home'—or Does It?

Detroit (AP) — Several hundred antique car buffs and some people who admitted they just like to dig in the rain gathered under an apple tree on the west side here for a ceremony equal to the opening of King Tut's tomb.

They dug up Perry Andrews' Model T Ford, or rather what was left of it after 40 years. And there was some strong doubt that what they found was even a car.

They uncovered what they were willing to call—in the darkness after a day-long dig—a running board and a drive shaft. The dig resumes today.

"It was like one of our little children coming home," said a representative of Ford Motor Co., who wasn't about to miss such an opportunity.

Andrews, described by his family as sentimental, buried the car in his back yard in 1926 after he tried to give it away but could find no one who would promise to preserve it intact.

He died in the 1930s and it's probably a good thing he wasn't there Saturday to see what Mother Nature did to those classic lines.

High Old Time
But it didn't make any difference. Everybody had a high old time.

Besides Ford, an auto parts maker showed up with free coffee and donuts and little lapel stickers that said, "happy digging." The Model T C. 5 A. 3 showed up.

All ages were represented.

Model T exhumation ceremony . . . after 40 years.

U.S. Sen. Robert P. Griffin, a Republican in a close election race, also came to pump some hands.

"I'm sort of a used car buff—I'm also wet," Griffin said. Everybody believed he was wet.

In fact, so many people showed up that at one point Perry's Model T was moving faster than the traffic on a nearby road.

And the Model T was still under the ground somewhere. The idea to dig up the old car was started by Harvey Versteeg of the Detroit Historical Museum. He was looking for a cheap 1913 Model T to put in a display. Morris, who helped his father-in-law bury the car, had told the story many times. And a few months ago it got around to Versteeg.

Morris, has pictures to prove that Perry buried the car, but everybody had some doubts after Saturday.

Out Came . . .
The digging got started right on time. It was about half an hour before it happened.

Chunk! A big cheer went up. Out of the ground came one rusty tin can.

In the next three hours, another tin can, three trucks (children's toy variety), a piece of an ancient phonograph, several pieces of sheet metal (very suspicious), a little gadget that looked like it might have come from a touring car top and one blue blue marble (in excellent shape).

WAR COSTS RISING: Viet Expense To Push Taxes Up?

Washington (AP) — The conclusions Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara draws from his just-ended trip to South Vietnam will play a key role in a crucial administration domestic decision — whether to ask Congress next year to raise taxes.

There are indications the Administration might be forced into that action. But there are some counteracting factors too.

Spending for the Vietnam war is already running well ahead of estimates and is expected to increase further.

But top Administration sources emphasized that no decision on taxes has yet been reached because it's not yet known exactly how much money the war might cost or how much spending Congress might vote this year.

Timing of the decision is also uncertain, one source said, but it will come before the January deadline for submission of the president's new budget to Congress.

There has been speculation that President Johnson, if he decides a tax increase is needed — and it's ultimately his decision — will announce his intention in December to give the new Congress and Americans generally time to digest the news.

As of now, however, decisions on whether taxes will be raised and, if so, what taxes and by how much, are still up in the air, a key source said.

And McNamara's trip this week to the Vietnam battlefield will play an important role in assessing war spending, especially the amount of extra money that will be needed early next year.

After the defense chief reported to Johnson on his battlefield trip, the President told reporters there is a little clearer picture on the cost of the war. Johnson said he will be meeting with Treasury and budget officials trying to estimate this cost for this quarter and for this fiscal year.

Johnson said he would make the totals known as soon "as we get any approximation" but he couldn't say how soon that might be.

Critical War Turn Seen Rebels Postpone Bout With Ky

6 Resign Vietnam Cabinet

Saigon (UPI) — Six civilian members of the 29-man cabinet have agreed to put off a showdown with Premier Nguyen Cao Ky to a void weakening South Vietnam's hand at the forthcoming Manila conference, informed sources said Saturday.

Two of the dissidents, who asked not to be identified, said that all six had submitted their resignations to Ky but the premier has not accepted them yet.

Five of the rebels are southerners who are said to be unhappy about the government's appointment of persons from North Vietnam to key official posts.

There also were reports that the rebels were displeased with the strong influence of the military in the government.

Informed sources said, however, the six had agreed to keep the dispute "on the back burner" until after the seven-nation Manila summit conference on Vietnam.

Stolen Gems Valued at $250,000

Chicago (UPI) — Four masked gunmen invaded the exclusive Tiffany & Co. store Saturday and held 10 persons at gunpoint while they looted the vault of up to $250,000 in jewels.

The bandits herded two women and two guards from the lobby into the store and subdued another guard and three male employees.

When Manager Anthony Ostrom arrived a few minutes later, he was led to the vault and forced to open it.

The bandits remained in the store about 20 minutes, then fled through a rear door.

Ostrom estimated the value of the jewels "roughly" at $100,000 to $250,000.

LBJ Set To Go To Asia

Washington (AP) — President Johnson's trip to the Far East, beginning Monday, coincides with the opening of what may prove to be a period of critical importance for the war in Vietnam.

The next six months, many informed officials believe, can well bring a turning point, with Communist leaders deciding either to end or to expand the conflict.

Johnson is scheduled to fly Monday to Honolulu, where he will deliver the first of many speeches to be given during his six-nation tour and his attendance at the Manila conference on Vietnam Oct. 24 to 27.

Throughout the trip his main emphasis is expected to be on a search for peace. The Manila conference may produce a new, specific peace bid aimed at North Vietnam and the Viet Cong.

Two other themes are expected to stand out in Johnson's speeches:

—Reaffirmation of his declared policy of fighting the Vietnamese war with a limited aim of securing the independence of South Vietnam without destroying North Vietnam.

—Looking to the long future of Asia, his still-developing concept of some new regional association of non-Communist nations throughout the Far East.

From the line taken by officials here it seems clear that Johnson and his advisers hope the Manila conference plus the President's own exposition of U.S. policy during his far-ranging tour will stimulate maximum international pressures on Hanoi to move toward negotiations.

Basic to U.S. official thinking about the prospects in Vietnam—as seen hopefully from Washington—is the fact that the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces in the south have suffered a long series of military reverses this year.

Johnson related this aspect of the situation directly to the Manila meeting at a news conference Thursday.

He said it is significant that a monsoon offensive by the Communist forces had failed. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, returning Friday from strategy talks in Saigon, reported more specifically that the Communists had failed in an effort to cut South Vietnam in two.

That the Communists have given up hope of winning the conflict militarily is taken for granted in official quarters here, but authorities believe they still hope to win politically. Strategists in Hanoi, it is said, look for results of the Nov. 8 U.S. congressional elections to demonstrate massive opposition to Johnson's Vietnamese war policy.

U Thant: U.S. Must Safeguard

Syria Mission Invasion Cited

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary-General U Thant said Saturday he would tell the United States that it must safeguard the representatives and the missions of other U.N. members in New York City.

Thant made that promise to three ambassadors who gave him a protest from the 62-nation Asian-African group against Friday's invasion of the Syrian mission by some young American Zionists.

A U.N. spokesman later announced that Thant had asked for a meeting on the subject Monday with Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, head of the U.S. mission, who has already apologized for the incident and signed charges against the intruders.

The Syrian delegation's office suite, on the 25th floor of a New York business building, was invaded while the Security Council was debating Israeli charges that Syria keeps sending saboteurs into Israel. Nineteen young men and women, U.S. citizens belonging to a militant Zionist organization called Brit Trumpeldor, entered the suite and prayed there till police took them away on charges of trespassing, unlawful intrusion and disorderly conduct. Later, they were freed to await a hearing Nov. 25.

Omaha Mayor: Talks With LBJ Constructive

Special to the Sunday Journal and Star
Washington—Omaha Mayor A. V. Sorenson said after a meeting with President Johnson at the White House that the session had been "constructive." Johnson met with 31 mayors of the country's largest cities Saturday.

Sorenson said the President spent 45 minutes detailing the economies which he has ordered in federal spending. He urged the mayors to do likewise in their own local programs.

The mayor added:

"I think the President is sincere in wanting to control inflation and is also aware of the problems of mayors. As an example, steps to clear up river pollution in Omaha can continue but funds for public expenditures for projects like new stadiums must be postponed."

U.S. Pilots Concentrate, Air Strikes On DMZ Before Monsoon Rains Hit

SAIGON (UPI) —U.S. Navy, Air Force and Marine pilots Saturday concentrated attacks on the demilitarized zone (DMZ) dividing North and South Vietnam where U.S. officials believe Communist forces are massing for a possible monsoon invasion of the south.

The monsoon already was moving slowly southward with low clouds and slashing rains, barring air raids on much of North Vietnam, a spokesman said.

American planes had tallied a record 175 missions over North Vietnam Friday, officials reported, and 173 on Thursday. But the number of planes reported lost over the north soared to 403.

The attacks Saturday were confined to the DMZ and the southern panhandle in North Vietnam where planes from the Carrier Oriskany pounded a fuel dump just north of Vinh, the spokesman said. B52 superfortresses were among the planes striking the DMZ.

American marines are digging in just south of the DMZ to face any Communist onslaught. They have hurled North Vietnamese troops back in a series of bloody battles recently. Spokesman said Saturday the Leathernecks killed 27 North Vietnamese Thursday to raise the toll of Communist dead in Operation Prairie to 1,130.

Ground Action

In other ground action Saturday, a company of 101st Airborne Division paratroopers killed six Viet Cong in a fight 12 miles northwest of Tuy Hoa. A spokesman said this brought to 220 the number of Communists killed since the operation began Sept. 5.

A unit of the U.S. First Air Cavalry Division battled an estimated Communist company about 10 miles southwest of Bong Son. There was no word of enemy casualties, U.S. casualties were said to be light.

The 403rd plane lost over North Vietnam was an Air Force F4C Phantom that crashed mysteriously Thursday leaving its two-man crew missing in action.

Puzzling Crash

Spokesmen said the Phantom was on a night rocket run when, for some puzzling reason, it crashed. "There was no ground fire, no anti-aircraft fire," a U.S. official said.

"The jet went in on the rocket run and just did not pull out. It is unusual, but we are calling it a combat loss," he added.

In addition, the United States has lost 128 airplanes and 214 helicopters in South Vietnam, the spokesman said.

Manila Spruces for Strictly Down-to-Business Conference

Manila (AP) — The Americans and South Vietnamese are expected to get the Manila summit conference started with a detailed and sweeping review of military, political and economic conditions in South Vietnam.

With preparations for the Oct. 24 seven-nation summit well under way it was shaping up as a businesslike conference with a minimum of public display.

President Johnson, who Monday begins the international swing that will bring him to Manila, has summoned top brass to join him for the conference. In addition to Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Defense Secretary Robert McNamara, he has ordered Ambassador to Saigon Henry Cabot Lodge and U.S. Pacific Commander Adm. Ulysses Sharp to join the delegation.

The South Vietnamese ruling duo — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu — have signified they will also bring the regime's top military, political and economic members.

Plans for a formal opening session have been considerably shortened. Then the conference will retire to the president's Malacanang Palace. Closed door sessions will start immediately.

Foreign Ministers

Although Rusk and several of the foreign ministers will arrive Friday before the conference, there will be no formal foreign ministers meeting before the summit.

Meanwhile, Marcos planned to take up an almost permanent station at Manila's International Airport on Oct. 23 when the chiefs of state are due to fly in. Prime Minister Harold Holt of Australia and Prime Minister Keith Holyoake of New Zealand will arrive in the same plane.

President Chung Hee Park of South Korea will fly in from South Vietnam where he will be briefed by his own forces before the conference. Thailand's Prime Minister, Thanom Kittikachorn, will arrive in a special plane from Bangkok.

The Philippines has set up a special security task force to insure the safety of its guests. Johnson — who is flying out his special bubble tour limousine — will get special attention.

The city is getting an extensive face lifting for the conference. Marcos earmarked $250,000 for the housecleaning of the city and said an equal sum was ready if necessary.

Reds' Summit Meet This Week

Moscow (UPI)—Soviet and East European Communist leaders will hold crucial summit talks on the Chinese Communist problem here and watch a new Soviet space spectacular this week, informed sources said.

They expressed doubt, however, that the spectacular would involve the launching of a multi-manned space vehicle which has been speculated abroad.

In addition to seeking ways to deal with Red China, the sources said, the summit here also will discuss how to assess the new U.S. peace offensive on Vietnam and how to overcome Peking's virtual sabotage of non-Chinese aid for North Vietnam and set up their deliveries to Hanoi.

48 of 60 'LBJ Bills' Enacted

Washington (AP) — Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield said the 89th Congress has a good chance to better its LBJ rating before it adjourns sometime next week.

President Johnson has been lavishing praise on the current Congress and in a bipartisan luncheon and visit to the Senate Friday noted that 48 of some 60 of his major legislative requests had been enacted.

Although the chief executive did not detail the dozen missing bills, Mansfield said in an interview Congress should send about that many more to the White House for signature before leaving.

Montanan Mansfield said Senate-House compromises probably will be reached and sent to the White House on:

"Truth in packaging, a $5-billion food for peace program, two education aid measures, a revision of unemployment compensation, the investment tax credit suspension, the foreign investors tax bill, special treatment for narcotics victims, an Indian claims commission and adjustment of status for Cuban refugees."

Three regular appropriations supplying operating funds for government agencies and departments also will go to the President. In addition to a final catch-all supplemental money bill now carrying $4.9 billion.

Three administration requests faltered in the Senate. They were repeal of the section of the Taft-Hartley act permitting states to ban the union shop, the new civil rights proposals including a non-discriminatory housing provision, and a home rule proposal for the District of Columbia.

"We had majorities for all three in the Senate but not enough for cloture," Mansfield noted. Cloture is the Senate method of limiting debate and enforcing a vote.

Mansfield said he sees little or no chance for final action at this session on boosting Social Security benefits.

Signature Creates Cabinet Bureau For Transportation

Compiled From News Wires
Washington—A new Cabinet department to oversee the nation's land and air transportation came into existence Saturday with President Johnson's signature.

He expressed hope that Congress will reconsider its decision to omit water transportation from the sweeping unification of federal agencies.

Clearing his desk of pressing business before flying to the Far East Monday, Johnson also signed a batch of conservative bills and urged 30 city mayors—against their protests—to defer as many spending plans as possible for six months or more.

The new Transportation Dept., 12th in the Cabinet, would consolidate 31 government bureaus and agencies with 100,000 employees. Its first-year budget of $6.4 billion will exceed that of four other departments.

At a bill-signing ceremony in the White House, Johnson said he would "appoint a strong man" to be the new secretary but gave no hint who his nominee would be.

Speculation has centered on Commerce Undersecretary Alan S. Boyd, among others.

Whoever it is, Johnson said his job would be tough: "To untangle, to coordinate and to build a national transportation system."

The present system is inadequate even though transportation is the nation's biggest industry, involving $1 of every $5 in the U.S. economy, Johnson said.

Control Areas
The department will have provisional control—at least initially—of the Civil Aeronautics Board, parts of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Coast Guard and the Bureau of Public Roads.

Acting against the President's wishes, Congress excluded the Maritime Administration from the department's jurisdiction and severely restricted its ability to change existing regulations for the transportation industry.

Congress also voted to prevent the new secretary from allotting his budget among the department's agencies. The power was retained by congressional committees which will handle their financing.

Johnson signed seven bills creating national parks, lakeshore and recreation areas. He called them a "milestone in the history of conservation" and said they would restore "more land for parks and playgrounds than we lose to housing, highways, airports and shopping centers."

At his meeting with the mayors, Johnson asked them to defer for at least six to eight months all possible spending as a means of easing inflation, a plea he also has made to state governors.

The White House also announced that Johnson has signed a bill establishing a 12-mile fishery zone off the U.S. coast. Before, the zone was three miles.

Real Sleepers

Detroit (AP)—A burglar made off with a jacket, electric razor and a $20 pair of shoes while 10 firemen at the Montcalm Street firehouse snoozed nearby. And, he stayed long enough to eat a chicken drumstick from the firehouse kitchen.

The tornado which ripped through Belmond, Iowa, left three cars just inside a sidewalk. Nature thus observed the "No Parking" sign on the street.

Governor Hughes Asks Volunteer Aid in Tornado-Stricken Belmond

Belmond, Ia. (UPI)—Gov. Harold Hughes Saturday issued a call for volunteers to help rebuild tornado-wrecked Belmond, where six died and hundreds became homeless in a few moments of wind-driven terror.

The governor toured Belmond as snow flurries whipped at rescue workers toiling in the wreckage left by the twister which roared up Main Street Friday and smashed almost all of the business buildings and many of the houses in this town of 2,500.

Adj. Gen. Junior Miller told the governor hundreds were homeless, but that authorities did not know the exact count. Many of the refugees had found shelter in private homes in nearby Clarion.

At least 172 persons were hospitalized or treated and released in Belmond and surrounding communities. Many more—possibly hundreds—suffered minor injuries from flying glass and debris, authorities said.

Hughes said Belmond needs volunteer help because "it doesn't have the financial ability to rebuild itself."

"We need skilled laborers, truck drivers, or anyone else who feels they have the talents that would be of help here," Hughes said. "I'd appreciate it if they would get in touch with the Highway Patrol or the National Guard."

"It's a horrible sight," the governor said as he climbed over rubble and broken buildings. "It looks worse than World War II."

National Guardsmen and Iowa Highway Patrol officers combed the rubble for more possible victims. Bulldozers and construction equipment were brought in to shove wreckage and debris off the streets. Gas service to homes was cut off. Electric power was off. Only emergency telephone communications were available.

Hughes said Belmond "undoubtedly will be declared a major disaster area."

U.S.-Korea Pact

Seoul (UPI)—The national assembly has ratified the Korea-U.S. status of forces agreement governing American troops stationed in South Korea. The 31-article agreement was signed last July when U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk visited here.

Denver Supermarket Cuts Prices After Women Threaten Boycott

Denver (UPI)—A large Colorado supermarket chain gave in to a threatened boycott of thousands of Colorado housewives Saturday and announced food prices in all of its 46 stores would be lowered.

McLeod Hittson, division manager of Miller's supermarkets in Colorado, said "We have taken immediate steps to lower prices in our supermarkets. In fact, we will close all of our stores Monday and our people will work the entire day reducing prices."

The Housewives for Lower Food Prices (HLFP), claiming support of more than 100,000 and possibly 200,000 women throughout the state, plans to begin an "indefinite" boycott of five major supermarket chains in the state Monday, in protest of rising food prices.

Miller's, one of the five stores threatened to be placed behind the financial eight ball by the "shopping cart war," was the only chain to announce any change in policy by Saturday afternoon. The chain is owned by the National Tea Co.

Mrs. Paul West, head of the HLFP, said after being informed of the Miller's move "I'm very happy. It's a step in the right direction."

"End Boycott" "If they are going to do what they have indicated, why we'll be right back with them."

She said it would probably take several days to determine if Miller's prices are lower, "but if they are found to be so, we'll probably end our boycott against them."

Hittson said all major promotions and prize games would be stopped immediately, and certain extra customer services would be cut back or discontinued.

He said the saving "will amount to thousands of dollars . . . and these savings will be passed on to our customers in the form of lower food prices."

Other stores threatened—Safeway, Red Owl, Furr's and King Soopers—were expected to counter the boycott by use of special sales, bonus trading stamps and special prize games.

Buy at Independents Mrs. West said the housewives would patronize independent grocery stores, and if those stores increased their prices, they would purchase their meat from meat markets, their milk from dairies, and their bread directly from the bakeries.

"We want housewives to stay away from the supermarkets period," she said.

She said the boycott against other stores would go on indefinitely . . . "until they either lower their prices or give us an acceptable explanation why they can't."

Time for Public Defender?

The time is not far off when Lancaster County must carefully consider the advisability of establishing the office of public defender.

Costs to the county for court appointed counsel for persons accused of a crime have risen from $1,775 in 1961 to $9,724 for the first nine months in 1966.

The number of cases requiring court-appointed lawyers will increase, not only because of increasing criminal cases but because the 1965 Legislature passed legislation that lawyers must be appointed in felony cases when the defendant is arraigned in county court. Previously, a defendant did not receive court-appointed counsel until he reached district court.

Economics has been a deterrent to the establishment of the office of public defender in the past. This deterrent is disappearing and other factors are now pertinent. One is the availability of competent attorneys.

Under present statutes a county board can establish the office and then the public defender is elected every four years. The same statute also provides that in some limited cases the public defender may handle civil actions for persons not financially able to employ counsel.

With an increasing need for public defenders in some of the larger counties of the state, it would not be out of order for the Legislature to review the present statute on public defender.

It would seem that appointment or some arrangement similar to the merit plan for selecting judges might be preferable to the present election provisions in the law.

If civil legal services for the poor are to be provided, these should be spelled out more clearly and not lumped into the office of the public defender.

Lincoln and Lancaster County's concern should be that they live up to the spirit of the law and provide competent legal counsel for those accused of criminal offenses in the most efficient and economical manner.

Nothing Is Forever

Treaties sometimes attempt to settle disagreements, or grant land rights for all time or in perpetuity. Later generations rebel against such "forever" clauses.

The United States ran into difficulty with the "in perpetuity" clause by which it acquired domain of the Panama Canal. After rioting and a threatened break of relations, the United States and Panama are working out their problems.

Great Britain is having similar trouble over Gibraltar. In an old treaty, Spain agreed to yield Gibraltar to Britain for all time. Modern-day Spaniards, like the Panamanians, want some rights in Gibraltar, and Spain is engaged in an economic siege of the Rock.

The dispute is an emotional one involving Spanish national pride and the Rock's reputation as an age-old symbol of British solidarity. In reality it now stands largely as a symbol. With the changing character of modern war the strategic role of Gibraltar has been greatly altered.

The Gibraltarians strongly oppose any change in the present status, but most realize that they can do little if Britain ever decides to give the Rock back to Spain. Thus the Rock, once of strategic importance to Britain, now becomes a diplomatic headache.

Spain charges that Britain has usurped territory which the treaty did not yield. Britain claims sovereignty over the additional territory by outright conquest and long-standing occupation.

Britain, like the United States, will probably not stand unconditionally on its "for all time" treaty but it is hard pressed to find a solution by which it can retain its dignity and protect the rights of the Gibraltarians.

... And Leave the Driving to Mao

Washington—It has been reported that the teachings of Mao Tse-tung inspired the production of an improved version of the new Communist Chinese car "Red Flag." Because of Mao, the Red Chinese news agency said, the Chinese people have a car far superior to any in the West.

A friend of mine who works at the factory in Changchun wrote me what actually happened. When the decision was made to build an automobile called the "Red Flag," the Chinese engineers started studying Mao's works. In his famous treatise "How to Make a Great Leap Forward Without a Four Wheel Drive," Mao wrote: "A single spark can start a prairie fire." The engineers concluded that Mao meant a car shouldn't have spark plugs.

Further on they found: "Counter-revolution must be exterminated and the seats of power must be turned over to the people." "What do you think he meant by that?" an engineer asked.

"He probably meant we should put seats in the car."

"No, on the contrary, I think he was talking about the engine. The power for the car should be under the seats."

"I beg to differ. Mao meant we must eliminate the engine and use the power of the people to move the automobile."

"That's a great idea. We could have someone up front pulling the car."

"Wouldn't that make it a rickshaw?" a younger engineer asked.

"I knew I had seen the idea somewhere," the other engineer said.

"Here's something we can use. 'The tools of imperialism must be used against the neo-colonialists.'"

"I guess we can use Western tools to build the car."

"That helps," an engineer said. "Now if we could only find something on the exterior."

"Here it is. 'Body building is as important to a Communist state as the building of the mind.'"

"Our leader thought of everything. The car needs a body."

"That about wraps it up, gentlemen. Why don't we start building the car and if we get stuck we can always refer to Mao's works. What's that blue paper you're studying, Lin Pao!"

"It's the blueprints of the Edsel. I thought we might use them as a guide."

"But Mao does not want us to use blueprints."

"That's where you're wrong. He says right here, 'China must capitalize on America's mistakes.'"

Freedom of Choice Is Right

A recent news story told of the demotion of the headmaster and faculty of a school in Red China. Following a run-in with the militant Red Guard youth movement, the educators were assigned janitorial chores and are now sweeping up and scrubbing the floors.

Unfortunately, the educators in China had no choice in the matter. They were not fired and permitted to seek whatever other job or position that might be open to them.

This is one of the most valued of rights in the United States—the right of a free choice. In this country, people can work or refuse to work, as they see fit.

If they like, they can move from the East Coast to the West Coast or from North Dakota to Florida and no one will interfere with them in the slightest. They will not even be asked a question by any segment of government.

This, of course, is but one area of our lives in which we make a free choice. We are free to decide for ourselves every detail of the way we live.

It is this freedom of choice that was stressed by civil rights leader James Meredith. Integration, said Meredith, is not the answer to the Negro problem.

Meredith said he believes he should not be denied a meal in a restaurant because of his race, but he also believes the white boy who sits next to his son in school has the right not to play with him because "he doesn't like the way he taps his foot."

Perhaps the differences here are matters of semantics but the point made by Meredith is well taken. To us, the term "integration" implies the freedom of choice which Meredith extols but this is to debate a label for the same ends.

Involved here to some degree is a sort of chicken-and-egg question. Freedom of choice cannot be a matter of force and long remain a freedom. On the other hand, without some force there is a question as to how far such freedom would be extended.

The races will truly be integrated in America only when the members of a minority group can be denied something without ever thinking of discrimination. When an employer can turn down a Negro job applicant and face no charge of discrimination, then the Negro has the true freedom of choice of which Meredith speaks.

When a home owner can refuse to sell to a Negro and run no risk of being accused of discriminating, then we will have achieved true equality of the races. When this happens, the Negro will have been denied for any of the number of reasons or purposes that deny a job, a house or something else to a member of the white race.

We could not and would not want to achieve a total lack of discrimination. We want only the elimination of discrimination on the basis of race, creed or color.

What the Negro wants is discrimination based upon his ability and what he has to offer, not his color.

Could Arc of Defense Hold China?

"Stand together and stand up to Red China!" is the exhortation given Asian nations by the United States. But what is the strength of that arc?

By CONRAD FINK
Associated Press Writer s Communist China

I really that tough? Does Peking really enjoy overwhelming economic-military Asian scene?

Statistically, the odds already are against China and are getting worse.

Even without a backup from the United States non-Communist nations of Asia today are potentially strong enough in population, armed forces and economic power to counterbalance China.

But there is a flaw—perhaps a fatal flaw—in all this that prevents statistical theories from being transformed into anti-Communist military and economic realities.

The non-Communist nations along China's periphery have not shown the will to band together—and that is why the U.S. is spending blood and money to hold the line in Vietnam and other Asian hotspots.

That is why Washington strategists cannot crank all the comforting statistical odds into U.S. policy in Asia; that is why American troops will be in Asia for some time to come.

The statistics, which despite their unreality must worry Peking, give this picture:

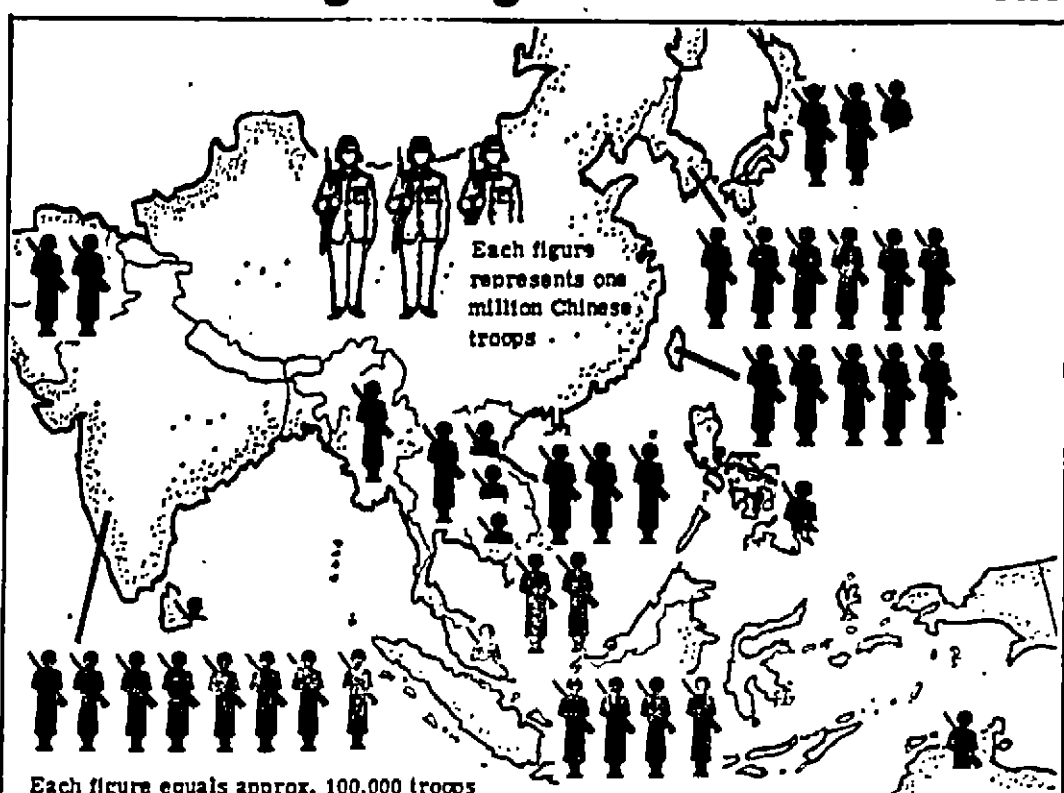

China has a population of more than 700 million. Asian nations that would be threatened by any spreading of Peking's influence weigh in at more than one billion persons.

China can field 2.5-3 million men in its regular armed forces. Non-Communist Asia has more than 3.7 million under arms.

China has an economic industrial machine which, although it can manufacture nuclear devices, has a trouble feeding its people. Japan alone outstrips Chinese industry and the rest of non-Communist Asia possesses natural resources which if developed could make China look more of a pauper.

China can provide its peo-

China Vs. Neighboring Non-Communist Nations

ple with little more than a $100 annual per capita income. Even South Korea does better ($104) than that. The Philippines, currently in economic trouble, boasts of $157.

The statistics have inspired a decade-old dream among U.S. diplomats: somehow persuade disunited nations along China's periphery to man the barricades together, do in unison what none can do alone—stand up to China.

Some Americans envision a non-Communist arc anchored in the North on Japan's industrial might and swinging southwest along China's frontiers to anchor in the South on the land and population mass of India.

How much muscle is behind the Chinese fist?

Japanese economists estimate that with good luck, China might rack up a 5-7% annual economic growth rate over the next 20 years.

But a population increase of more than 2% annually, they estimate, would eat up much of the gains and leave China at the end of the 20 years with about the same per capita annual income as the Soviet Union had in the dreary 1930s.

And even if the Chinese spend the next 20 years in an all-out drive for nuclear missiles, anti-missile technology in other nations, primarily the U.S., would improve so much that any Chinese advances might be negated.

But China has its own military problems: —The Soviet border, for years guarded by Sino-Soviet friendship banners, now is manned by thousands of troops.

—An estimated 15 divisions are stationed in Tibet to watch the Indian frontier. Another huge contingent is far away facing the Formosa strait and the strong Nationalist China regime. Still other troops are in the distant North, on the Manchurian frontier with Korea.

There are reports China is working on, or already possesses, medium-range missiles and perhaps has a few submarines capable of firing missiles. But China does not have an air arm capable of effectively delivering nuclear weapons over vast distances.

China's navy is fourth-rate by most standards, with 20 or so submarines, a few destroyers and some smaller craft forming its nucleus of power.

Some Asians regard the current political upheaval in China as more than an ideological cleansing ordered by Mao Tse-tung. They hope it is proof that China has encountered serious internal difficulties that would limit its appetite for directly entering the Vietnam war or other Asian quarrels.

Signs are appearing in Asian nations, however, that collective security is in the minds of many statesmen. Dramatic proof of this came in the Philippine conference of nations fighting in South Vietnam. After a summer of tentative feelers for Southeast Asia cooperation, President Ferdinand E. Marcos of the Philippines proposed the Manila conference which opens within a few days. Present will be the heads of state of the U.S., the Philippines, South Vietnam, South Korea, Thailand, Australia and New Zealand.

Inspired by such men as South Korea's Foreign Minister Lee Tong-Won (... "Asian nations must not always stand idle while Westerners handle our affairs... it is time Asians become conscious of our own problems"), American diplomats strive for the distant goal.

They feel it's a long way off—but worth the effort.

Negro Question

Lincoln—What percentage of Lincoln's population is Negro? Does Lincoln have what could be termed a ghetto? Do we have any constructive civil rights projects here? L.H.N.

Lincoln's percentage of non-whites is between 1 1/2 and 2%. There are non-whites now living in all of Lincoln's census tracts but the majority are concentrated in a few areas of the city where many of the houses are substandard. There is a Mayor's Council on Human Relations and on Oct. 4 an ordinance was approved establishing a Commission on Human Rights. At the state level there is the Governor's Human Rights Commission. —Editor.

Air Pollution

Lincoln—Polluted air showed itself to be a part of Lincoln Wednesday morning, proving again that Lincoln eventually must face all the problems faced by cities now larger than Lincoln. The mass of black sooty air that lay over the city on Wednesday morning should help to alert and stimulate us to solve these problems before they become "a part of city living." R.E.B.

The Mayor's Air Pollution Advisory Committee is slated to finish the final draft Oct. 19 of a proposed anti-pollution ordinance which would bring about a reduction in indiscriminate burning in other than designed incinerators.

Committee Chairman Les Sanger, director of the Lincoln-Lancaster County Health Department's division of environmental health, said the ordinance, prepared with the cooperation and participation of Lincoln industry, would cut down, but not eliminate entirely, such burnings by industry, the municipality and private citizens.

Sanger said that while Lincoln does not have the air pollution problems found in many large cities, certain weather conditions, usually in early morning or late evening, do help to contain pollution in the city air. This occurs during temperature inversions, when a warm layer of air is above a collar layer, thus preventing the latter, and any pollution it contains, from escaping from the city. —Editor.

Karnopp Ability

Lincoln—In 1942 I was privileged to appoint Merle Karnopp deputy sheriff of Lancaster County. Merle served in this capacity for eight years and was an outstanding officer. He attended the National FBI Academy to prepare himself for sheriff and was elected to that office in 1950. Since moving on a farm I have had to call the sheriff's office on several occasions and received prompt, courteous and efficient service. Lancaster County is fortunate to have Merle Karnopp as sheriff. I'm in a position to know. MYLES HOLLOWAY
Former Lancaster County Sheriff

TV Ad

North Platte—A TV ad being run makes me laugh at how hypocritical some candidates can be.

It has an elderly gentleman walking to his mail box and back to his car mumbling (of course quite clearly) to the effect that Carl Curtis is against everything and he is going to vote against him because he doesn't want the nation to think Nebraskans are against everything.

The point of interest is the old gent's car license plate. It starts E-F. In Nebraska our plates start with numerals and then letters.

If a man is going to criticize Carl Curtis and try to influence votes he should first be from Nebraska. MRS. JANICE D. LARSEN

Services for Blind

Lincoln—Bess Jenkins' story (Sunday Journal and Star, Oct. 2) on James Radcliffe, was a very good story, and our staff thanks you very much. Ours is not a "glamour" agency, nor a large one in personnel, but it is an extremely important, hard-working state agency. We are a service agency; and try to reach every blind or visually impaired person within the state. It was not for publicity's sake that we appreciate your writing the story, but for a great measure, helping our service agency to become better known to the public—for that we are very grateful. JAMES ROY MILLER Supervisor, Special Services, for Visually Impaired.

Nebraska's Fourth Estate

Nebraska editors wrote in the mainstream of politics last week—and that mainstream might include the Loup River.

Criticizing a proposed power agency realignment, the Albion News, asked whether area power customers were "sold down the Loup River." Only last year, Albion signed a 30-year franchise with Consumers Public Power District. Under the proposal, Albion would be served by the Loup River Public Power District.

"First, top management of Loup knows, little about retail service, and, second, Loup will be a small district, comparatively, and may be unable to call on the considerable facilities that Consumers commands.

"This newspaper believes that all power generation, transmission and distribution in the state should be controlled by one board, and only one board. Evidence is plentiful that Consumers... is the agency best equipped to take over and operate all power facilities in the state.

"We don't want to be sold down the river, as a pawn in the struggle between the various boards to see which group eventually lands on top of the heap."

A contrasting view came from the Lexington Clipper, which said Nebraskans appear to approve the proposed alignment. "We believe the power people are making a wise effort, and we hope it can be carried through to a successful conclusion."

In early endorsements, two newspapers—the York Daily News-Times and the Nebraska City News-Press—supported Wausa banker Norbert Tiemann, Republican candidate for governor.

Citing Tiemann's rural background, the News-Times said: "It is our feeling both Sorensen and Tiemann would work hard toward attracting new industry, so important to the state anymore, but we contend Tiemann, in doing so, would remember that agriculture still is Nebraska's largest industry and probably will be for evermore."

Of Sorensen, the News-Press, noting "We'll take Tiemann," said it was "unable to discover what, if any, business or administrative experience young Phil Sorensen has had. He has a brother who once had a desk in the White House, and his father was a well-known Nebraska politician. This hardly qualifies Phil to be governor."

Politics also included such diverse items as barbecue sauce and property tax.

The Dakota County Star (South Sioux City) urged voters to reject the proposed income tax and keep a property tax. The Star thinks the U.S. government already dominates this field and looks upon the income tax as simply a dodge to obtain more money for state government."

Half-Answers Out

Washington—When will the politicians, from the President down, come to realize that the American people do not want soft, tardy, timid half-answers to tough problems? I'm not talking theory; I'm talking provable fact. The truth is that the public is far more mature than most politicians think and it's time they woke up.

A vivid example is the failure of the Johnson administration to apply a prompt and decisive brake to inflation when the need to do so became evident early this year. Most economists, including some of the President's own advisers, saw at least nine months ago that the other half of the "new economics" ought to be invoked, namely, a major restraint on the overbooming economy.

But the politicians, including LBJ, held up their hands in pious horror at the very idea of proposing a tax increase in an election year. Why, they said, that would break all the rules.

Mr. Johnson was certain Congress would run away from it like a scared candidate and, by not proposing such a thing, he never found out what Congress would do. They were all just too certain the voters were not mature enough to accept some immediate pain in higher taxes to avert a greater evil. They were all just too certain, if they did what was needed when it would do the most good, the voters would punish them.

But what is the evidence? Does it suggest that in this fall's congressional elections, the voters are disposed to punish those who now stand for or have advocated strong anti-inflationary medicine?

Not at all. The evidence now available shows that anxiety over mounting inflation is the leading issue in the campaign, even more potent than the impact of racial violence.

Inflationary Curb

This is the widespread feeling of those who are running for office and it is the judgment of political writers. But there is more proof. The latest Louis Harris nation-wide poll finds that by better than 3 to 1 voters are more inclined to vote for congressional candidates who favor strong federal action to curb inflation.

Anti-inflation measures were needed earlier this year. The President held back. Congress held back—both, in part, because they feared that public reaction would be against them if they took strong action. The evidence is that the public is against their inaction—and that shows a mature, informed, and alert state of public opinion.

Most economists, bankers, businessmen, and the public accepted in 1964 the use of tax reduction, despite the federal deficit, to stimulate the economy and cut the high rate of unemployment. The economy responded well.

That was fine, just the right medicine. Keynesian economics was at work to good effect.

But there is a second rule the government must live by in Keynesian doctrine. When there is strong inflationary pressure and the economy is becoming overheated because total spending is too high, then taxes must be raised and government spending decreased.

This second rule—that of restraining the economy—is admittedly more difficult but it is crucial. Spending is fun for most politicians; cutting spending is painful. Cutting taxes is fun, but raising taxes to halt the worse evil of inflation is deemed by most politicians to be painful.

But if the government is going to relish stimulating the economy and neglect restraining it when needed, then we are in for trouble, because no nation can long prosper half-Keynesian and half-laissez-faire.

Fortunately, public opinion may be about to teach the politicians a lesson.

'Lots of Leisure Isn't So Great'

Leigh, England (UPI) — Cliff Porter switched off the vacuum cleaner, sprinted in to the kitchen and scooped a drip-dry shirt out of the washing machine.

"I'll be with you in a minute," he said, apologetically. "Wash-days are a bit of a rush."

Cliff is 30, married, has two daughters and is one of Europe's first workmen to go on an official three-day week on full pay.

Hence his domestic chores including the cooking.

He works Sunday, Monday and Tuesday nights, then has the next seven days off before working Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

He is one of an increasing band of cotton workers operating a revolutionary shift system at Sir John Holden's mill in this Lancashire town.

The workers are split into two teams. Each team works a 10½ hour shift on three days. It means that costly machinery can run 135 hours a week instead of 105.

Already output at the mill is rising.

Problem Arises
The Trades Union Congress and unions generally are watching the experiment. After six months' trial both workers and employers are still happy but a problem new to fully employed Britain has emerged.

The cotton workers of "his town of 50,000 are totally unprepared for the increased leisure time. It's not so bad for the married men but the single lads are grumbling.

"It used to be a struggle to make ends meet," said Cliff. "Now my wife goes out to work while I do the housework and cook for my daughters. All the wife has to do when she gets home is put her feet up!"

Peter Taylor, a 30-year-old bachelor, sees it differently. "It was marvelous experience to begin with. There was plenty of time for fishing and general relaxation. But now I'm just bored, waiting for my firmed to finish work."

"I've tried gardening, decorating, going to the cine-

Knowledge Closed
The trouble lies partly in what the town of Leigh has to offer. Betting shops and bingo parlors in every street, but few cultural facilities. No live theatre, no art gallery.

Sociologists are pressing for a change in the education system to meet the challenge of leisure.

"Unless we teach our children how to cope with increased leisure," their argument goes, "the next generation will turn out to be an army of loafers and delinquents."

Dr. V. L. Allen, senior lecturer in industrial economics at Leeds University, blames specialization.

"Children are becoming so specialized," he said, "that whole areas of knowledge are being closed to them. A much bigger part of their school curriculum must be devoted to developing a taste for music, literature, drama and the arts. Learning must not stop at 18 — it must go on to the grave.

"And we must plan now!"

Air Force Investigates UFOs Seen— Flying Saucers 'Respectable' Again

By United Press International
Flying saucers are respectable again.

The Air Force has given University of Colorado scientists $300,000 to investigate sightings of unidentified flying objects (UFO). New UFO theories are popping up like swamp gas in a fast thaw, and scholarly magazines are treating them with straight-faced respect.

The Air Force, which documents its UFO findings through Project Blue Book, has been insisting for years that most UFO sightings can be traced to a variety of natural but unusual things including swamp gas, weather balloons and planets.

Scientists and astronomers still scoff at the notion that we're being visited by aircraft from outer space, manned or remote controlled. But they admit their predecessors 100 years ago would have been just as negative if someone had suggested atomic power.

Dr. J. Allen Hynek, Northwestern University astrophysicist who has investigated saucer reports for 18 years under a contract with the Air Force says his scientific mind still rejects the spaceship theory.

"Admit Possibility"
But his conversations with hundreds of UFO witnesses, many of them policemen and other credible types, lead him to "admit the possibility."

"There's no doubt they (UFOs) are gaining respectability, mainly because of the

Chicago Daily News Special

Osceola, Ind.—Sheriff William J. Locks has unmasked the supposed ghost of St. Joseph County.

The sheriff has reported this was no messy little ghost. It was a messy little boy.

He refused to say which little boy had been responsible for furniture and other household items flying through the air at the home of Walter Szlanfuch, 32.

But he called the case "closed."

Locks said he would have a talk with the parents of the boy.

He consulted scientists, including a psychologist, from the nearby University of Notre Dame before announcing:

"It would appear that all the things that happened in this house were caused by the actions of a juvenile, not by any phenomena."

The boy, whoever he was, made a mess of the Szlanfuch home for three weeks. In his ghost role he succeeded in fooling a lot of people including some hard-headed sheriff's deputies.

The sheriff declined to elaborate on how the lad pulled off the messy kid stuff.

The announcement was expected to bring relief to Szlanfuch, whose family includes his wife, Jessie, 26, and son, Jack, 9.

caliber of people who are making the reports," Hynek said.

Dr. James McDonald, senior physicist at the Institute of Atmospheric Physics, University of Arizona, broke sharply with scientific opinion two weeks ago. He said he believes UFOs come from outside the earth's atmosphere and are "operated or controlled in some way by thinking beings."

Few other scientists agree.

Dr. Edward Ney, professor of astrophysics at the University of Minnesota, and Dr. Hazel Losh, professor of astronomy at the University of Michigan, said respectable scientists don't even discuss UFOs in serious terms.

"Nothing within the framework of physics as we know it now" could send a vehicle to earth from the nearest planet which scientists think might be inhabited, Ney said.

Scientists don't think there is life on other planets within our solar system. They said the nearest galaxy which might nourish life is about 10 light years away. That's 60 trillion miles, about 650,000 times further than the 93 million miles between earth and our sun.

Religious Groups
At the other extreme are religious flying saucer groups like the Aetherius society whose members periodically conduct nightlong prayer vigils waiting the second coming. They claim Jesus Christ rode to earth in a flying saucer and will do it again.

Between the scientists and the Aetherians are the people, and they're not so sure. The sightings near Ann Arbor and Hillsdale, Mich., which hit front pages, news magazines and television networks last March were the first in recent years to gain widespread publicity.

Hynek's now-famous conclusion that the Michigan witnesses saw luminous swamp gas, not flying saucers, failed to stem the rash of sightings reported since. The range of witnesses is impressive.

Robert A. Bennett, a Federal Aviation Agency official at an Atlanta airport, said he saw several objects flashing red, green and blue July 25. He said they were seen by "several people here who are reputable witnesses who work for the FAA."

Scattered sightings, many by policemen, have been reported from all sections of the country during recent months. Most sightings are never scientifically investigated, a fact which Hynek said is little known.

Hynek is Blue Book's only scientific adviser. He said the 18-month "in depth" UFO study to be conducted by Dr. Edward U. Condon of the University of Colorado should be able to do a much more thorough job.

With scientists saying no and witnesses saying yes, the trend in UFO theories is between the two extremes of hallucinations and spacemen. Philip J. Klass, a technical writer for Aviation Week & Space Technology Magazine, suggested this month that UFOs are plasmas of ionized air created by natural forces.

Klass said many low-altitude UFOs are special form of plasma called ball lightning, sometimes created by lightning or by electrical discharges along high-voltage power lines. High-flying UFOs, he said, "in most cases... are plasmas of ionized air, sometimes containing charged dust particles."

Morality Book Expected To Raise Criticism

London (AP)—A book on Christian morality produced by a church-appointed committee is expected to raise a storm because it refuses to condemn sexual intercourse outside marriage. It also approves birth control advice for the unwed.

The Rev. Kenneth G. Greet, a Methodist clergyman who was chairman of the book committee, told reporters: "We hope our report will do something to help correct the distorted image of the church as consisting of sexless saints sitting in judgment on the passionate sins of less disciplined mortals."

Commissioned by the British Council of Churches, representing most Christian denominations in this country, the book will appear Tuesday. It is entitled "Sex and Morality." On the committee were clergymen, educators, writers and doctors.

The committee is putting its books up for approval at a council of churches meeting later this month and hopes it wins endorsement "as a statement of widely held and respectable Christian belief," the Rev. Greet said.

The book's major controversial point is expected to be that it refuses to say that sexual intercourse outside marriage is invariably wrong—as most earlier studies of this kind have done. It also claims that the harmful effects of masturbation have been "grossly overemphasized."

"No rule can cover all the varied and complex situations in which men and women find themselves," the book says. "Moreover, an action which is in outward confor-

The report approved birth control information for the unwed "provided it is advice and not merely the impersonal and commercial distribution of appliances."

The authors called for abortion to be "freed from many of the present legal restrictions" which ban it except to save a mother's health.

Red Cross Sends Vietnam Sergeant Home to Wife

By MARJ MARLETTE
Sgt. Hugh B. Morris was in the middle of a flood and 11,000 miles from home when he got the message: His wife was seriously ill; his six children had no one to look after them.
Sent by the Red Cross, the emergency news came by radio.
For weeks the air field nearest Tan An had been under water. Mail arrived only at rare intervals to the small, high ground compound where a 13-member advisory team lived in the midst of rising waters.
"I was," said Sgt. Morris, "about as far out in the field as you could possibly get."

But less than three days later he was back in Lincoln where his family needed him.
His quick trip is a dramatic story of what the Red Cross can do for servicemen in an emergency and of the assistance they can give his family in reaching him.
Sgt. Morris, who has 1942 years in the service, had been in Vietnam since June. He is a medical adviser to the Vietnamese. Previously, he had served just about everywhere Uncle Sam sends his men — in Europe during World War II; in France and Germany later; in Korea twice. Before going to the Asian front, he had been stationed at Walter Reed Hospital in Washington.

Whenever he goes where his family can't, he brings them to Lincoln to await his return.
A month ago the Red Cross had sent Morris happier news: his wife had just given birth to a baby son — their sixth. Then she became ill and had to go back to the hospital. The children, ranging in age from the new one to the 15-year-old, are all boys. They had no one to care for them.
That's when the emergency message began its journey.

Started by the Lincoln Red Cross, it went to Saigon in Vietnam, then to Can Tho, then to Morris at Tan An.
It arrived at 6:15 p.m. on a Friday, Vietnam time, Morris said, and "over there, it's practically impossible to move, to do anything at night."
But he got out of Tan An anyway. A helicopter flew him to Can Tho where he contacted the Red Cross field director. From there, a military craft took him to Saigon, regional forces headquarters of the "Mac V" — Military Assistance Command.

Arriving at Saigon at 12:15 noon Saturday, he found the Red Cross had already talked to military headquarters and his orders for an emergency leave were ready. "All I had to do was pick them up."
At 2 a.m. Sunday, Vietnamese time, he left Saigon in a commercial plane chartered by the government.
There's a time differential of 18 hours, so when he arrived at International Airport in San Francisco at 9:30 a.m., after a brief stop at Travis Air Force base, it was 2 1/2 hours later.
He spent seven hours at International waiting for the next plane through to Omaha. (He decided not to go to Denver and wait, he said, because he had on a short-sleeved khaki shirt and it was cold, even in California in October. As far as time, it wouldn't have made much difference in getting home.) At 4:45 p.m. he left on a commercial flight.
In Omaha he hopped off one plane and onto another, and reached Lincoln at 10:15 p.m.
His trip had a top priority rating all the way through.
Desires Neb. Assignment.
Reaching home on Oct. 2, he found his wife still in the hospital. On the following Friday, just over a week ago, he brought her home to recuperate. He now hopes to be reassigned somewhere in Nebraska so he can be with his family permanently.

Though dedicated to his career, "my family has to come first now," he said. "That's why the Red Cross' contribution can mean so much."
Coming clear from Vietnam, he said, "I'm certain if it hadn't been for the Red Cross, I'd never have made it. You can't ask for better or speedier service than what they're giving today."

Past United Fund contributions enabled the Red Cross to help the Morris family and many others. Still more, yet unknown, will benefit by the $196,638 which the Red Cross will receive from the 1967 United Fund goal of $875,682.

$35.8 Million Street Program

No Official Action Since Plan Presented

By LEO SCHERER
Buried somewhere in the City Council's file of reports is a study made public in March, 1965.
This is a recommended 10-year, $35.8 million street improvement program for Lincoln.
"The next move is up to the Council," said acting Public Works Director Robert Obering when he presented it in 1965. "Our department feels the city now is in dire need of a street improvement program."

When it was presented, Council members expressed pleasure with the completeness of the report. But so far no official actions on it and the suggested methods of financing the program have been taken—at least not publicly.
A 1963 traffic study showed city street improvements could cost more than $50 million by 1980 but the city would have only $20 million, or less than half of the necessary revenue to do the street work programmed.

New Appointees

Watch for the mayor and City Council soon to make some key appointments.

There must still be appointed the nine-member Commission on Human Rights, the mayor's administrative assistant and an economic development head.

The Council has been going along with the mayor's appointments which are handled in the form of a resolution during Council meetings.

There also might be some action soon to remove the "acting" portion of the title of some key city officials.

Mallon's Report

Because of an idea about six years ago by City Finance Director James Mallon, citizens now have a chance to know more about local government.

Mallon's annual pamphlet is loaded with facts regarding the recently adopted city budget and related matters.

The pamphlets are going out with city real estate tax statements which now are in the mails.

The pamphlet could, but doesn't, tell the taxpayers of key problems facing the city, such as lack of funds for street improvements, a lagging storm sewer program and undermanned police department.

Permitless Building

The University of Nebraska and other governmental subdivisions are not required by law to take out city building permits on new construction.

If they were, the city would have much more accurate records of building and the amounts could be part of the monthly construction total.

Charles Seale, the city building inspections superintendent, feels it's important that all governmental subdivisions take out permits even though no fees would be required.

Things also now seem slim that 1966 city building permits will equal or go over the record of $27,382,110 set in 1962.

Closed Circuit TV for NU Health Center?

Hospitalization at the University of Nebraska Health Center is no longer a reason for skipping some classes, thanks to University Television.

At least there's no excuse for students enrolled in classes taught via closed circuit television.

Installing TV sets in the student hospital is one of several new applications for closed circuit television now under way or under study at the University, according to Dr. M. Scheffel Pierce, faculty coordinator for instructional TV (ITV).

For about the past three years, ITV has been used to beam economics, education and psychology lectures into campus classrooms. Recent figures indicate that some 1,100 University students, representing about 45,000 student-hours of TV instruction this semester, benefit from the program.

Closed circuit connections will be established with the new College of Dentistry on East Campus and with Clare McPhee Public School and Lincoln's new East High School.

A class will be added for the spring semester entitled Electrical Circuits. The course was taped at Purdue University and taught by William H. Hayt Jr., chairman of Purdue's School of Electrical Engineering.

Pierce said he has had requests for closed circuit TV applications in music, biology, zoology, philosophy of education, and inquiries in engineering, health and physical education.

Other closed circuit University Television shows have been on orientation for parents of new students, orientation for student teachers and a show depicting spatial relationships for the College of Architecture.

Closed circuit television moves to the University of Nebraska Student Health Center to give patients a chance to keep up with some classes.

High Court Decision Watched

Church Taxes Were Involved

By HAROLD SIMMONS

Some Lancaster County officials were keeping a close watch last week to see if the U.S. Supreme Court would agree to hear an appeal of a Maryland state court decision that church property is exempt from taxation.

The case held interest here because the county moved into the same area two years ago by putting some church property, primarily parsonages, on tax lists and has since been forced to backtrack and return the property to its exempt status.

The high court refused, without comment, to hear the case and legal opinion is that this will be cited in future cases concerning taxation of church property.

One county official pointed out that though the Maryland court refused to allow taxation of churches and parsonages, it acknowledged as "strong" the argument that such exemption amounts to a direct appropriation to churches.

Contrary to what might be expected, the Lancaster County Board of Equalization did not meet a terrific amount of opposition when it ruled some church property taxable.

In fact, when church officials and ministers now appear before the board for the minor legal step of having the property again ruled tax exempt, it is not unusual for some to say they agree with the board's previous action.

The only point they argue is that all churches should be treated equally—either all be tax exempt or all taxed.

Light Court Week

Business was comparatively light this week in the district courts and office of the Clerk of the District Court.

The State Bar Assn. meeting in Omaha Thursday and Friday and the partially-observed holiday Wednesday occupied the time of a number of attorneys and judges.

All legal business did not come to a halt, however. Several private attorneys stayed in Lincoln and the necessary judges and prosecutors remained to handle normal business.

No Rush to Pay

Printing lists of legal descriptions of property whose owners have failed to pay real estate taxes does not seem to produce much of a reaction.

At least the county treasurer's staff is not overworked and people haven't been standing in line to pay overdue taxes.

A list of some 8,000 pieces of property with delinquent taxes has been published twice in the newspaper.

During the first three days the treasurer's office was open after the first list was printed only 175 people paid property taxes and not all of these were delinquent taxes.

County Treasurer Carl Berg said there might be better results if names and addresses of property owners were printed instead of just the legal description.

This is one thing the county is considering for the future, probably after the scientific reappraisal of real estate is completed and when the county begins collecting real estate taxes for the city.

Graduate Degree Means More Dollars Than Bachelor's

By LLOYD MacDOWELL

A graduate degree is worth at least $1,000 more annual income than a B.A., according to economics writer Sylvia Porter.

This is one reason a record 493,000 Americans are enrolled this year in graduate and professional schools, a figure that is expected to double in the next decade.

Average cost of a year of graduate study is $4,120, and year's revenue would pay for a new 200-stall parking lot and for snow removal for seven or eight years. The catch — no place to put a new parking lot.

Nebraska State Education Association will conduct four Helpmobiles this year instead of two as in the past. Locations and dates: McCook, Feb. 11; Nebraska City, Feb. 18; Alliance, Feb. 25; and O'Neill, Mar. 4.

The staff will be expanded to include 17 demonstration teachers. Subject areas covered will be project English, use of library resources, special services and physical education. The Mid-Continent Regional Educational Laboratory will also be discussed.

Of Schools & Scholars

a Ph.D. may cost $20,000 on top of $10,000 to $12,000 for undergraduate work.

But help is available. Some 88,000 graduate fellowships and research assistantships worth a total of $175 million will be awarded this year. Four out of five college graduates in arts and sciences are receiving some kind of financial aid.

The value of fellowships has jumped to an average of $3,000.

The National Science Foundation has increased its fellowship and traineeship funds from $1.5 million to $35 million in the past ten years.

Parking Meters

Omaha University students are up in arms over a parking meter problem.

Jim McCarthy writes in the OU campus paper, the Gateway, that income from the parking lots but continues to produce an average of $8,000 a month.

The Passing of a Railroad Era

In Search of a Sunset Rocket Rides Rails To Retirement...Late

Blue-suited conductor R. L. Shepherd sadly figured a weathered watch. It was 11:35 p.m., and the Rock Island Rocket was rolling into Lincoln.

The Rocky Mountain Rocket was on its last run, now a east-off train in search of a sunset to ride off into. It didn't even have the decency to be on time.

Rocket No. 8 was two hours late. It was nearly midnight, and soon the famed Rocket, once one of the Midwest's most celebrated coaches, would revert to a pumpkin of the railroad industry.

Shepherd, conductor on the Rocket for several years, conductor the day in 1962 when former President Eisenhower had a private car on the Rocket, was not happy.

Engineers on Rocket No. 7, ending its career on the Omaha-Colorado run today, were not happy.

Four words coldly told a story: Rising cost, decreasing revenues.

But there was a more human story behind those words. This is that story.

It's a pity

In part, it's the story of a 71-year-old retired Denver mail carrier, Otto C. Perry, whose last ride on the Rock Island was on the steam engine-Rocky Mountain Limited during the depression.

Perry was spending a 20-hour round trip from Denver to Lincoln and back just because "I wanted to be riding. I just wanted to be on the last train."

He looked out the window. "It's a pity," he said.

Back in Fairbury, where a Rocket scheduled to leave at 7:59 p.m. left instead at 10:46 p.m., another man was looking out another window.

He was L. R. Stauss, a quiet, white-haired man who has been a Rocket engineer for four years.

"I'll have to go back to freight," he said.

He was asked whether a man can become sentimental about a huge piece of machinery.

"I think we do sometimes," he smiled. "I hate to see them take it off."

First Freight

Stauss, who has worked as a railroader since 1942, was on his last passenger train run. He pointed to some papers. "These orders here abolish my job when I make Council Bluffs. Then I'll head home on the first freight available."

He was also concerned about what might happen to railroaders with little seniority when the Rockets are gone.

Despite reports personnel would be transferred to new jobs and not laid off, the passing of the Rockets will mean a "loss of jobs that will hurt younger men," he said.

Mrs. Orton Miss Shepard

"Not at first," he noted, with a large amount of freight business now existing. "Not for the time being."

One of Stauss' passengers Saturday night was Mrs. Mafalda Orton. She, too, was sentimental about the last run.

"I kind of hate to think of it," she said, and she noted the effect on "people who don't have any other way. It's like a town closing up on you. I feel sorry for the people who devote all their life to it — and those losing their jobs."

(Rocket No. 8 was completing its eastern run from Colorado to Chicago. This was its last run.)

(The west-bound Rocket, Train No. 7, arrived in Lincoln at 12:36 a.m. It will go to Denver and Colorado Springs, then return as Rocket No. 8 east-bound night only.)

(Its arrival time tonight in Lincoln was not certain, a Lincoln spokesman said, because of its departure from schedule. The Rocket was to leave Lincoln at 8:49 p.m. today, however, he said.)

(When it leaves Omaha tonight, there will no longer be Rocket service between Omaha and Colorado.)

These and others are the many friends of R. L. Shepherd, the people he knows by sight as Rocket customers. People like Mrs. Ruby Heidek, a Fairbury widow visiting friends in Lincoln.

Mrs. Heidek rode the Rocket from two to four times a month on a railroad pass. And, she admits, "I'll certainly hate to see it taken off. Sentimental? Certainly. I'm very sentimental."

"When you ride on a train, you don't have to watch traffic you just sit down and relax and that's it."

Too-Too-Too-Toodle-oo It's 'Freights Only' Again for Fairbury

Fairbury—This town stood ready today—though certainly not willing—to wave its last good-bye to train passenger service.

For the first time in some 95 years, the Jefferson county seat was to have only freights running over its rails. The Rock Island Rocket is scheduled to roar through Sunday night for the last time.

The Interstate Commerce Commission authorized the removal this week, despite pleas by this town and others to continue the service. A revenue loss cited by the railroad provoked the decision.

Fortunately for Fairbury, a train crew terminal, the loss is expected to mean less economically than sentimentally.

Grant Goes To LARC

Lincoln Foundation board members have approved a $1,725 grant to the Lancaster Assn. for Retarded Children (LARC) to aid in making a feasibility study on a proposed sheltered workshop program.

LARC, according to Director Leola Novak, is seeking the remaining $6,000 study cost in a federal vocational rehabilitation grant application.

She explained the study would take about seven months. After that time, a decision will be made on whether a workshop should be added to the LARC program at 84th and Adams.

If the project goes ahead, Mrs. Novak told the foundation there are federal construction funds on which to draw.

She reported Nebraska has one other sheltered workshop into which retarded children outgrowing LARC and similar schools can go. This is the crowded Martin Luther program in Beatrice.

The Lincoln Foundation board approved two other grants: $2,500 to the YM-YW to help finance the comparatively new Lin-Co-Y program and $250 to the Salvation Army Community Center to buy equipment for the preschool nursery program.

The LARC and Lin-Co-Y grants were made from the Nelle Cochrane Woods trust account. The Salvation Army grant was made from the Book of Memories fund.

The board was informed pledges and payments to the Lincoln Foundation endowment fund now total $757,000. Only income from this fund is used for grants. Foundation assets amount to $2 million.

Names of three more benefactors have been added to the endowment fund: Clarence G. Miles, Lewis J. Messer and Henry J. Amen. Each gave $25,000.

Fourteen crewmen now assigned to passenger service will be absorbed into freight duty.

"As long as business holds, it doesn't appear the change will affect local employment at all," consoled one rail official.

Although losing its division offices to Des Moines approximately a year ago, Fairbury still has some 125 Rock Island employees. Passenger crews have been working between Omaha and Phillipsburg, Kan.

The change has other implications, however, which have local business leaders disturbed. Al Boettcher, Chamber of Commerce president, noted that the elimination will be "a definite hardship on some people, particularly the elderly who don't drive."

"We greatly lament the transportation loss and we're concerned about the influence on mail," he said. "And of course we're hopeful that our railroad personnel will not be affected adversely."

Special Session 'Sure Thing' if No. 2 Passes

By DICK HERMAN

If you are a betting man or woman, the prospect of a Nebraska Legislature special session soon after next month's general election should not be considered a long shot.

If voters approve Constitutional Amendment 2, authorizing travel and limited expenses for senators while at work, a special session is certain.

Gov. Frank B. Morrison already has said he would summon solons for an emergency session on this point.

For unless the current crop of lawmakers implements the constitutional amendment with dollar specifics, members of the incoming Legislature are barred from receiving the amendment's benefit.

A point of far greater concern among legislators, private conversations disclose, is the continued steady flow of revenue into the state treasury, if both the property tax and the not-yet-operative income tax are smashed by the electorate Nov. 8.

"Exactly That"

Most sources and major office-seekers believe exactly that ballot circumstance will develop, too.

Presumably, then, it would be up to the 1967 Legislature to enact a new revenue system replacing the stricken property tax—a system now providing state government with almost $50 million annually.

Not until the autumn of 1967 will the money loss of the property tax system begin severely pinching state activities.

The period between the date "new" money is needed and when a replacement revenue system can be designed and implemented, therefore, is relatively brief.

State Tax Commissioner George Dworak says his office should have reasonable time to prepare for whatever tax system the Legislature cooks up.

"Not Too Long"

Six months would not be too long for implementing a sales tax, Dworak said.

Developing an administration for a state income tax might take a bit longer, according to the commissioner.

Noting the requirement his office begin enforcing the 1965 state income tax on Jan. 1, 1967, if the law is not repealed Nov. 8, Dworak observed: "Nothing is impossible."

"But when you have to get on crash programs, there are bound to be errors and it is bound to be much more expensive than otherwise," Dworak said.

This is a point of consideration.

able anxiety among some senators, too, who think a state sales tax—if Nebraska is to have one—should start collecting pennies no later than July 1, 1967.

If there be a combination sales-income tax, the income

Municipal Court

Letter to Mayor Cites Need for Third Judge

By LEO SCHERER

Appropriate steps should be taken to add a third Municipal Court judge as soon as it can be accomplished after the first of the year.

This was the recommendation in a letter to Mayor Dean Petersen from Municipal Court Judges Richard O. Johnson and Thomas J. McManus.

The present municipal court judges made these points to support the hiring of another judge:

—The drastic increase in cases filed since the appointment of two judges has placed a burden on the court to the extent that it cannot fairly handle cases on an individual basis in certain areas, particularly with respect to traffic cases;

—There would be no great financial hardship involved. The court collected over $75,000 more in 1965-66 than in the previous year.

"There is every reason to expect further steady increases to such an extent that a fourth judge will be necessary within the next few years," the judges' letter added.

The judges said a third judge should be added as soon as possible after the Legislature convenes in January.

"No great change need be made in existing state law," said the judges. "Section 26-102 need be amended only by changing the word 'two' to 'three' in that section relating to the number of judges."

Insurance Loan Hike Is Reported

Tight Money Said Reason

By JACK FROST

Three large, local life insurance companies have reported an increase in loans to policyholders, but officials say it is offset by an increase in total assets.

The increase in loan demand is due primarily to the tight money market and rate of interest increase at banks according to three sources contacted. The percentage rate of interest for a policyholder loan remains at 5% (this may vary downward due to size of the loan).

Three local life insurance companies with home office in Lincoln were used as sources for opinions and statistics: Bankers Life Nebraska, Security Mutual Life, and Woodmen Accident and Life.

The advantages in a hard or tight money period in using one's accumulated amount in a life insurance policy for a loan are simple.

The rate of interest is 5%, repayment can be made anytime, anyway, or not at all. The companies do encourage repayment of the loan for the advantage of the insured.

It is a policyholder's contractual privilege, says Don Leising of Security Mutual, to ask for and receive the amount of the accrued cash and loan value in a policy.

Form of Savings

There is term life insurance where the person pays for pure protection and ordinary life which combines protection and a form of savings.

Loans are not made on the term life policies because there is no savings feature in them.

E. J. Faulkner of Woodmen Accident and Life reaffirmed that a policyholder has the right to borrow up to the loan limit and is guaranteed this right.

How great is the increase in loans and what effect does this have on the life insurance industry?

John Alden of Bankers Life Nebraska reported that 23,610 loans have been made in the past year which constitutes 11.73% of total policyholders. Compare this with 22,958 this time last year which was 11.66% of the total insured and 1961 when 20,245 had loans and made up 11.19% of total policy owners.

With these figures one can see only a fraction of a percent increase of the total persons insured was recorded.

Regents OK Improvement Request of $24.1 Million

Inflation, enrolment and federal funds were given as reasons for University of Nebraska Regents' request for a stepped up building program for the next biennium.

Regents Saturday gave approval to a request for $24,145,000 in state tax funds for 1967-69 capital improvements, $7,082,500 more than the $17,062,500 authorized by the 1965 legislature.

Chancellor Clifford M. Hardin pointed to the steadily increasing cost of construction, up an estimated 20% from the time the authorization was made, as one need for more money to provide buildings anticipated nearly two years ago.

The 20% increase would put a $20,457,000 price tag on construction estimated at $17,062,500 in 1965.

Enrollment increase Acceleration of enrolment increases far beyond expectations when current biennium appropriations were made indicates a need for speeding up plans to provide required classroom and laboratory space.

The building budget anticipates $8,527,500 in federal matching funds, available for the next biennium but with no guarantee of availability in the 1969-71 biennium.

The stepped-up budget calls for expenditures of state funds totalling $16,495,000 on the City Campus, $2,500,000 on East Campus and Outstate Centers and $5,150,000 on the College of Medicine in Omaha.

Anticipated federal and other grants would be $5,640,000, $300,000 and $2,587,000 respectively for the three campuses.

The Regents are requesting that four years of building for the College of Medicine be compressed into two years.

The capital funds budget combined with a requested $38,662,406 operating funds would result in a total budget of $122,807,406, of which $91,164,893 would come from state tax funds.

The Regents also approved a total of $2,122,588 in gifts and grants received since July 28.

Diesel Air Horn Is Silenced

like 18-year-old Karen Shepard of Des Moines, Ia., returning home after "seeing friends" in Denver.

"It's kinda bad they're taking it off," she said. Her only other railroad trip was when she was five years old, she said. And that was on the Rocket.

"I'll Miss You" And in the back of the Rocket, conductor Shepherd was fingering the watch that read 11:35 p.m. The train stopped at the Lincoln depot on its final run.

Mrs. Heidelt stepped off and looked at Shepherd. "Goodbye. I'm going to miss you boys."

Getting off at Fairbury after coming in from Phillipsburg, Kan., were brothers Ivan and Fred Ayers of Fairbury. Ivan was engineer and Fred was fireman.

Only a few stood by to watch their passing as the Rock Island Rockets rode the rails to retirement.

The eastbound Rocket had been more than two hours late. The westbound Rocket was better; it was 50 minutes late leaving Lincoln.

Its conductor, Donald L. Kruse of Fairbury, termed its passenger load one of the lightest he has experienced as a Rocket conductor — a job he has held for three months.

Besides the crew, there were 30 passengers aboard the last Rocket out of Omaha, with a reporter as the only Lincoln-bound passenger.

This compared with 38 revenue passengers aboard its sister, east-bound train.

Job Hunting With the crew change at Fairbury, eight engineers and six trainmen will be looking for other Rock Island jobs.

Crew members aboard the last westbound train included Kruse, Duane Dixon, brakeman; Marvin Lofing, engineer, and Don Sturms, fireman. All are from Fairbury.

Conductor Krause also indicated that the Rocky Mountain Rocket had not run for several days this past week because of a switchman's strike which tied up the railroad, and a recent wreck near Formosa, Kansas.

He indicated that the irregular schedule this week has probably discouraged some passengers from using the train.

The Rocky Mountain Rocket will continue to run between Chicago and Omaha. Although Saturday night was the last run for westbound Rocket No. 7, the equipment has to be turned around and brought back to Omaha. So, on Sunday night only the eastbound Train No. 8 will run on the old schedule. After that, the once-famous route to Denver and Colorado Springs, Colorado will be freight only.

The days of crowds were many miles behind. But there were those days when the Rockets brought out crowds, some to cheer, some to mourn.

It was November of 1942, and several thousand gathered at the Lincoln depot, already in its middle age, to see the famed Rocket when it was on exhibit here. They came to cheer.

The mourners gathered on the night of June 25, 1954, during the worst Rocket accident to occur in the area.

This was when, in the words of one of the 225 passengers, "There was just a bumping and rumbling and then things started flying all over the place."

The Rocket had blared past the brown and yellow Hallam depot as usual at 9:48 p.m. on a Friday. Five minutes later, it lay a twisted pretzel of steel 1 1/4 miles north of Hallam.

Sixty-two were hospitalized in Lincoln, Beatrice and Crete. No one died.

Although the Rockets are leaving, the Rock Island will continue and possibly expand its freight services.

The Rocket will continue operating between Chicago and Omaha, but it will no longer run west through Lincoln and Fairbury to the Rocky Mountains for which it was named.

One of the first streamlined diesel-powered trains, it today is a name train in name only, a victim of the automobile, airlines and competing railroads.

Tax Plans Seen for 'Special'

tax feature might be implemented Jan. 1, 1963. It is thought. A state income tax can take advantage of federal income tax reporting and enforcement by keying to a Jan. 1 start.

Several Weeks A special legislative session in November would not be lacking well-researched tax proposals.

Several senators have had competitive sales and income tax measures in preparation stages for weeks.

Morrison expects his dormant "blue ribbon" tax committee to have a proposal, if need be. Republican gubernatorial nominee Norbert Tiemann reported last week his combination sales-income tax ideas are being drafted in legislative form. And Democratic gubernatorial nominee Philip Sorensen earlier provided details of his combination tax plan.

One of the reported perils of battling out a new tax system in a regular legislative session is entanglement with other critical issues.

There is said to be a belief, too, senators not coming back in January may feel freer about voting for controversial tax legislation.

At Least Six At least six of the present 49 lawmakers won't be around when the new regular session convenes.

A seventh lawmaker, Lincoln Sen. Marvin E. Stromer, also has announced plans to resign the day the next governor is inaugurated.

Arguing against any major tax program from a special session is a conviction only members of the 1967 Legislature might be regarded having a mandate to take action.

Fairbury remains a crew-change city on the Rock Island, but the freight yard is quieter now, the round house is gone and the division headquarters has been moved to Des Moines, Ia.

The Union Pacific discontinued passenger service to Fairbury decades ago. Now there are two attractive passenger stations in Fairbury, and no passenger trains.

Lincoln residents can now slumber undisturbed. With many Lincoln grade crossings, the diesels' air horns had a heavy workout in earlier days. Engineers showing off their talent on the whistle were sure of an audience no matter what the hour.

Football Fans Hospitalized

Two spectators at the Kansas State-Nebraska football game were taken to Lincoln hospitals from Memorial Stadium.

Clair Searcy, 59, 620 West Park, apparently suffered a heart attack during the game and was taken to Bryan Memorial Hospital, according to hospital officials. He was reported in fair condition late Saturday night.

William Sharp, 47, of Omaha was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital after he collapsed during the game. He was reported in poor condition Saturday night.

That Faithful Friend, Your Newspaper Carrier, Is Honored

As you read the newspaper, become aware that Saturday was a day set aside for recognition of newspaper boys—including your carrier.

It was time to honor those youngsters who bring to your door during all kinds of weather—the Lincoln Journal, The Lincoln Star and the Sunday Journal and Star. Over the state, morning and evening and on Sunday, some young person is learning to be a better businessman through delivering newspapers and servicing his route.

Carriers from the Journal and the Star and other Nebraska dailies were honored Saturday with a luncheon, a visit with the governor, and viewing the NU—Kansas State football game.

Along with these honors, the outstanding Journal carrier Roger Bast, Fairbury, and Star carrier Joseph L'Heureux, Holdrege, received a $25 Savings Bond each. Making the presentation on behalf of Lincoln Elks Lodge 80 was Exalted Ruler Howard Spahnle.

Outstanding Here is the story of the two outstanding carriers.

Upon trying to contact Joe L'Heureux about his award, it was learned he was not home.

"He was out trying to get customers when you called," his mother said.

This is a perfect example of the kind of lad Joe happens to be. Since taking over his route in February, he has increased circulation on dailies from 24 to 69 and on Sunday papers from 19 to 62.

Church Choir

The sixth grader is reported as a 90 to 95 student who plays the cornet in the school band. He is active in the church choir and is in the process of joining the Boy Scouts.

An outfielder for two years in Little League baseball, he is interested in all sports. Swimming prowess has earned him two trophies.

Under the heading of hobbies, Joe is interested in camping and engineering. His basement becomes a lab for chemistry and building model cars.

For this award winning carrier an exciting moment came when the mail produced an invitation from the governor for lunch at the mansion. There are plans this may be framed and most likely have a special place on the wall in his room.

Inside The Screen Some random comments from subscribers in Holdrege on Joe:

"Very good carrier. He always puts the paper inside the screen door so it can't get wet," said Richard Brown. Mrs. J. D. Dier said, "He is 'A Number One' with us. Always prompt and courteous."

Roger Bast is in the sixth grade and is a three-year carrier with an impressive record.

When he began his route had 33 dailies and 36 Sunday papers. Since that time he has increased circulation so much that the route had to be split not once, but twice.

He likes electronics and math more than other studies even though he excels in all. This interest may stem from the fact he has an uncle who works on the Apollo space program. In his spare time for a hobby, Roger loves working with and putting together various models.

Behind Plate

For recreation this tenderfoot Scout likes swimming and baseball. He is a Little League baseball catcher. Table tennis is a favorite indoor winter activity for him when not utilizing his time in church work.

Firms Ask Systematic Repaying from 1965 to the present and the number of loans increased only 652.

Woodmen Accident and Life reported loans for $3,157,000 in 1956 and $3,587,000 this year. They also reported $66 million assets in 1956 and $68 million currently.

Faulkner said the loan increase, less than one-half million, is not unusual.

Security Mutual Life spokesman, W. L. Packard said they have noted no particular increase in policy loans over a one year period. As to the effect, Harry Seward of Bankers Life Nebraska viewed a policy loan as merely "a shift in investment."

The company could invest the money had it not been loaned, but the policyholder returns the money with interest and in this manner there is an investment being made. Lelsing said there may be an adverse effect on the economy strictly because the companies have less money to invest at a slightly higher interest rate on the open market. There is less money to invest because policyholders have used their privilege to borrow on their policies.

beneficiaries were affected since the the liens were usually quickly reduced according to A Study in the History of Life Insurance.

There was a brief period from early March to mid-summer of 1933 when policyowners in some states could not obtain loans on their policies except for designated emergencies and in limited amounts because of restrictions imposed by state insurance departments.

Life insurance companies do not encourage or discourage borrowing against a policy. They do encourage a systematic repayment program because this loan represents a reduction of the total policy amount.

Omaha Woman Is Charged Omaha — Sally Franey, 36, has been charged with manslaughter in connection with the Sept. 13 stabbing of 46-year-old Julius A. Lane.

Lane died Oct. 2. Municipal Judge Simon A. Simon Friday set the woman's bond at $1,000.

When the postman left a letter recently, Roger opened it without an idea of its contents. To his surprise and excitement it contained a personal invitation for lunch with the governor.

"He talks about this very much," confided his parents.

Said Roger: "Not many kids get letters from the governor."

In Fairbury subscribers had this to say about the youngster:

Mrs. Floyd Nave said he is a good carrier. "He never misses us. We have no complaints."

Railroad employee Leo Smith described Roger as "prompt." "He doesn't toss the paper around. Always a nice boy," Smith said.

Rodney Howard, Beatrice Sun; Onno Mahlin, Columbus Telegram; Steve Banks, Falls City Journal; Dennis Bartlett, Hastings Tribune; Larry Anderson, Grand Island Independent.

Gordon Brown, Holdrege Citizen; Phillip Sharp, Nebraska City News-Press; Ronnie Johnson, Fremont Guide and Tribune; Mike Davidson, Kearney Hub.

Charles Orris, Norfolk News; Gene Bauer, North Platte Telegraph; Ronald Forman, World Herald; David Goodrich, York Times.

103-Room Motel Set For June

A four-building motel under construction at 52nd and O Sts. next to the new Cooper Foundation theater, will be operated as a Quality Courts motel when it opens next June.

Clive Hilgert of Kansas City, president of the Cotner Investment Co. building both motel and theater, said this will be the first Quality Courts motel franchise in Nebraska. The Cotner Co. also will operate the motel it is building.

Details of the motel, complex announced this weekend by Hilgert show it will be made up of two two-story buildings with a total 103 rooms and baths; a support building to house the Village cafeteria and coffee shop; meeting rooms for 150 people and a private key club lounge, and a registration office and lobby.

The pair of two-story buildings will face each other across a recreation area and heated swimming pool.

Former Lincolnite Hilgert reported the Quality Motel company headquartered at Daytona Beach, Fla., is the first motel system established in the U.S. It also remains one of the largest, he added. There are approximately 500 Quality Motels in 350 cities today, primarily in the east and Canada.

Expands West

Hilgert said the company began to expand west a year ago by opening motels in St. Louis and Houston. Others are under construction at Bridgeport, Mo., Rawlins, Wyo., and Shreveport. Other franchises have been issued for Iowa, Kansas, Colorado, Montana, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Missouri and Texas.

The motel units are being built by Cook Construction Co. M. W. Anderson is the theater contractor.

Dial Action

Q. What relationship is there between the USO goal of $6,500 and the Community Chest and the recreation area sponsored by the Lincoln Job Corps at that same old USO location?

A. No connection. The $6,500 budgeted for USO in the 1967 United Fund will be sent to the National USO. This helps finance programs for military in the 50 states and overseas. The former Lincoln USO Lounge at 14th and P Sts. was closed upon deactivation of the Lincoln air base. It was reopened this weekend as a Lincoln Job Corps Center for the Corpsmen, with the aid of a new Interfaith Job Corps Committee which will use church donations to pay rent and utilities. The Lincoln Job Corps equipped the center and will provide management staff.

Q. Why are purely religious agencies like Catholic Social Services and the Jewish Welfare Federation a part of the Community Chest? What if every denomination were to demand Community Chest aid for their social or welfare needs?

A. These are not purely religious agencies, but community-wide social services sponsored by religious organizations for anyone needing them. Any organization seeking Chest membership and support must provide a service not already performed that is community wide in need. Chest Executive Secretary Willis Johnson says practically every social service in existence today is the outgrowth of religious sponsorship.

Richard Videbeck, formerly a sociologist on the University of Nebraska faculty, will talk about the implications for expanding Nebraska libraries at the Friday night dinner session.

His return here is looked upon as timely since a revision of the plan is being considered for 1967.

This year's annual meeting will feature American Library Association President Mary Gaver as a major speaker.

A professor in the Graduate School of Library Service at Rutgers University in New Brunswick, N.J., she will talk at the Friday luncheon.

Closed Circuit TV For Dental College

The University of Nebraska Dental College Alumni Assn. plans to give a $60,000 closed circuit TV system to the University of Nebraska Dental College on East Campus.

Dr. Ralph Ireland, Dental College Dean, speaking to some 170 alumni here for their annual homecoming reunion, said the new dental college will be completed in time for classes next fall.

The college is already accepting applications.

Dr. Ireland said a freshman class of 52 dental students, compared with this fall's 32, and 20 hygienists instead of the current 10 will be accepted.

Nebraskan Among Top 5 Instructors

New Haven, Conn.—A former Lincoln teacher whose career began in earnest only after she had reared a family has been named one of the nation's top five high school instructors.

She is Mrs. Rudolph (Elsie) Umland, 53, a teacher at Central Senior High School in Kansas City, Mo., since 1959.

Mrs. Umland was to receive a $1,000 award Saturday from Yale University. The award is given to high school teachers who have had unusual success in encouraging students to go on to college.

Mrs. Umland taught at the University of Nebraska as a graduate instructor in the English Dept. from 1957 to 1959.

Earlier, she was a Lincoln housewife. Her husband was a member of the Veterans Administration vocational rehabilitation staff here. He is now Social Security regional claims reviewer in Kansas City.

Mrs. Umland also taught in the Bridgeport school system briefly following her graduation in 1935 from the University of Nebraska.

The Dental College Alumni Assn. has a third of the $60,000 closed circuit television cost on hand as graduate contributions. The entire fund will come from alumni, according to Dr. Gregory Kallos, retiring president.

Alumni will benefit from the purchase of the TV system. Closed circuit television is particularly adaptable to post graduate education courses given regularly by the dental college each year.

The alumni also discussed their Foundation fund into which each dollar paid by graduates will bring $9 federal aid for a student scholarship fund.

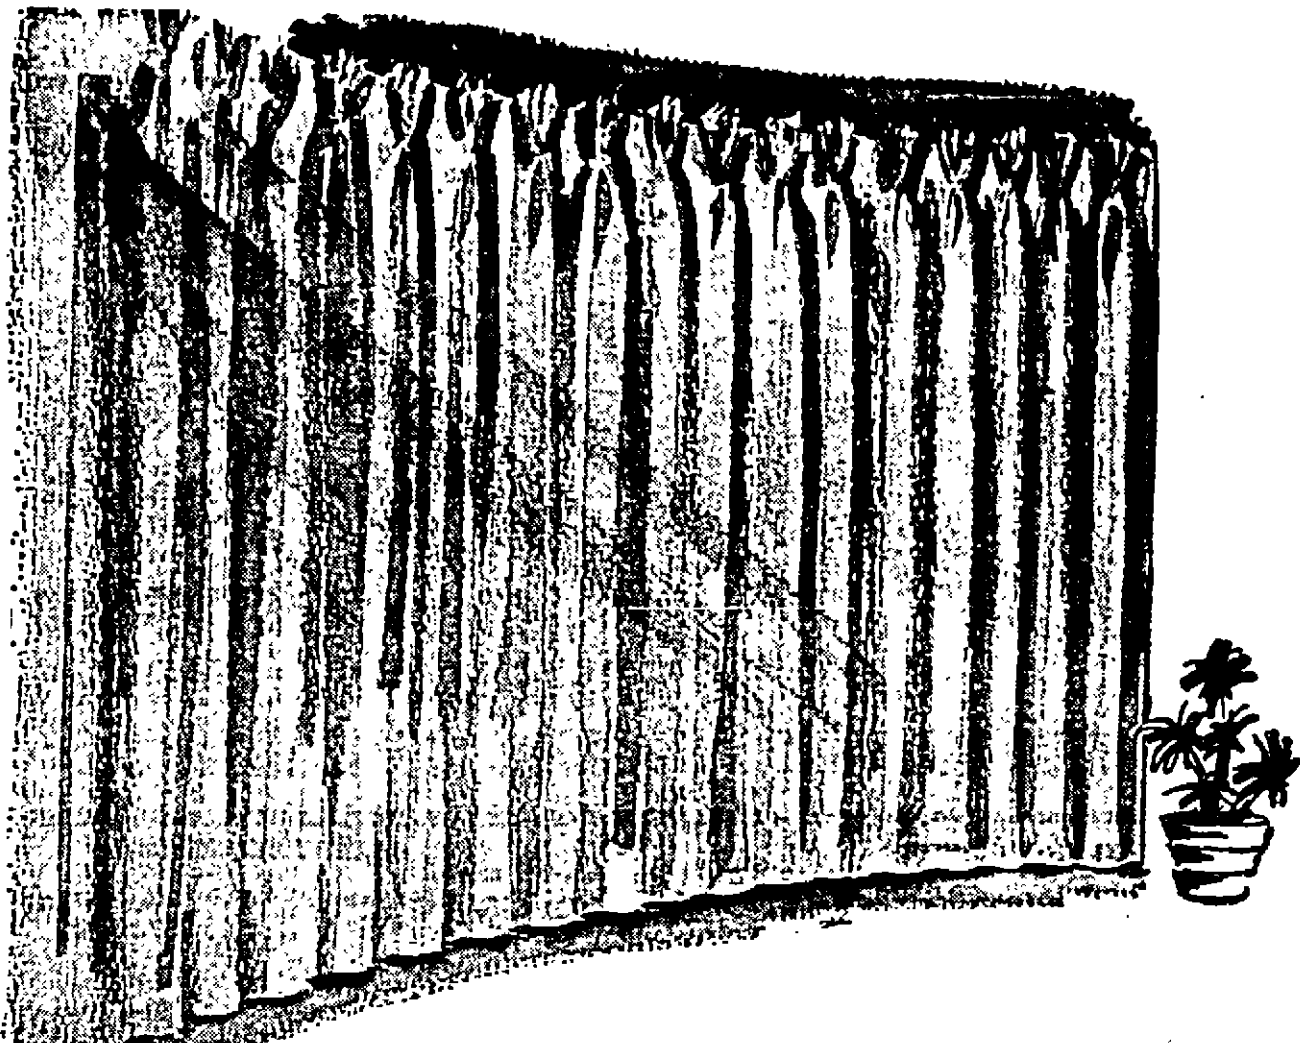

Students pay back the funds after establishing practice to perpetuate the scholarship help.

Dr. Rose Will Present Paper

Dr. Kenneth D. Rose, chief of laboratory and medical research at the University of Nebraska Health Service, will present a paper and participate in a panel discussion at the International Telemetering Conference Oct. 19 in Los Angeles.

Dr. Rose's paper is on "Problem Solving and Creating in Sports Medicine With Radiotelemetry." It gives results of six years of research into the physiological changes which take place among athletes and fans while participating in or watching athletic events.

Wood Use Is Urged By Callan

Cottonwood Trees Eyed

Rep. Clair Callan, D-Neb., is urging the use of the state's cottonwood that can be converted into salable products, and the organization of markets in which the processed materials can be used.

"Full use of the lowly cottonwood could provide an excellent opportunity for eastern Nebraska communities to open commercial sawmills and chipping plants. Eastern Nebraska has some 300 million board feet of cottonwood," he said.

The 1,050,400 acres of commercial woodlands in Nebraska contain enough sawtimber to provide materials for 140,000 five-room homes and have enough left over for church and school construction, Callan added.

Callan said that in the 1860's sawmilling employed more than half the labor force of the state and turned out more than half, by value, of all products in state industry.

Annual growth of forests in Nebraska is more than three times the volume removed, including that harvested or lost to fire, insects and diseases, he noted.

Products that can be had from cottonwoods, Callan said, are crating materials, chips for bedding and mulching, veneer sheets, cottonwood sheets, and cottonwood fibers used as components in special paper stock.

Southern paper mills, Callan added, can blend short fibers of the cottonwood with long fibered Southern pine.

The congressman said persons or communities interested in setting up a commercial operation could contact him in Washington, or get in touch with the University of Nebraska Department of Horticulture and Forestry.

Commerce Meet To Be in Omaha

The Nebraska Assn. of Commerce and Industry will hold its annual meeting in Omaha Oct. 27-29, association president Thomas Creigh Jr. announced Saturday.

He said speakers will include Harold P. Pluimer, regional director of Aerospace Education for the U.S. Air Force, and Hugh D. Galusha, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis.

Sen. Curtis has suggested major changes in the nation's vocational education and retraining picture.

If re-elected, the Minden Republican said, he would sponsor an act that would:

—Consolidate these programs.

—Place them "within state boundaries totally under state supervision."

This act would concentrate the programs "strongly in the high school level" and utilize existing facilities, he said.

Eventually, he added, the program would "be in lieu of the Job Corps" and possibly other present programs with federal financing aiding adults in occupational training.

"I have confidence in legislators and administrators of the state to utilize the funds to best meet the needs in each state," Curtis told a press conference.

Curtis' Training Plan Is Backed

Sen. Curtis' proposal to consolidate federal vocational training and retraining programs drew support from Frank Landis of Lincoln, president of the State Board of Education.

"It would be more economical," Landis said. "It would do more of a job for the same number of dollars."

"We are bogged down now by a hodgepodge of federal programs with varying degrees of federal controls and a great amount of overlapping and duplication."

Landis served as delegate to the 1956 and 1960 Republican National Conventions. He was an alternate at the 1952 convention.

Sorensen Lauds Use of Bonds

South Sioux City — Lt. Gov. Philip Sorensen, Democratic candidate for governor, praised the use of industrial development bonds in the South Sioux City area.

He said, however, that the Industrial Development Act "is one of those Morrison administration achievements that the Republican candidate doesn't want to continue."

"Nebraskans must be careful that they elect in November a state administration that will continue this sort of development, not one that will throw out everything that has been accomplished in the

Denney Urges Deduction Plan

Nebraska City — Robert V. Denney, GOP congressional candidate, urged Saturday a federal income tax deduction for political campaign contributions.

This, Denney told a Republican dinner here, would stimulate contributions from persons of moderate income.

"The larger the number of contributors, the more healthy is the political party," he said.

"Under no circumstances should the federal government be involved in direct financing of political parties out of the federal treasury."

A girl, 17, was sentenced to the Girls Training School at Geneva this week after the Lancaster Juvenile Court found her to be a delinquent.

The girl had been on probation for a previous offense of forging a check, but violated her probation by disobeying her parents and leaving the state without permission.

Other cases:

Boy, 3 mos., found to be dependent, placed in the custody of the State Department of Public Welfare.

Boy, 15, found to be in need of special supervision, disposition continued.

ing to cities of the primary class," said the judges.

The judges added, "The three judges would automatically come within the provisions of Section 26-107, relating to the conduct of the business of the court and the election of a presiding judge."

The mayor said he concurred with the judges and plans to forward the request to the various interested departments for evaluation and determination of the proper means of attaining the objective.

"It occurs to me that if we were to ask for legislation for additional municipal court judges, we should perhaps anticipate our future needs and be able to add additional judges as the work load would dictate rather than being faced with the necessity of going back to the Legislature each time we feel it is necessary to add help in this important arm of the municipal government," said the mayor in a letter to Judges Johnson and McManus.

The judges said they have tried to alleviate the increased work load with a more evenly divided work load for the judges, with additional court sessions and better facilities.

"While this has been an improvement," they said, "it has not sufficed because of the pressure of the increased case load."

The judges pointed out that Lincoln, with an estimated population of 150,000 now has two judges while Omaha, with an estimated population of 325,000, has seven judges and the Omaha court doesn't process state patrol cases as does the Lincoln Municipal Court.

The judges suggested that a courtroom and other necessary facilities for the additional judge be provided in the municipal building at 10th and Q.

A summary of the number of civil and criminal cases filed in the Municipal Court and the cash receipts, exclusive of cash bonds, for the past 10 fiscal years—to October, 1966—is presented in the following tabulation:

Year	Total Number of Cases Filed	Total Cash Receipts
1956-57	18,303	$260,495.56
1957-58	17,806	245,928.79
1958-59	18,592	260,636.26
1959-60	18,280	260,306.09
1960-61	19,758	315,827.66
1961-62	19,900	314,450.63
1962-63	22,297	348,186.17
1963-64	21,811	357,994.97
1964-65	22,504	381,732.02

Red China Forum Is Scheduled

NWU Will Host Experts

A two-day forum on Red China will bring British, American and Chinese experts to Nebraska Wesleyan University this week.

The forum, directed by Dr. Cecil Currey, assistant professor of history, is financed by a $1,775 grant from the S&H Foundation, Inc. Participants include:
—Fu-Sung Chu, Nationalist Chinese ambassador to Spain and former ambassador to the U.S.
—Colin Jackson, Labor Party Member of Parliament, lecturer, world traveler and commentator.
—Robert Cleveland, senior advisor, Asia, for the U.S. Department of State.
—William R. Kintner, associate director of the Foreign Policy Research Center of the University of Pennsylvania.

Prof. Peter Ping-chi Cheng, visiting assistant professor at the University of Nebraska, will give a background lecture Monday at 10 a.m. in the recital hall of the Wesleyan Fine Arts Center. He will trace "Communism in China, 1945-65."

Ambassador Chu will speak at 10 a.m. Thursday on the United States and China.

Jackson speaks at 8 p.m. Thursday, evaluating American policy toward Red China.

The 10 a.m. Friday session will feature Cleveland on "Chinese Communism—Today and Tomorrow." He has been working on the plans for President Lyndon Johnson's Southeast Asia trip.

Kintner, formerly a Department of Defense military advisor and Korean War Veteran, will discuss "Reappraisal and Red China" in the concluding session at 8 p.m. Friday.

All addresses will be in the Arts Center and are open to the public without charge.

Luncheons and 2 p.m. discussion sessions are scheduled daily in the Campus Center to give interested persons a chance to question the speakers, Dr. Currey said.

New Role
Sandy Dennis, former Lincolnite and who makes her screen debut in "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" is now starring as an idealistic teacher in "Up the Down Staircase."

Be a good chap now. Strike a blow for even better Anglo-American relations and help Governor Morrison's industrious appointments secretary Jo Fisher. For some time Mrs. Fisher has sought the whereabouts of a one-time Army officer, a Maj. Henry Robertus. Her detective work was prompted by several requests from a London resident, Stanley R. Emery, to whom the American became "a very dear friend" years ago. Anybody with a lead on the missing Yank would do Mrs. Fisher a big favor by holding up his hand.

1968 To Be Quiet
In case you may be already surfeited with politics, look ahead to 1968. The only partisan races on the state scene then should involve three congressmen and a state railway commissioner. Not until 1970 will the contests now generating so much conversation be waged again.

Current struggles continue to produce many line happenings and observations.
For example, there'll always be a soft spot in Nob by Tiemann's heart—or stomach—for Orleans. It was there the Republican gubernatorial candidate got a meal of roast turkey. Before that, he said, "Would you believe 17 nights in a row, Swiss steak?"

Phil Sorensen's wife, Jan, was, on a tea-and-tour of western Nebraska last week, scheduled to spend one evening at Big Springs. Somehow she and her traveling companions decided to visit acquaintances in the Julesburg, Colo., area. The only lead Lincolnites had trying to call Mrs. Sorensen was that the party's name was Smith, or Schmidt, or Schmitt. They finally got ahold of the Democrat candidate's wife, but there isn't a Smith or Schmidt or Schmitt in northeastern Colorado who now doesn't know Phil Sorensen is running for governor of Nebraska.

Once upon a time Governor Morrison offered his opponent Carl T. Curtis the services of the gubernatorial auto. Without success. The kindness was repaid last week. When the chief executive left a pair of dark glasses in a Fremont service station—he'd stopped to make a call—a Curtis booster reportedly found the specs and sent them on to Lincoln.

Here, There and Everywhere
Looking ahead, one state agency chief is counseling his secretary to wear a mini-skirt when it comes time to go before the 1967 Legislature's Budget Committee.

They're not presently in partisan headlines, but four persons regarded as major candidates at some future date are State Sens. Jerome Warner of Waverly and Calista Cooper Hughes among Republicans and Power Review Board Chairman Bill Norton of Oskola and Douglas County Atty. Donald Knowles, both Democrats.

Should KUON Program Manager Bill Oxley ever clash with the state senator from Red Cloud, wags suggest the circumstance be called the Oxley-Bowen Incident.
Nov. 19 is the date set for district court trial of the former University of Nebraska secretary fired because she refused to sign the state loyalty oath.

Lab Theater Has Tryouts
Tryouts for the University of Nebraska's Laboratory Theater will be held at the Temple Building, 12th & P, 3:30-5:30 p.m. today and 7-10 p.m. Monday through Wednesday.
The plays, all comedies, will be directed by the advanced students and will be produced for the public before Thanksgiving vacation.
The tryouts are open to all; one need not be a student to participate, according to Prof. Dallas Williams.

NAWGA Meets In Lincoln
Lincoln will host more than 100 food distribution warehouse men, transportation experts, and operations personnel Nov. 8-11 when a NAWGA warehouse operations seminar convenes here.
The seminar is sponsored by the National American Wholesale Grocers Association. Chairman is Gerald E. Peck, executive vice president of the Association. Meetings will be at the Cornhusker Hotel.

LODGES
Lodge 210 Will Honor Ricketts
East Lincoln Lodge 210, AF&M, will receive Lewis R. Ricketts of Lincoln, Nebraska Masonic grand master, Thursday evening. There will be a banquet in the lodge dining room at 6:30 p.m. and reception will follow.

Sudden-type Sunday thoughts starting with Nebraska head coach Bob Devaney trying to soothe freshman coach John Melton's feelings after the school paper had spelled his name "Milton."

"They just got you confused with that great poet, John," a quick-thinking Devaney offered in trying to console the Husker coach, who was worrying over the debut of his squad.

"But my wife's about to have a baby; I've got to open the season against that tough Kansas State team that beat Oklahoma; one sports writer is bugging me about getting him the numbers of my players; the university is on me to get more things in the paper about the game; the school paper spells my name wrong," Melton protested, "and here you are making jokes about me and the poets."

Alamo Instead of Astrodome

Oklahoma State sports information director Otis Wile, explaining the 35-9 shellacking his Cowboys took from Houston in the Astrodome earlier this season, offers:

"We didn't play in the Astrodome. That was the Alamo. We got in there and got cornered and found out they don't have a back door."

Speaking of the Astrodome, Wile and his Cowboys have a sympathizer in Chicago Cubs manager Leo Durocher, a staunch critic of the man-made Astroturf.

The Astrodome has a three-day session of bullfighting scheduled there beginning Friday, leading one Houstonite to declare:

"It'll be a relief to have somebody here besides Leo throwing the bull around."

Colorado coach Eddie Crowder, speaking of his club which plays host to Nebraska Saturday at Boulder, says, "It is quite apparent that we aren't as good a team as pre-season pickers thought. We are a sound team, but we can't stop a long drive by our opponents like we should be able to."

Powers Describes Alworth

Former Nebraska griddler Warren Powers, now defending against passes for the Oakland Raiders, believes Lance Alworth of San Diego is the toughest to defend against.

Describing a particular play, Powers recalls, "I saw the ball coming and thought I had a clean interception. Then... zoom! Alworth races downfield, leaps up and gets it. I was shocked. I still don't know what happened."

Still with the pros and ex-Huskies, quarterback Dennis Claridge made his first start of the regular season last week for Atlanta and moved the team to a 17-13 lead over Washington in the second quarter before Washington re-bounded.

Preparing for Wet Field

Michigan State coach Duffy Daugherty is the quick-witted coach who while diagramming plays on a table cloth spilled a cup of coffee on the cloth and came up with the speedy explanation, "Well, we've got to learn to play on a wet field anyway."

Duffy, who lost center Walt Foreman after the griddler made a 3.89 grade average and decided to pass up his final year of eligibility to enter med school, said the experience had taught him a lesson. "We won't recruit anyone that intelligent again," he explained.

Ron Marsh, the former Kansas griddler and Golden Gloves boxer who got his start in Omaha, will make his 14th appearance as a pro boxer Oct. 25 at Kansas City's Memorial Hall against an opponent yet to be named.

Marsh has won 12 of 13 starts since turning pro and has 10 knockouts. His lone loss was a decision to Ed Hurley, whom he kayoed in the third round of a return match.

Columbia, Mo. (AP) — Gary Kombrink and Ray Thorpe put together a 49-yard dash early in the last half to give Missouri a hard-fought 7-0 victory over Oklahoma State in a Big Eight Conference football game Saturday.

Defensive play by both teams dominated the game. Except for the scoring play, neither team penetrated the other's 20-yard line.

The victory gave Missouri a 2-0 Big Eight mark and 4-1 over-all record. Oklahoma State's conference slate dropped to 1-1 and the Cowboys now have a 1-3 season record.

The game was played in 46 degree weather before a capacity crowd of 54,000 at Memorial Stadium.

The only score came when quarterback Kombrink, running to the left, was hit by several tacklers and lateraled to Thorpe at the Oklahoma State 45. The 179-pound half-back then dashed down the sidelines for the score. The play covered 49 yards. The touchdown came with 3:53 gone in the third quarter. Bill Bates kicked the extra point.

Missouri's scoring play capped a drive that covered 80 yards in ten plays. The Tigers, taking the second half kickoff, had moved to the Oklahoma State 49 in nine plays.

The Tigers kept the drive alive by gambling on fourth down with a yard to go at their 41. Kombrink bowled up the middle for the first down to keep the drive alive.

In the first half, the deepest penetration by either team came late in the second quarter when Missouri drove to Oklahoma State's 21. That drive ended as Terry Baggalupo of the Cowboys pounced on a fumble by Missouri's Dan Sharp.

Oklahoma State mounted a 44-yard drive that sputtered on the Tiger 26 in the first quarter when Craig Kessler's field goal attempt from the 32 was short.

Missouri's Bates tried two field goals, but both were wide to the right. His first was a 44-yard kick in the second period, the other a boot from the 42-yard line in the fourth quarter.

Kombrink carried 26 times for 94 yards to lead ground gainers for both teams. He threw nine passes and completed three for 20 yards.

Charlie Brown, Tiger 187-pound halfback, rushed for 89 yards in 23 attempts.

For Oklahoma State, Tommy Boone picked up 37 yards in 12 rushes while fullback Larry Gosney gathered 34 yards in ten tries. Ronnie Johnson, the Cowboy's quarterback, hit three of eight passes for 24 yards.

Despite winds that gusted up to 20 miles per hour, Bates punted five times for a 36 yard average for Missouri, while Johnson booted seven times for Oklahoma State with a 38 yard average.

"I'm pleased with the victory," said Missouri coach Dan Devine. "But I'd like to have seen the offense generate a little more in the first half — and the defense to stop them more often on their third down plays."

"It was a very soundly played game," added Phil Cutchin, the Oklahoma State coach. "I think we'll have a good team in a couple of weeks."

Cutchin said he felt the Cowboys' defense played better than last week but added, "I wasn't satisfied. They did let Missouri score."

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — Clevelander Bob Warmack directed Oklahoma on early 80 and 70 yard touchdown drives, then the defense made the big plays for the unbeaten Sooners in a crunching 35-0 victory over Kansas Saturday.

Oklahoma takes a 4-0 record into its showdown with unbeaten Notre Dame next week at Norman, while Kansas slipped to 0-2.

Warmack, a skinny but talented quarterback, expertly used the talent of split end Ben Hart, a fast 206 pounder, and wingback Eddie Hinton, another homerun threat.

The Sooners scored two of the first three times they had the ball for a 14-0 bulge.

Eugene Ross, Oklahoma's monster man or roving line-backer, broke open the game by blocking a punt midway in the third quarter.

Quarterback Bob Stephenson beat a horde of teammates to the ball in the end zone for the TD, making it 21-0.

Jim Bugar, Oklahoma No. 22-pound tackle, directed the last two Sooner touchdowns, the last coming after a Kansas fumble.

John Tittsworth, a tall, lean 212-pound tackle, and Bobby Robinson, a quick little senior end, made Oklahoma's other big defensive plays.

Kansas had a fourth down at the Oklahoma three-yard line after a 78-yard second period drive when quarterback Bob Skahan lateraled to halfback Don Shanklin who flipped a short screen pass to Skahan. Tittsworth prevented a touchdown getting Skahan from behind.

A short time later Kansas caught a pass at the Oklahoma 29 but Robinson hit Skahan from the blind side forcing a fumble and Tittsworth recovered.

"I consider the blocked punt the turning point of the game," said Oklahoma coach Jim Mackenzie.

"It wasn't easy until then. This squad really fooled me. I didn't feel we were ready to play. First their plane was late and then at the hotel we ran into a convention of Future Farmers and our players were running around visiting and talking."

Nose guard Granville Liggins said "we had a real hard time containing the Kansas backs. Don Shanklin is very quick and can really cut — he's the fastest and best player we have faced all year."

Kansas coach Jack Mitchell said Liggins "is a great football player—he dealt us a lot of misery."

"They just outkicked us," Mitchell said. "They were hitting our backs before they got to the hole. To stop their quarterback (Bob Warmack) you have to leave yourself vulnerable somewhere else."

Ames, Iowa — When Eddie Crowder was a quarterback at Oklahoma he was known as the magician.

He still has his act intact, although it was not his old dexterity he used Saturday to keep things alive. Instead it was the oldest trick in the vaudeville guide.

He pulled a rabbit out of his hat.

The rabbit he pulled out was Dan Kelly, a heretofore unused quarterback who stands 5-10, weighs 173 pounds and is currently averaging three touchdowns every game he starts.

That's how many he scored here while leading the Buffaloes to a 41-21 victory over Iowa State to set the stage for what shapes up as one of many showdown battles due in the Big Eight this year. The Buffs, now 2-1 in the conference, entertain unbeaten Nebraska Saturday.

Kelly was a surprise choice at quarterback, replacing veteran Bernie McCall. A shrewd choice it was, too.

Kelly raced for 156 yards on the ground and passed for 88 more and both coaches agreed he was the difference in the game which saw Colorado bolt to a 20-point lead.

"I know this must have come as quite a surprise to the Cyclones because they had been prepared to stop McCall," Crowder said. "Kelly is a different kind of quarterback in that he is more of a scrambler and is a more versatile runner."

"At the beginning of the season I had planned to start Kelly," Crowder said. "Just before the first game he became very nervous and seemed to lack a little confidence. This prompted me to play him on just a spot basis, but today I felt he was ready and he is now my No. 1 quarterback."

Iowa State coach Clay Stapleton agreed with Crowder. "We were just not prepared for Kelly," Stapleton said. "We figured we had to stop McCall and we geared our defense for him."

The Buffaloes marched 64 yards to score with the opening kickoff, opening up a 20-point lead early in the second quarter.

But Iowa State, which had little luck offensively in the first half, began chipping away after the rest, closing the gap to six points, 20-14, before Colorado reassumed command.

The Buffs scored again after a fourth down fumble had stopped Iowa State on its own 36 and Colorado once again had a comfortable lead.

Clock Runs Out as K-State Bids for Second Touchdown

session, the Huskers took over on their own 20 early in the first quarter when a K-State field goal from the 32 was short.

Nebraska then moved methodically the 80 yards to paydirt with Gregory, Harry Wilson, Churchich and Tatman taking turns carrying the ball two, three, four and five yards a crack to the KSU 37.

Churchich then hit split end Dennis Morrison with a 16-yard pass to put the ball at the 21. Tatman gained nine, Gregory bulled for two and Churchich combined with Wilson on a play mixup that gained six and a second and goal at the four.

Tatman carried the ball over and Wachholtz kicked the PAT for a 7-0 lead with 3:55 left in the opening quarter.

The Huskers didn't score again until late in the first half when the nation's highest scoring defensive middle guard, Wayne Meylan, found a hole in the K-State line and blocked Bob Coble's punt from the KSU 20.

After the ball eluded several other Huskers as it rolled toward the end zone, Meylan finally caught up with it. It didn't elude the swarming Husker junior, who corralled it in the end zone for his second touchdown as many games.

Wachholtz, second straight PAT kick with 4:33 left in the second quarter gave the Huskers what was thought to be a comfortable 14-0 halftime margin.

But it wasn't so comfortable in the fourth quarter. A K-State field goal by Tom Barnes from the 27 with 9:24 left in the third quarter cut the margin to 14-3, but the lead still appeared to be comfortable.

K-State made it uncomfortable in a hurry, however. They took the ball on their own 20 early in the final quarter after a Joe Armstrong punt went into the end zone.

Nossek fired a 29-yard pass to Jones and a six-yarder to Mike Duncan, but a holding penalty moved the Wildcats back to a first and 25 at their own 34. This merely slowed them down.

A pass interference call at the K-State 37 gave them still another play. On this one, Nossek fired a pass to Jones, who raced to the NU seven-yard line before being knocked out of bounds by Carstens to end the game.

Nossek hit him with a pass which he carried to the Nebraska eight-yard line before Carstens could catch up with him. But on the next play, Nossek hit Cain for the TD and K-State was back in the game with 9:31 yet to play.

After Nebraska had put the game in the sack with its insurance touchdown, the Wildcats continued to fight back and nearly scored again, running two plays with no time left on the scoreboard.

The game had apparently ended when Nossek was stopped for no gain on a third and 15 play at the KSU 7, but the Huskers were offside and since the game can not end on a penalty, the Wildcats got another play.

A pass interference call at the K-State 37 gave them still another play. On this one, Nossek fired a pass to Jones, who raced to the NU seven-yard line before being knocked out of bounds by Carstens to end the game.

I May Be Wrong

By Curt Mosher

Unless soccer style kickers are like blue suede shoes and barefooted booters are like whooping cranes we may be seeing, in Larry Wachholtz, the last of a vanishing breed.

There has been, within the past couple of weeks particularly and in the last few years generally, a rash of stories concerning soccer style kickers and those who choose to air out their shoes while they kick the football.

It is very possible that when we tell our grandchildren of watching a place kicker approach the ball from the rear with shoes on we will be describing something so unusual they might make a television series out of it.

The latest major development was at Ames where Iowa State has now topped its bomb act with a scantily clad and frail young man who possesses some fantastic feet.

Saginaw Slippers

The pro leagues are even in the act and it undoubtedly will spread with each success story.

It isn't new really. Nebraska coach Bob Devaney notes that he had a Swedish soccer kicker when he was at Wyoming. He has even had a couple of guys give it a casual try here at Nebraska.

It would be expected that Devaney would be an authority on the subject. When he was in junior high in Saginaw, Mich., they didn't play football. Soccer was the game for that age, football coming when they got into high school.

"I'm afraid I wasn't much of a kicker," Bob says. "None of us were. We put on those foundry shoes and got after it. We didn't worry about the ball much."

(Foundry shoes are steel toed affairs, which presumably would smart if you got kicked with them and would be inappropriate for dancing in.)

It's F-O-O-T-ball

Perhaps one of the reasons for the emphasis on kicking, whether it be soccer or barefoot or drop kickers or even plain old-fashioned ones like Wachholtz is the emphasis on three-pointers.

Last weekend there was a record number, as near as the NCAA service bureau could tell the most in the 30 years such things have been listed.

Oklahoma and Wyoming each hit four field goals, and if the number wasn't enough, then consider the distance. OU's Mike Vachon kicked them 20, 31, 41 and 43.

But Wyoming's Jerry DePoyster, who played his high school football at Bellevue, had three which went 54, 52 and 54. And Ohio State's Gary Calms kicked one 55, which equalled the longest one by a major collegian in the last quarter of a century.

In 1939 Fred Powers of Denver kicked one 56. The modern record is 59 set in the small college division when Jan Stenerud of Montana State kicked 59 against Montana last season.

Need a Passport

This past week the Detroit Lions made arrangements with the government to put Gary Ypremanian, a 22-year-old Cypriot, on their roster. He is a left-footed soccer-style kicker.

Michigan State's Duffy Daugherty has had tremendous luck with Hawaiian kickers, although Daugherty says most of them have been of the old fashioned variety.

The time seems to be rapidly approaching when coaches will need a passport to recruit kickers.

And just think of Wachholtz trying to explain to his grandchildren that he really did set records as a kicker.

Grandchild: Okay, grandad, now show us again how you used to kick. This record book says you kicked 12 field goals.

Larry: The other man held the ball for me and I kicked it like this.

Grandchild: When did you take your shoes off?

Larry: I didn't.

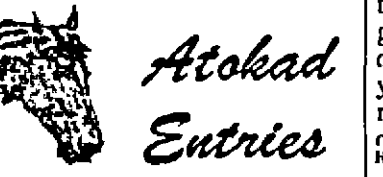

Grandchild: Nobody kicks with their shoes on except the soccer kickers. That's it. You've just forgotten. Think, grandad, did you kick from the side or directly behind the ball?

Larry: Behind it.

Grandchild: I'm just glad they don't make them like they used to.

Ga. Tech Rolls On

Birmingham, Ala. (UPI) — Seventh-ranked Georgia Tech, stopped cold by a tenacious Auburn defense in a driving rain storm, rallied in the second half Saturday to win 17-3.

Tech quarterback Jim King scored on a 4-yard run in the third period a few minutes after Bunky Henry had booted a 29-yard field goal to tie the score 3-3.

Speedy wingback Jimmy Brown iced the Yellow Jackets' fifth straight win in the fourth period with a sparkling 59-yard touchdown run on a punt return.

Top Pheasant Season Ahead

Plenty of Hunting Nearby

By the time next week's column is read by area sportsmen, the air will be heavy with burned gunpowder and Mr. Rooster will be soaking in the sink for a Sunday pheasant fry.

We won't be here. Instead we'll be pulling ahead of fast-flying targets raised out at Arapahoe and McCook.

Four of us, including the Little Lady from Texas, will be there bright and early Saturday for the start of Nebraska's Great Pheasant Season. And it's going to be that good.

After two days in that part of the state we'll be back here for a couple of more days of our vacation and some good shooting.

Hunting Near

Actually, it isn't necessary to leave Lancaster or Seward County for good hunting. That isn't trumped-up guessing because the birds are here! We've seen them. Lots and lots of them and the most we've seen have been down around Hickman, Holland, Firth, and north around Davey.

A couple of weeks ago on the opening day of Goose Season, after an unproductive morning, we started out to show two Beatrice sportsmen our Salt-Wahoo lakes and land. We did and in the process saw more pheasants in these areas than I did the whole of last season.

They are thick. The young birds still looked young but the bright colors of their

Birds Are Here

We got a little excited over the prospects for this year's shooting. Take one case: we were driving toward Hickman on the road south of the east lake dam. I thought I saw a bird sitting in a tree and since I wanted a picture, I asked Bob Stuewig to back up. There were four birds in the tree and seven more right under them.

Another case: while sitting in a duck blind with my dog on the last evening of teal season on the lake southeast of Hickman, I was just about asleep when I got the sleep startled out of me. Nine big old pheasant birds flew from the other side of the lake right over my blind. About four feet over my head. My Golden Retriever "Sugar" even woke up (not for long).

Another case: Three of us were fishing at the South Lake at Hickman when Glenn Lau pointed up to the hill in front of us. The pheasants coming into this spot looked like a bunch of chickens.

Why use these examples? If you'll think back for a moment all of the examples were on Public Hunting Land. No permission is needed, it's open to public upland game hunting and the birds are there.

They're also north by Pawnee Lake and in all the other public shooting areas.

Dogs Really Help

If one wonders why, he should take a look at the cover. It's there too and we do mean this... It's going to be a safe statement to say that the fellow with the dog to get them out of this heavy cover and find the cripples, is going to be in better shape than the other hunter. It's that simple.

All around this year there's a lot of cover and birds. The combination is great for birds but hard on the hunter... especially the one without a dog.

But that doesn't mean the fellow without one isn't going to do well. If he'll hunt the roosting areas early and late he'll find the birds will flush. But he should take it slow and go back over it a couple of times if there is any bird sign at all. He'll score.

All in all it's going to be a great year. And my hunting for the most part, as it has been in other years, will be in Lancaster and Seward counties. If you can kill a limit 30 minutes from home why not do it?

Turkey Season Scheduled

Probably nothing enhances fall hunting as much as a trek for wild turkey. Nebraska gunners will have a go at these big birds October 29 through November 6 in special areas of the state, reports the Game Commission.

Some 2,325 permits were authorized for the six special units and all should be spoken for. If hunters have not already done so, they should start lining up places to hunt.

Most turkey hunting will occur on private land and permission is a must. Although turkey calls are not required for the fall hunt, experienced nimrods will pack them with their gear. Calls come in handy to locate the birds especially when a flock has been scattered.

Once the birds are scattered, the expert hunter will stay where he is and rely on his call to bring the birds in range. Gunners should select a place that will let them see a bird when it comes within range.

Wise old birds, which come to the call but stop out of shotgun range, can be fooled by "tandem" hunting. The hunter who calls places his partner 50 yards or more in front of him. Then, when the turkey begins marching up and down, he soon finds that he is not out of range of the lead hunter after all.

Shooting hours for turkey in Nebraska are one-half hour before sunrise to one-half hour after sunset. However, early morning and late afternoon provide the best gunning times as the birds are most active then. Shotguns, gauges 20 through 10, and longbows, pulling at least 40 pounds at 28-inch draw, are legal weapons.

During last year's 9-day fall season, a total of 1,094 turkeys were bagged by 2,261 permit-holders. Hunter success was over 48 per cent. Another good season is predicted for 1966.

All bagged turkeys (with head and feet attached) must be checked in at designated check stations. This must be done at the check station in the unit where the bird was taken or at the first station in the next unit in line with the hunter's travel to his residence. All birds must be checked by 8 p.m., November 7.

Turkey hunting in Nebraska provides big dividends. For great sport, the wild turkey steals the hunting scene for nine big days.

Check Fishing Gear Before Fall Storage

By CHUCK ROBERTS

With duck and goose season underway and pleasant season scheduled for a start next week, area fishermen are hanging up the rods and reels if they haven't already. But how they hang them up and what they do before storing may make a lot of difference next year.

Experts in most every field say the best maintenance is the preventative type and the same goes for fishing tackle. Ask the fellows who lost a big one last year because of faulty equipment.

Probably the single most important item is the line. If the line is rotten, frayed or just weakened because of wear, the best of the rest won't land a fish.

Line wear can come from a lot of places but the usual ones are worn-out tip-tops, rod guides and the line guide on the reel's level wind or bail if it's a spinning reel.

After establishing whether the line on the reel will last another season, an examination of the tackle is called for. (Probably the line should be discarded because it's the cheapest good investment that can be made.)

Start your tackle check at the tip-top. Examine the lower side surfaces of the tip with a magnifying glass because the little spots of wear can wear out a line as fast as the big ones. Take a six-inch section of sewing thread and run it through the tip like your regular line. Then rotate the thread around the inside of the tip. If there's wear you'll know it.

Then check all the rest of the guides in a similar fashion. Then do the same thing with the line guide on your reel.

If any of the above shows wear, replace it. Reel line guides can be purchased from sporting goods stores for most any reels. So can rod tip-tops and guides but be careful what you buy.

There is no better tip-top than one made from carbonyl or tungsten carbide. It's a hard material and won't wear. Line guides are important too, but not as much. Just make sure whatever you buy is made from a hard material or coated with a hard material.

It's not too well known but monofilament line such as used on a spinning reel or with certain casting reels can cut through a soft tip or guide in seven days of fishing. That means lost fish and new line.

After getting your rod-guide problem figured out, re-wrap the wrappings that need re-wrapping, put two coats of color preserver on them and finish up with three coats of varnish. Let each coat dry 24 hours before applying another. Use nothing but nylon thread for re-wrapping as it will not rot as silk will.

Since spinning reels don't work on the rotating principle in casting such as level-wind casting reels do, about the most important thing to remember in cleaning them is to get out the dirt and lubricate them so they will reel smoothly on retrieve.

It's not the same with casting reels. These reels should be taken completely apart, dunked in a solvent, cleaned with a tooth brush, you don't regularly use, and dyed. Some gears are made from synthetic materials and should be cleaned in soap and water.

During lubrication use a minimum of oil and reel grease. All these materials do when used to excess is collect dirt, dust and grime and help wear out the reel. After cleaning the reel, lubricating and re-assembling, spin the handle a few times to make sure the lubrication is well-distributed.

The best way to store a rod is to put up a nail or screw somewhere where there's not too much moisture and hang it up by the tip-top. This keeps the rod from developing a set that will hurt you later. Store reels in a dustproof place in a bag or box.

Next year all you have to do is go fishing.

Snow, Cold Don't Slow Hunters

Lincoln — Despite the cold spell, the first day of Nebraska's duck hunting season Saturday was better than most openings in recent years, according to the State Game Commission.

A commission spokesman said snow and ice hampered hunters in some areas and pushed some ducks south.

Reports indicate that hunting success ranged from limits and near limits to an average of about one bird per hunter in the southeast.

Pressure ranged from light to heavy in the Panhandle and heavy at the Sacramento special use area. But in the Sandhills, pressure was light and the duck population called excellent especially in Cherry County.

Ducks were flying high in the southeast and northeast rough weather pushed ducks to the Missouri River and Lewis and Clark Lake. One game commission officer said they seem to be "blind shy."

Limits for the 60-day season are three a day and six in possession.

SOLUNAR TABLES WHEN TO FISH OR HUNT

The schedule of solunar periods for the following week, as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your day so that you will be fishing good territory, hunting good cover, during these times. If you wish to find the best sport that equals to offer, the tables are not a guarantee you will catch fish or see game during the periods, however.

The major periods begin at the time shown and last for one hour and a half. Two minor periods, and are in blue face type. The minor periods are somewhat shorter in duration.

Capitol Beach Safety Program

Area boating enthusiasts are invited to attend a safety program slated for Sunday afternoon at Guy Dean's Lakeshore Marina located at Lincoln's Capitol Beach. The program featuring two films on boating safety is scheduled for 1 p.m.

Dudley Osborn, in charge of boating safety for the Nebraska Game Commission, will show the films and will be available to answer questions following their showing.

CAP Land Available To Hunters

NEBRASKA land pheasant hunters going afield October 22 will be greeted by something new this year, says the Game Commission.

Some 47,000 acres of farmland under the Cropland Adjustment Program (CAP) is open to the public for hunting, fishing, hiking, and trapping. The CAP provision offers farmers extra incentive payments for allowing this public use.

However, gunners should put their best foot forward on CAP and all lands. Some rules of thumb to follow are: no building fires or throwing away any lighted material; no hunting from a vehicle; no entering or tampering with any buildings, fences, or farm equipment; no digging or cutting greenery, and of course, littering or disorderly conduct should be off every hunter's list.

Big Snowstorm Hits Nebraska

Friday was the day the rains came down in Nebraska. Snow fell, fog hovered and temperatures plunged across the state as the first major snowstorm of the season entered Nebraska.

Nearly five inches of very wet snow, pushed by strong northerly winds, fell on Chadron in northwestern Nebraska.

Livestock and freeze warnings were issued for east and central Nebraska.

Power failed in several areas. Numerous accidents, none fatal, were blamed on the storm. Many schools across the state were closed.

Lincoln in Brief

First-Plymouth Congregational Church, 20th and D, celebrated its centennial... The City Council is considering holding weekly sessions in Pershing Auditorium... Two California brothers were held for the slaying of former University of Nebraska co-ed, Sheryl Cummings.

St. Thomas Orphanage at 27th and Stockwell will be sold soon and possibly razed... gubernatorial opponents Republican Norbert Tiemann and Democrat Philip Sorensen debated three times in Lincoln.

Mayor Dean Peterson broke a City Council deadlock to deny a zoning change that would have permitted construction of a $1.5 million department store at 66th and J.

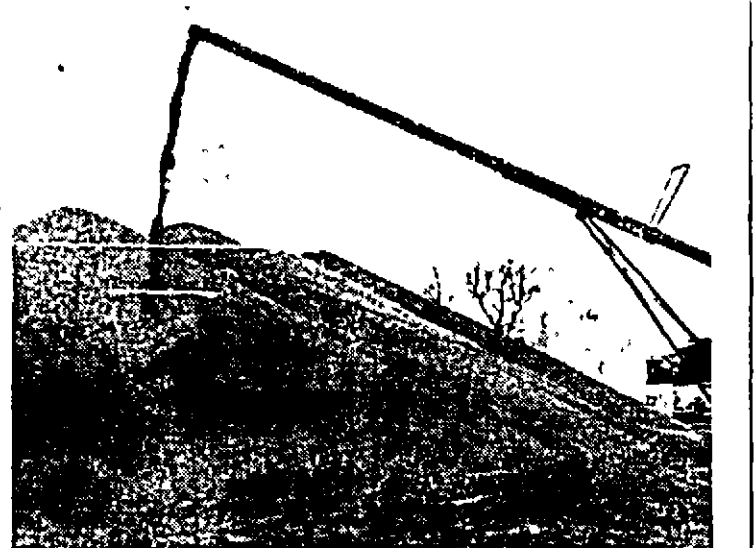

The action was seen as a possible preview of Council treatment of pending rezoning requests for developing large retail centers at 52nd and R and near 48th and Van Dora.

One possible measure of the season's milo crop came when the Greenwood Farmers Co-op Elevator weigh-in scales broke down.

The breakdown was caused by heavy traffic and constant use. Shipping the harvest grain from the elevators across Nebraska to markets remained a problem as City Councilman Ervin Peterson is angry about the sometimes-sluggish traffic on the new East O St. expressway.

He suggested the present speed limit of 40 m.p.h. be increased to 45 m.p.h.

K-State Coach Cites Three Keys Doug: Husker Keepaway Stymied Us

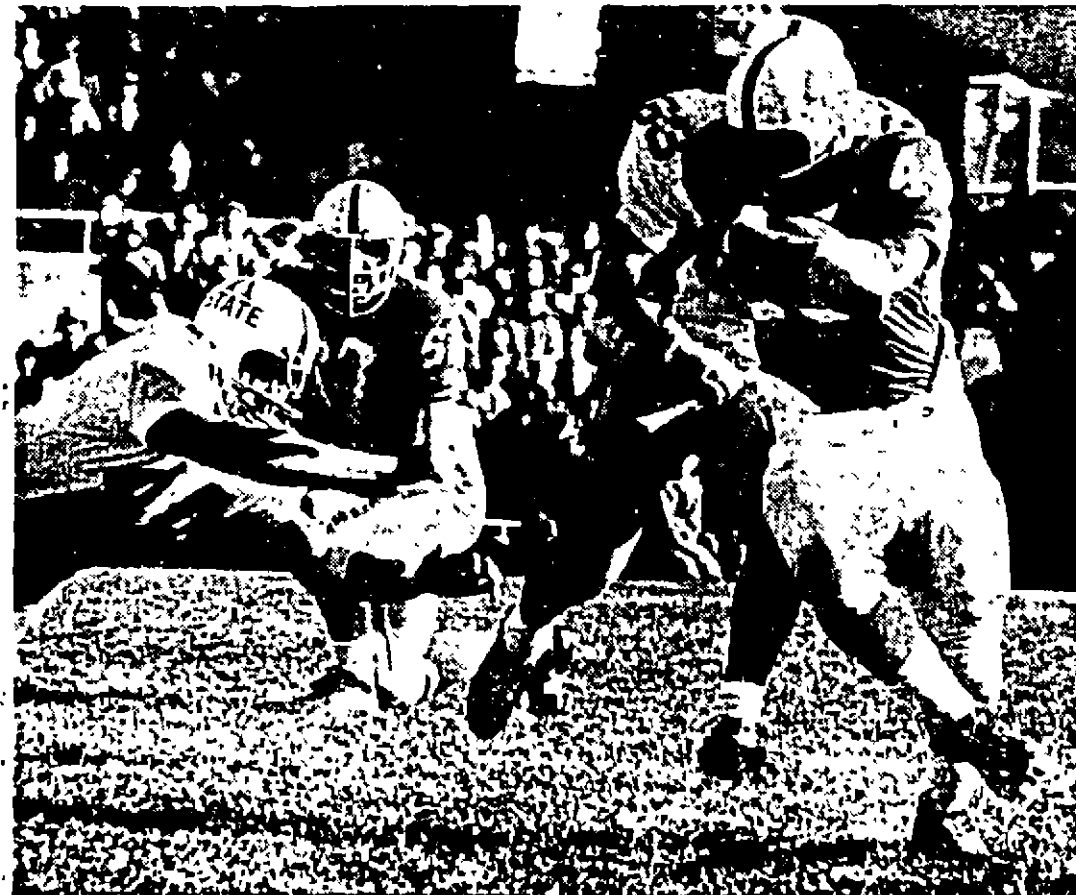

By DON FORSYTHE
Poise, technique and experience. Kansas State coach Doug Weaver pointed to those three vital ingredients as being the difference as the Wildcats missed on a bid for a stunning upset of sixth-ranked Nebraska Saturday.

"We came up here with the belief we could win, but we didn't do it. I'm sure the players feel as badly about it as I do," he said.

"But Nebraska is a powerful team and kept the ball away from us at the end," he said, referring to the Nebraska touchdown drive after Kansas State had narrowed the Husker lead to 14-10 with 9:31 to play.

"They had the poise, technique and experience to keep the ball away from us that last time. I have a great deal of respect for this Nebraska team," he said.

Trailing 14-0 at halftime, the Wildcats had come back to take the play away from erratic Nebraska in the second half. A field goal by Tom Barnes and a touch-

Dick Davis (45), Husker sophomore, cuts sharply past a grasping Wildcat on fourth-quarter ramble.

'Inexcusable Mistakes' Worry Cornhusker Coach After Win

By CURT MOSHER
Nebraska football coach Bob Devaney found himself in a quandary Saturday. His team had just scored a victory to retain its unbeaten status, but he found some things about his team most distasteful.

He felt that he had played a team which deserved a ton of credit for coming off four straight defeats to put up a terrific showing. But he was bugged by what he termed inexcusable and foolish mistakes.

"I don't know," the coach said softly after a 21-10 victory over Kansas State Saturday. "I guess we should be happy we won it. But I guess we feel a little like Colorado did . . . that we shouldn't have had as much trouble as we did."

"When this happens we tend to downgrade ourselves," Devaney shrugged off any thought of drumming up excuses for the snug game, such as the possibility of the Cornhuskers looking ahead to Colorado next week.

"No," he said emphatically. "We just damned near got beat by Kansas State. That's always nice to say (looking ahead), but K-State was a pretty good team today."

"I wish we had that (Dave) Jones. He's a good one," Bob threw in, referring to the talented Wild-

South Bend, Ind. (AP) — Notre Dame shelved its sensational sophomore passing combination except for one 56-yard bomb Saturday and thundered past North Carolina 32-0.

The passing battery of Terry Hanratty-to-Jim Seymour, which has been instrumental in lifting the Irish to their No. 2 national ranking, clicked for only one completion.

That came on a 56-yard touchdown play in the second period after a fumble recovery to spin Notre Dame to a safe 20-0 halftime lead.

The switch from passing to the running of Larry Conjar and Nick Eddy, who romped for a 52-yard touchdown run in the third quarter, was caused more by weather conditions than design.

For half the game, including the first quarter, Notre Dame had to go against a 22-mile per hour wind with gusts up to 40 m.p.h.

Any hopes of a possible North Carolina upset were dimmed in the first quarter when Tar Heel quarterback star Danny Talbot had to leave the game because of an ankle injury. Three plays later, the savage Irish defense sent No. 2 quarterback Jeff Beaver to the bench with a dislocated shoulder.

Conjar, a workhorse throughout the first half, battered his way for a pair of one-yard touchdown runs to give Notre Dame 13-0 lead. Carrying 13 times for 87 yards—all in the first half—Conjar's scores capped drives of 73 and 55 yards. Eddy picked up 85 yards in seven attempts with his big run coming on the first play from scrimmage after linebacker John Pergine had intercepted a pass off third-string quarterback Tim Karris.

This came with 3:22 left in a third quarter previously dominated by the Tar Heels.

After Eddy's stirring run, Coach Ara Parseghian cleared his bench and the scrubs came through with one touchdown on a 67-yard drive which ended with Bob Gladieux' five-yard touchdown run.

Hanratty did all his passing in the first half and completed five of 11 for 96 yards. He played most of the third quarter when the Irish had the ball for only five plays from scrimmage.

North Carolina's deepest penetration in the first half was to the Irish 30. In the second half, the Tar Heels recovered a Notre Dame fumble and moved to the Irish 16 on a 14-yard pass play from Karris to Charlie Carr but lost yardage on the next three plays against Notre Dame's reserves.

Columbus, Ohio (UPI) — Michigan State's ace quarterback Jimmy Raye hit three key passes in an 83-yard scoring drive during a blinding rainstorm Saturday to lead the No. 1 ranked Spartans to an 11-8 Big Ten victory over stubborn Ohio State.

The Buckeyes, 10-point underdogs, gave the unbeaten Spartans all they could handle in the bruising contest-witnessed by 84,282 rain-soaked fans.

Raye completed passes for 27, 15 and 12 yards in the crucial drive that was capped by a one-yard plunge over the middle by bruising fullback Bob Apisa with 7:09 remaining. Raye's last pass put the Spartans on the Buckeye two, and it took four plays before Apisa could put it over for Michigan State's only touchdown of the day.

But Ohio State had its moments too, and surged into an 8-3 lead early in the fourth quarter when a sophomore quarterback Bill Long hit his favorite receiver, end Billy Anders, on a pass that covered 47 yards for the touchdown.

The big play came moments after Dick Kenney recovered a bad pass from center on the Spartan one and punted out to the Michigan State 47.

Michigan State's first score came in the third period when Kenney kicked a 27-yard field goal to give the Spartans the lead for the first time, 3-2. Kenney passed for a game-clinching two points after the touchdown drive.

Ohio State gave the mighty Spartans a head-to-head battle throughout the first half which was marked by numerous fumbles and a slugging incident that resulted in half-back Dwight Lee of Michigan State being ejected from the game.

Following an exchange of punts, Kenney attempted to punt from deep in his own territory and the snap from center sailed over his head and out of the end zone to give Ohio State a 2-0 lead.

Michigan State, its offense blunted by a fired-up Buckeye defense and the miserable weather, threatened to score only once in the half, but defensive back Tim Nein intercepted one of Raye's passes to stop it.

Madison, Wis. (UPI)—Wisconsin and Northwestern matched sputtering offenses and field goals Saturday and played to a 3-3 Big Ten tie.

Dick Emmerich booted a 33-yarder with a minute and 40 seconds left in the second quarter to put Northwestern ahead temporarily.

But, junior quarterback John Boyajian came off the Wisconsin bench late in the third quarter and engineered the Badgers 50 yards to within field goal range and Tom Schinke kicked a 19-yard field goal with a little more than eight minutes left in the game.

Northwestern muffed a chance to go ahead with about two minutes left in the game when Emmerich's 27-yard field goal attempt went wide.

The Wildcats' defensive half-back Dennis White recovered a Wisconsin fumble on the Badger 27-yard line and the Wildcats moved to the 11 before the drive stalled with Emmerich's missed field goal attempt.

Minneapolis (UPI) — A 95-yard run by a tackle, a pass and a field goal gave Minnesota a 17-0 homecoming victory over Iowa Saturday for its first Big Ten triumph of the season.

For Minnesota it meant a 1-0 record in the conference. For Iowa, it was a record 15th consecutive Big Ten loss and the Hawkeyes ran their string of scoreless quarters in the conference to 15.

Big 242-pound tackle Ed Duren provided the thrill of the game in the closing minutes when he picked off a pass by Iowa quarterback Ed Podolak on the 5-yard line and plodded like an elephant to the goal.

This broke up Iowa's only threatening push which had gone to the Minnesota 5-yard line.

Aside from this, Iowa had entered Minnesota territory only once — to the Minnesota 44.

Minnesota kept the play in Iowa territory through most of the first half and finally scored on a 10-yard pass from junior quarterback Larry Carlson to end Ken Last with two minutes left in the half.

The pass, climaxing a 42-yard drive in nine plays, gave Last a career record of 1,000 yards on pass receptions, a Minnesota record.

Minnesota also pushed to the Iowa 14 late in the first quarter but Iowa's Guy Bilek broke it up with an end zone interception of a pass by Carlson.

Iowa got underway in the fading moments of the first half after Minnesota scored and reached Minnesota's 44 before time ran out.

The Gophers got a chance early in the third quarter but flubbed it. The opportunity came when Iowa punter Chuck Roland fumbled a bad pass from center and Minnesota took possession on the Iowa 31. Minnesota ran and passed to the Iowa 18 but was set back by a clipping penalty, and Bob Stein was wide with a 31-yard field goal try.

Ann Arbor, Mich. (UPI)—Purdue, outclassed on the ground and outpassed in the air, turned Michigan mistakes into a safety and a fourth period touchdown Saturday to edge the Wolverines 22-21.

The cliffhanger climaxed when Michigan missed a 35-yard field goal attempt in the final minutes.

Michigan's mistakes botch-ed a strong upset bid after the Wolverines bulled into the lead in the third period on the strength of Dick Vidmer's passing and the running of backs Dave Fisher, Carl Ward and Jim Detweiler.

Michigan's Rick Sygar grabbed a Purdue punt on the Michigan 1 and was trapped in the end zone for a Purdue safety, cutting the Wolverine lead to 21-16 late in the third period.

Then Michigan punter Stan Kemp, backed into his own end zone, kicked as the Purdue line closed in. Purdue linebacker Frank Burke blocked the kick, caught the ball and stepped over the goal line for the winning touchdown.

The Bollermakers shocked Michigan on the first series of downs by sticking mainly to the ground on an 80-yard touchdown drive with fullback

Perry Williams blasting out most of the yardage.

Bob Griese passed only twice in the drive, including six yards to Bob Hurst for the touchdown.

The Wolverines seemed to be bound for another touchdown in the fourth period as Ward went 39 yards on a pass from Vidmer to Purdue's two yard line.

Bloomington, Ind. (UPI) — Sophomore quarterback Bob Naponic fired two touchdown passes to John Wright and Illinois gave inept Indiana little breathing room Saturday for a 24-10 Big Ten victory.

That made it 2-1 in the league for Pete Elliott's Illini while Indiana, which never got off the ground, is 1-1-1.

Naponic, whose last-period touchdown beat Ohio State a week ago, hit Wright with a 27-yard aerial in the second period and connected with the junior end for a 22-yard toss in the final stanza that killed any Hoosier chances for an uprisng before nearly 40,000 fans in windy weather.

Alert Illinois defenders, led by safetyman Phil Knell, intercepted four passes by the Hoosiers' Frank Stavroff and recovered three fumbles in the one-sided contest.

Over $11 Million Game Commission Outlines Ambitious Expansion Plan

By DICK HERMAN

If there is no place like Nebraska, it's likewise true there is almost no place in Nebraska the Game, Parks and Forestation Commission does not contemplate land purchases or capital improvements before July 1, 1969.

The Game Commission's detailed 1967-69 budget document, made available late Friday afternoon, lists 103 capital improvement projects costing $11,215,153.

The list ranges from $7,500 involving farm pond research to $3 million in outlays to cities and counties for park and recreational development work.

Never in any previous single biennium has the Game Commission outlined so ambitious an expansion program.

With the $11.2 million in capital improvement cash—approximately half of which would be federally supplied—the Commission also seeks $14,236,776 in operating funds.

So the agency's overall

Mel Steen

budget would be $25,451,929, contrasted with actual and estimated expenditures of $13,893,343.

And that $13.8 million bundle, the Commission's hefty budget submission reveals, was divided $9,070,563 for operational costs, $4,822,780 for capital improvements.

On many capital improvement projects, the Commission is deliberately vague on what specific land it wants to buy.

This explanation appears consistently: "Size and location will not be reported since this jeopardizes our ability to negotiate a fair market price."

The 1965 Legislature authorized a tightly-controlled condemnation power for the Game Commission. It, however, is limited to tracts set out in law with exact legal descriptions.

Besides acquiring land, improving present park, wayside, hunting, fishing and recreational facilities, the Game Commission wants $400,000 to "construct and erect a Wild West Arena and duplicate the Buffalo Bill Cody Wild West show."

This would be at North Platte, where an additional $38,200 investment for 1967-69 in Cody's Scouts Rest Ranch is recommended.

Following is a list of the major capital improvement projects proposed for the coming two years by the Game Commission:

Ash Hollow—$118,500.
Clear Creek Refuge in Garden and Kelth Counties—$109,200.
Chadron State Park—$231,380.
District III headquarters building at Norfolk—$92,500.
Fl. Hartshorn—$57,500.
Fl. Kearney—$36,880.
Fl. Robinson complex—$145,380.
Fremont lakes—$67,700.
Grove Lake recreational area—$138,015.
Hastings Naval Ammunition Depot area—$72,500.
Indian Caves State Park—$234,389.
Lincoln headquarters building—$1,321,750.

Lake McConaughy area, involving a "centrally located representative center for the general public"—$183,900.
Merritt Dam area—$63,000.
Miscellaneous hunting and fishing sites throughout state—$752,000.

Miscellaneous wayside and recreational area sites throughout state—$320,214.
Niobrara State Park—$70,000.
Platte Valley sites—$1,105,600.
Political subdivision—$3,000,000.
Ponca State Park—$373,400.
Pillar watershed area—$49,000.
Rainwater Basin Sites—$135,000.
Madison County recreational sites—$76,000.

River access sites throughout state—$39,300.
Salt Creek and tributaries in eastern Nebraska, involving nine sites—$131,140.
Sand Hill lakes—$77,000.
Surplus lands which may become available—$250,000.
Spring Creek in Johnson County—$75,000.
Watershed sites throughout state—$100,000.

The Commission's operational budget details proposals for equipment purchases, new staff and salary increases for present staff.

Commission Director M. O. Steen's salary would rise from a June, 1966, rate of $15,060 to $18,180 by June, 1969.

Whitey on Waivers

New York (AP) — Whitey Ford, the 37-year-old southpaw who has won more games than any other New York Yankee pitcher in history, has been placed on waivers for the purpose of giving him his unconditional release, the club said Saturday.

The Yanks emphasized, however, that Ford will return as a player next spring if he recovers sufficiently from an operation he underwent last Aug. 25. The surgery was to relieve a circulatory blockage in the left shoulder and arm.

Ford, who has 234 major league victories but posted only a 2-5 record last year, will remain with the Yanks in another capacity if he is unable to pitch, a club spokesman added. He is currently working out with the Yankees' winter instructional league group in Hollywood, Fla.

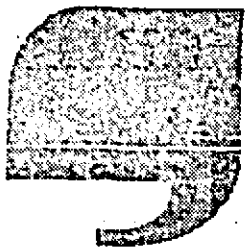

The move was one of several announced by the club which earlier this week hired Lee MacPhail as general manager.

Outfielder Hector Lopez also was placed on waivers, while first baseman Ray Barker, outfielder Archie Moore and pitchers Jack Cullen, Gil Downs and Mike Jurkiewicz were sent outright to Toledo of the International League.

Homecoming Spirit Pervades Plainsman Campus

With the excitement of the University of Nebraska Homecoming activities still echoing, plans are in full swing for another Homecoming, that of Nebraska Wesleyan University.

A three-day festival—Oct. 27-29—is anticipated by the Plainsmen.

Scheduled to coincide with teachers convention, the Homecoming activities will begin with an Oct. 27 coffee at the Campus Center, honoring teaching alumni of NWU. The 3 p.m. event is to be sponsored by the Student Education Assn.

That evening, a torchlight parade at 6:15 will move through the campus to the Wesleyan practice field for a bonfire pep rally at 6:30.

Downtown Parade

At 8 p.m. the Pride-of-the-Plainsman marching band, the Pep Club and the candidates for W-Club Sweetheart will parade through downtown Lincoln. Also in the parade will be Shrine clowns and decorated cars.

Oct. 28, the day of the Homecoming game, will find the Wesleyan spotlight on alumni. A coffee for alumni and members of the Board of Trustees will be at 9 a.m.

The 11th annual Alumni Awards Convocation is set for 10 a.m. State Sen. John E. Knight, a 1947 graduate, will be the featured speaker and awards will be presented to six NWU alums.

Separate meetings of the Alumni Assn. and the Board of Trustees are scheduled for 11 a.m. on game day and a joint meeting of the two groups will be that afternoon.

A pre-game supper will be served at 5 p.m. in the Campus Center and a coffee in the Campus Center and open houses at various social organizations will follow the game.

The next day, Oct. 29, the Homecoming Dance at 9 p.m. in Ira Taylor Gym will put the finishing touch to the weekend.

Focus on the Game

Focus of all the activities, of course, will be the football game itself, pitting the Plainsmen against the Cardinals of William Jewell College of Liberty, Mo.

Game time is 7:30 p.m. on Oct. 28 at O. N. Mages Stadium.

Pre-game and halftime shows will be presented by the band and the W-Club Sweetheart will be crowned at halftime.

Elected by members of the varsity men's athletic organization, the W-Club Sweetheart is chosen for attractiveness, poise, personality and activities in athletics both as participant and fan.

Nominees for this year's title are Janis Brown, Jane Paul and Kay Shuman.

Long Friendship Is Basis for New Service in Heritage League

Among the new officers of the Heritage League are (from left) Mmes. Atlee Stephan Jr., secretary; Robert Cather, treasurer; and Lloyd Schmadeke, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Stan Wentz (left), temporary chairman of the newly formed Heritage League discusses the club with Mrs. William Cook (center), president, and Mrs. Harold P. Jacobs, vice president.

Since the General Federation of Women's Clubs (GFWC) regards "Junior" as an age and not a state of mind, a new club has been organized which comprises former, long-time members of the Junior Woman's Club.

Although the Federation makes no hard and fast rules, it recommends that women leave the Junior groups at age 35 and join a Woman's Club on the senior level. The age of 40 is considered the maximum for Junior membership.

Because of this, the Heritage League was formed by 44 women who feel they no longer wish to be called Juniors. The club is intended to be the organization to which Junior Woman's Club members may belong when they wish to transfer.

Younger Members Help

Several younger members of the Junior club helped organize the Heritage League and will have membership for a time in both clubs and act as liaison between the two groups. Although not a part of the Lincoln Woman's Club, the new club will be affiliated with the GFWC and Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs.

The name Heritage League was chosen because of the attitudes and associations its members have from the past and the hope and determination that these can continue into the future, said Mrs. William E. Cook, president.

Six of the nine charter members of Junior Woman's Club are among the charter members of the new club. Although charter membership was restricted to Junior women, club membership will be open on a limited and selective basis to other women.

Mrs. Cook said that "many fast friendships were formed in working closely together in Junior Woman's Club. All of the women belong to other organizations which contribute to the progress of the city and state, but there was an overwhelming desire to continue working together."

Meetings are set for the fourth Tuesday of each month with most sessions beginning at 1 p.m. Occasional evening meetings will be scheduled so that members who are employed or who have gone back to college to finish a degree will be able to attend, Mrs. Cook indicated.

Luncheon Planned

First formal club meeting will be a luncheon Oct. 25 at the University Club at which time new officers will be installed. Luncheon committee members are Mmes. Gil Dietemeyer, Norman Hoelk, Pat Ash, Robert Rohrbaugh and John C. Cox, chairman.

Heritage League officers include Mmes. Cook, president; Harold P. Jacobs, vice president; Atlee Stephan Jr., secretary; Robert Cather, treasurer; and Lloyd Schmadeke, corresponding secretary.

During the League's formation, Mrs. Stanley Wentz served as temporary chairman and Mrs. Dale Newsham was temporary secretary.

"Members of the Heritage League are looking forward to new horizons of civic service and continuing friendships in their

Organized Farm Groups Set to Oppose Unionization Campaign Labor Seeks Farm Worker Union

By OVID A. MARTIN
Washington (AP) — The big news in agriculture next year is likely to be on the farm labor front.
Labor unions are laying the groundwork for an all-out drive to get a foothold in agriculture for the eventual organization of the great bulk of farm workers, especially seasonal workers engaged by larger farm operators.
Organized farm groups are getting set to battle the unionization campaign. In the forefront of opposition will be the American Farm Bureau Federation, largest general farm organization. It is particularly strong in states which grow crops needing large numbers of seasonal workers.
The impending battle may be three-cornered, with labor divided. Both the AFL-CIO and the Teamsters are expected to campaign to set up their own local farm labor unions. They have come into strong, and sometimes bitter, opposition in organizational efforts in California.
The 1967 farm labor unionization efforts are expected to expand from California and Texas to Florida, New Jersey, Michigan and other states using a high percentage of transient labor. If they gain footholds in these states, the labor organizations would reach into other states in 1968 and following years.

The AFL-CIO has set up a new National United Farm Workers Organization Committee and is preparing to provide it with large funds and skilled manpower. Cesar Chavez, a colorful California farm labor leader, heads the new committee.
Most farm operators oppose unionization of farm workers and compulsory bargaining in agriculture because they believe farming is unduly vulnerable to strikes.
The Farm Bureau, for example, has stated repeatedly in resolutions that "farmers are far more vulnerable to work interruption than any other employers because their crops must be harvested when ready." A strike, they say, could bar harvesting and result in the loss of a farmer's complete year's effort.
No such vulnerability exists, they say, in industry.
Farm operators also argue that harvests lost as a result of strikes could adversely affect consumer supplies and prices of food.

"Compulsory collective bargaining by unions for farm workers," the Farm Bureau says, "would not result in equalization of bargaining power, but rather the submission of farmers to labor union leaders."
The impending efforts to organize farm workers will be primarily in states which pay the highest wages. California, for example, has been paying the highest farm wages in the country—an average of $1.49 an hour this summer. This, of course, is far above the farm minimum wage of $1 which will go into effect on Feb. 1 next year. It is even above the minimum of $1.30 which becomes effective Feb. 1, 1969, under minimum wage legislation passed by Congress this year.

Mrs. George Little of Washington, D.C., the League of Women Voters' observer at the U.N., will speak at a dinner that night at the Nebraska Wesleyan University Campus Center.

In New Jersey, a state already encountering agitation for unionization of agricultural workers, the wage had been averaging $1.41 an hour. In only 15 states have this summer's farm wages averaged less than the $1 minimum. These states are mostly in the South.
Efforts at unionization will be made in states where the farm labor supply is the tightest, primarily those which must depend on outside workers. Union leaders figure it will be easier to organize in such areas because of the short worker supply.
The impending farm unionization campaign is expected to be a top problem and will be discussed at fall and winter conventions of farm organizations.

Visas Lift Curtain—Just a Bit

Belgrade (UPI) — Yugoslavia has taken another step to lift the Iron Curtain with a decree to liberalize procedures and requirements for its citizens who wish to travel abroad.
Like the regulation it supersedes, the decree stipulates that exit permits called visas in Serbo-Croatian will be valid for one year.
But applicants under the new decree may apply for permits for single trips, several journeys, or unrestricted border crossings during the one-year period. Up to now, Yugoslavs have had to reapply for a new exit permit for each trip abroad.
The liberalization is designed to benefit an estimated 200,000 Yugoslavs now working abroad, relatives of Yugoslavs abroad, businessmen, delegations and residents of border areas.

Isolation Will Greet Moon Men

Space Center, Houston (UPI) — When the first Americans reach the moon and then come back to earth they'll undoubtedly be world heroes — but they'll also be slapped into isolation for at least 30 days.
No one knows what the first moon travelers may bring back with them in the way of possible exotic or dangerous organisms. And that's why preparations even now are under way to isolate them for scientific study.
Construction of a special quarantine station for America's first moon travelers already has begun here and its completion is expected toward the end of 1967. It's to this station the moon crew will be whisked directly from their splashdown point.
The isolation will involve not only the lunar astronauts, but also their Apollo spaceship and two piles of rock they are scheduled to bring back from the moon.
Just how they will be transported from the ship that picks them up to the quarantine station, called the Lunar Receiving Lab, has not been decided. But officials say whatever method is selected will be a speedy one.

New for the slopes is the ski shirt, designed for women but looking like a man's button-down collar oxford shirt. Matter of fact, it was the man's oxford that started the new item in sportswear, reports Jack A. Winter, president of the company introducing the style.

One of the firm's executives, Peter Bauer, a skier, noticed girl skiers last spring in Vermont, with boy shirts flying out over their ski pants. Bauer used one of his own shirts for a model, bought oxford from a supplier to men's wear, and added waterproofing and lining. The shirts come in three colors — oxford blue, chamols with blue stripes, and wine.

Stop Wrinkles

Colder months can give your skin a lovely bloom, but also wrinkles. Dry, crisp air causes the skin to contract, preventing protective oils from reaching the surface. Ask your druggist for moist Olay oil and stroke it into your face, neck and hands before you go outdoors. Patting in round the eyes before you apply make-up, gives the skin a healthy radiance.

Parties, Plays Spark Homecoming Eve

With an end to the Homecoming activities that filled the calendars of many an NU student and alum the past few days, Saturday evening was a good night for many to hit the hay early. For others, though, there were some house parties and a formal fall party to attend.

On the Nebraska Wesleyan campus a party for the independent students was held. A combo party filled the bill for members of two Greek houses.

"A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," the first play of the Lincoln Community Playhouse season, was a delight for those in attendance.

25th Year

Love Memorial Hall, a co-operative women's residence on the NU East Campus, celebrated its 25th anniversary this week. Alumnae and present residents gathered Saturday evening at Nebraska Center for a special banquet.

Appropriate costumes and decorations carried out the Stardusters Dance Club theme "Hard Times Party." In charge of the dinner-dance at the Lincoln Hotel Terrace Room were Messrs. and Mmes. Jim Haworth and Les Ryman.

MALE MODES Sartorial Advice? An Expert's Nearby

Almost every man would like to dress better—particularly if it wouldn't tax his hard-pressed budget. He'd like to know what to select, what would wear best, how it should fit, what to properly wear for different occasions.

One way would be to take some courses in textiles, tailoring, grooming; spend months at the library reading every tome available on the subject, and to devote years being educated in all the foregoing subjects. Obviously, few men—if any—have that kind of time.

But there's an easier—and actually—better way. Just seek and accept the advice of your favorite men's retailer. He's a real "pro"—an expert on what's right for his customers. Would he do it? You just bet he would—for a well-groomed, satisfied and admired client is the very best advertisement his store could have.

Trends: Teens and young men are definitely headed back as "hat wearers"—due to the popularity of off-beat headwear, says the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear. Once a youngster learns that a head covering will keep his hair neat, his head cool and his total look smarter—he'll be a convert for good . . . Many smartly dressed men are now wearing blue slacks, instead of the conventional gray, with navy blazers. A smart look.

Dress Tips: Examine, test and replace, if necessary, the shoelaces in shoes that have not been worn in some time. It will save you the annoyance of having them break after a few wearings . . . Regardless of whether you know your own size, allow your men's store salesman to check on it occasionally. Sizes not only change with weight, but a man has a tendency to settle in height as he grows older.

Grooming Faults: The wearing of a pull-over sweater with business clothes is a warm is needed, but a sweater vest instead of the completely senseless and sloppy habit among some young people of wearing a regular shirt with the shirt tails hanging outside . . . And among the worst of all, the going-without-socks bit—unsanitary and possibly harmful.

Care of Clothes: Mud spots can usually be removed from woollens by "ruffing" them and brushing with a stiff brush . . . Men should shave low enough on the front of the neck to remove stubble, which, while not seen, can "fuzz up" the knot of a tie and the collar of a business shirt.

Origin: It is now contended that the first wearers of ties were not the Croations, but Roman orators who wore something called "focallia" to warm the vocal chords.

Grooming Note: Tiny shavings of soap rubbed on the fingernails, followed by a chamois buffing, will produce a masculine polish.

ARMSTRONG FURNITURE

A HEARTY . . .

"Thank You"!

. . . to the Many Old and New Friends Who Made Our Recent Anniversary Sale . . .

The Biggest Event In Our 17-Year History

Your warm-hearted support is greatly appreciated, not only because of the business transactions involved, but because of your solid endorsement of a new type of furniture store we dreamed of for many years . . . and which just a year ago became a living reality. In the face of an ages-old tradition of furniture vending which places "price-appeal" first and quality and styling second and third, we envisioned a new and more affluent society which would prefer to be catered to with quality and styling foremost.

We still believe that a fair price is an important factor in any furniture transaction. At the same time we feel that the most fantastically prosperous nation in the world's history has altered its purchasing concepts, particularly for home furnishings. Today's home-maker thinks primarily of the beauty and comfort of her home, and of the ultimate welfare of her family, rather than of how little she has to spend. With this in mind, it will ever be our desire to bring you the best true value in smartly styled furnishings, displayed against a background that will contribute to your shopping pleasure and discernment. Thank you again for your interest Cataloging... fulltime job for Miss Birky.

Her Work Is in Volumes

By JAN SACK

Beneath 60,000 volumes belonging to the Lincoln Public Schools, you'll find Gwendoline Birky.

What's she doing? Well, she's the head cataloger in the Technical Service Center for Instructional Materials, created last year. Miss Birky's title is supervisor of library technical services.

Miss Birky's career in education reaches back to the 1930s when she was graduated from Nebraska Wesleyan University. Her first teaching job was in a Hastings elementary school.

Exchange Teacher

While in Hastings she had the opportunity to participate in the exchange teacher program and spent a year in Bournemouth, England.

"My classroom in England was the largest I ever had... 43 wiggly seven-year-olds," Miss Birky recalls.

Hastings also was where she became interested in library work, as she was in charge of the centralized library for grades four through six.

When she first came to Lincoln, Miss Birky taught at Randolph School but decided to get her Master's Degree in Library Science from the University of Denver.

This degree came in handy in 1955 when she was asked to take the position of librarian at the newly opened Southeast High School. She was at Southeast until two years ago when she set up the materials center at Clare McPhee Laboratory School before assuming her present job.

B&PW Activities

School doesn't demand all her time, though, as she is a member of Lincoln Axis Club of Business and Professional Women (B&PW) and has served as president of the Nebraska Business and Professional Women's Federation.

Among her professional activities are memberships in National Education Assn.; Nebraska State Education Assn., of which she is past District 1 secretary; Lincoln Education Assn., of which she is past secretary; American Library Assn., and Lincoln Library Assn., of which she is president.

Miss Birky also belongs to Delta Kappa Gamma and has been president of Zeta Chapter. On the state level she has been parliamentarian and is now chairman for professional affairs.

Mayor's Committee

Because of her interest in foreign visitors to the U.S., Miss Birky is a member of the Mayor's Committee for International Friendship.

As a tribute to her outstanding accomplishments, Miss Birky was listed in the first and second editions of Who's Who in American Women.

And though her life has had many exciting moments, one in particular stands out—that of being presented to Queen Elizabeth of England, now the Queen Mother.

Miss Carolyn Gerner

An Apr. 22 wedding is planned by the couple.

LAVENDER FLU

Your grandfather probably knew this cure. Flowers of lavender quilted in a hat were supposed to ward off "stuffed-up" noses and head colds. Pleasant treatment—but certainly not a sure cure. Today, thanks to medical science, we have numerous effective vaccines... against flu, whooping cough and other respiratory diseases... to immunize and protect us from the discomforts of infection. So, why suffer needlessly. Ask your physician about them. Let him prescribe the medication that is most effective for your needs. Then come to us for prescription service.

DEAR DIARY

Last weekend was "cookout" weekend for one Lincolnite.

The Scoutmaster rose at 7:10 a.m. Saturday to keep a 7:45 a.m. appointment with his troop, which he was taking on a camping trip.

The trip lasted all day Saturday, Saturday night, Sunday morning and into Sunday afternoon until 3 p.m. The food was dried food, prepared by the boys under the guidance of their leader.

After breaking camp and returning his young charges to their homes, Scoutmaster had to hurry home, get cleaned up and shaved to go to a Sunday School cookout in the evening.

"Needless to say there was more variety in the cookout menu Sunday evening," he reports.

A Good New Business Site?

At least one town in Nebraska has no soda fountain in a drug store or drive-in. That is within the business district at least.

A group of Lincolnites finally had to settle for bottled soft drinks on a warm afternoon last week—

One Lincoln couple who have just returned from Europe report that in some European hotel bathroom—there are three sets of faucets—one for a tub bath, one for a shower and one for a spray. And hanging from the ceiling is a cord.

More Histories Than Dr. Emerson's

By JAN BURNS

Though it goes under the title "Autobiography," Dr. Clarence Emerson's book touches on many more histories than his own.

Its scenes stretching from the late 1800s to mid-20th century, the book is filled with glimpses of the histories of medicine and medical education, photography and, of course, family life in Lincoln and Dr. Emerson's hometown of Tabor.

Hunting and fishing yarns, mountain lore and tales of European travel also spice the story of the physician's full life.

For Grandchildren

He wrote his memoirs "for my grandchildren" and had 100 copies printed.

"I gave them all away—to my friends and family," he said.

Before undertaking the autobiography, Dr. Emerson had written a number of articles for medical magazines. It took "about five or six months" to compose the book, he said, adding "I had some very good help." In the book, he identifies his helpers as Wilma Quattrocchi and Josephine Ewen.

But the book is, of course, the doctor's own and includes the insights of more than 55 years of general and surgical practice in Lincoln.

"From the age of 12 there was no other ambition for me" than to become a physician, Dr. Emerson wrote.

Med College at 16

At the age of 16 he entered the new University of Nebraska Medical College.

"I entered the University with $65 and the clothes I wore," he recounted, "and finished after nine years with three degrees and about $1,000."

His degrees are a Bachelor of Science, granted by NU in 1906 (last spring the class held its 60th reunion at his Lincoln home); a Ph. D. in pathology and bacteriology, from NU in 1906 (he skipped the usual Master's Degree), and an M.D. granted by Rush Medical College in Chicago in 1911. He is a Fellow of the American College of Surgeons.

His sources of income during his college years, Dr. Emerson wrote, included carrying the morning Journal and evening News on "the longest route in the city." At that time, he explained, paper routes were owned by private individuals and "the going price was $5 a subscriber."

Fitting in well with his paper routes was another job — turning Lincoln's gas street lamps on and off.

But more important, it was during his college years that Dr. Emerson met Dora Dean French, his late wife. The couple's two daughters are Mmes. Thomas Pansing and Robert Guenzel.

Among Dr. Emerson's hobbies, photography is important and one of his pictures received an award from the American Physicians Art Assn. His medical motion pictures, which he began taking when the first amateur movie cameras were produced, also attracted favorable attention.

And now that he has written his autobiography, what is Dr. Emerson doing? He's writing another book, at the insistence of "some relatives and friends."

Though it, too, will be "practically" autobiographical, Dr. Emerson explained, "I'll probably give a different name to it. It's to include some of my sports; I didn't have anything but hunting and fishing in this one."

Elm Disease Spreading

Healthy elm twig (left) shows contrast to the doomed twig.

By EMERY W. NELSON
County Extension Agent

Each year Dutch elm disease spreads a little farther and occurs more frequently in Nebraska. Naturally, homeowners are apprehensive about their elm trees and are highly interested in the identification of this disease.

Positive identification from visual symptoms is not possible. This disease causes appearances in the elm tree that are similar to several other diseases. Nevertheless, when an elm tree shows a combination of several symptoms which are described below, one can feel quite certain that the tree is infected and asks for a laboratory diagnosis.

One of the first symptoms of Dutch elm disease is the wilting of leaves in June or July. Usually one or two branches will appear to wilt and roll or cup on the edges. This should not be confused with the normal fall yellowing and dropping of elm leaves.

As summer progresses the wilting symptoms on an infected tree become more pronounced. Usually the leaves on some branches turn a dull green or yellow. They slowly dry out and fall or turn brown, curl and remain on the twig for some time.

When these symptoms occur, one should look at the wood under the bark on a small branch. Infected trees will show a brownish discoloration which appears as discontinuous streaks when the bark is removed. This test should be made on branches about 1/2 inch in diameter from the part of the tree showing the wilting symptoms.

When these symptoms occur on a tree, it would be wise to contact your County Agent of City Forester and have samples of the branches taken for laboratory testing.

Your Nurseryman Speaks Plants Begin Their Fall Fashion Show

Mother Nature's fall fashion parade is beginning. Several plants that color most spectacularly are not well-known simply because they are not widely planted.

For example, leaf for leaf, euonymus alatus or burning bush has the most brilliant fall coloration. It is red-tinged. No eye can avoid its commanding beauty in the autumn landscape.

One Midwest landscape architect has planted thousands of these plants along his state's interstate highway. In fact, he has created such a demand for this plant that it is hard to buy in some locations.

However, this is not the only reason that euonymus alatus is not well-known.

First, it has an ungainly name. Its real beauty is in fall yet it is not planted until spring. Who can remember a name like euonymus alatus from October until April?

This is reputed to be the burning bush that Moses found on the mountain in the Bible story. If this plant appeals to you, order one now for delivery in the spring or try to remember burning bush, Moses or the Bible until spring. With this clue, your nurseryman can more probably deliver the right plant.

Another shrub often overlooked in the fall parade of colors is dogwood. Its foliage turns to a rich maroon or purple. It is not as spectacular as euonymus alatus, but it does have the added advantage of brilliant red canes that give life to the landscape through winter.

If it were not for ash, cottonwood and locust all of which color bright yellow in autumn, ginkgo would be as popular as the hardwood maples and oaks.

This tree is tough. It will grow under conditions where other trees would give up the fight and die. Seemingly it loves concrete and smog. Yet it is not widely planted possibly because of its name.

Since it is the sole surviving tree from the Ice Age, call it the Ice Ager and get one planted. This writer has yet to have an unhappy experience with a ginkgo tree.

Farm Kitchen Gives Atmosphere of Warmth

By Associated Press

Nothing gave the old New England farmhouse more of an atmosphere of warmth and hospitality than its "farm kitchen," large and rustic and comfortable.

Architect Herman H. York has succeeded in placing such a kitchen in a three-bedroom, modest-sized house rather a rambling structure. True, the kitchen has modern touches, but its exposed beams and general doors leading from the living room to the rear terrace enhance the open effect. Those families who want a clear definition between the rooms without destroying the vista can use a low, open and not-too-long divider. A fireplace at the end of the living room provides a desirable note of coziness.

Door Option

An optional door location is shown in bedroom No. 3. This door would lead from that bedroom to the foyer should the room be used, instead, as a study or den. A retired couple conceivably might use such an arrangement, placing a studio couch in the den so that it could be turned into sleeping quarters for a guest.

The main bedroom has three separate closets and a sizable private bath with a stall shower. The other bath is of equal size and has a tub. Bedroom No. 2 has a very large closet and cross-ventilation.

There is a full basement under all of the house except the garage and laundry. On a plot which slopes down from the road, such a basement can be given extra daylight with large glass areas at the rear and a terrace at the lower level. A playroom and extra bedrooms can be located here.

carefully proportioned to keep the various elements in scale with the over-all picture. An example of this is the slenderness of the posts supporting the covered portico, in keeping with the details of a moderate-sized house.

Light Ceiling

A light-colored ceiling on this portico helps to keep the kitchen gay and cheerful, since the bay window of that room extends into the porch area.

Brick is used for the entire front bedroom wall harmonizing nicely with the vertical siding in the portico and the wood shingles on the rest of the house. A nice mixture of the old and the new.

Nos. 15 (Churchich) and 36 (Wachholtz) Lead Big Red

Not Word But Deed Counts

By CURT MOSHER

If it took an avalanche of bubbly oratory Larry Wachholtz and Bob Churchich probably would have trouble leading the Nebraska Cornhuskers out of a flooded shower room.

If sheer muscle were a prerequisite for leadership the Cornhuskers would be fortunate to find Memorial Stadium.

But because it takes instead undefineable intangible abilities, plus the very tangible quality of raw football talent this quiet but confident duo is helping lead NU to what all Husker partisans hope will be another season to match last year's.

Wachholtz is a good captain because in addition to those intangibles he possesses he can run with a football; he can cover a pass receiver; he can kick a football and he has great natural instinct.

Churchich, too, has that instinct, he can handle the ball well and he can throw it better than most.

Both have the idea that if ditched in the middle of the Pacific the thing to do would be to swim out. But they wouldn't talk about it. They would simply do it.

There haven't even been any meetings called by the leaders. Well, there was one, for the seniors, back at the beginning of the season.

"Just before fall camp ended our practices didn't seem to have any snap," Wachholtz said. "Some of the other guys thought the seniors ought to have a meeting without the coaches and talk things over."

"We knew that some of the young players were going to be playing ahead of us. We talked it over and told our gripes."

"But what we decided was that if we (the seniors) were going to loaf, then everybody would loaf. We had to set a good example. Things seemed to come along better after that. Even coach Devaney said so."

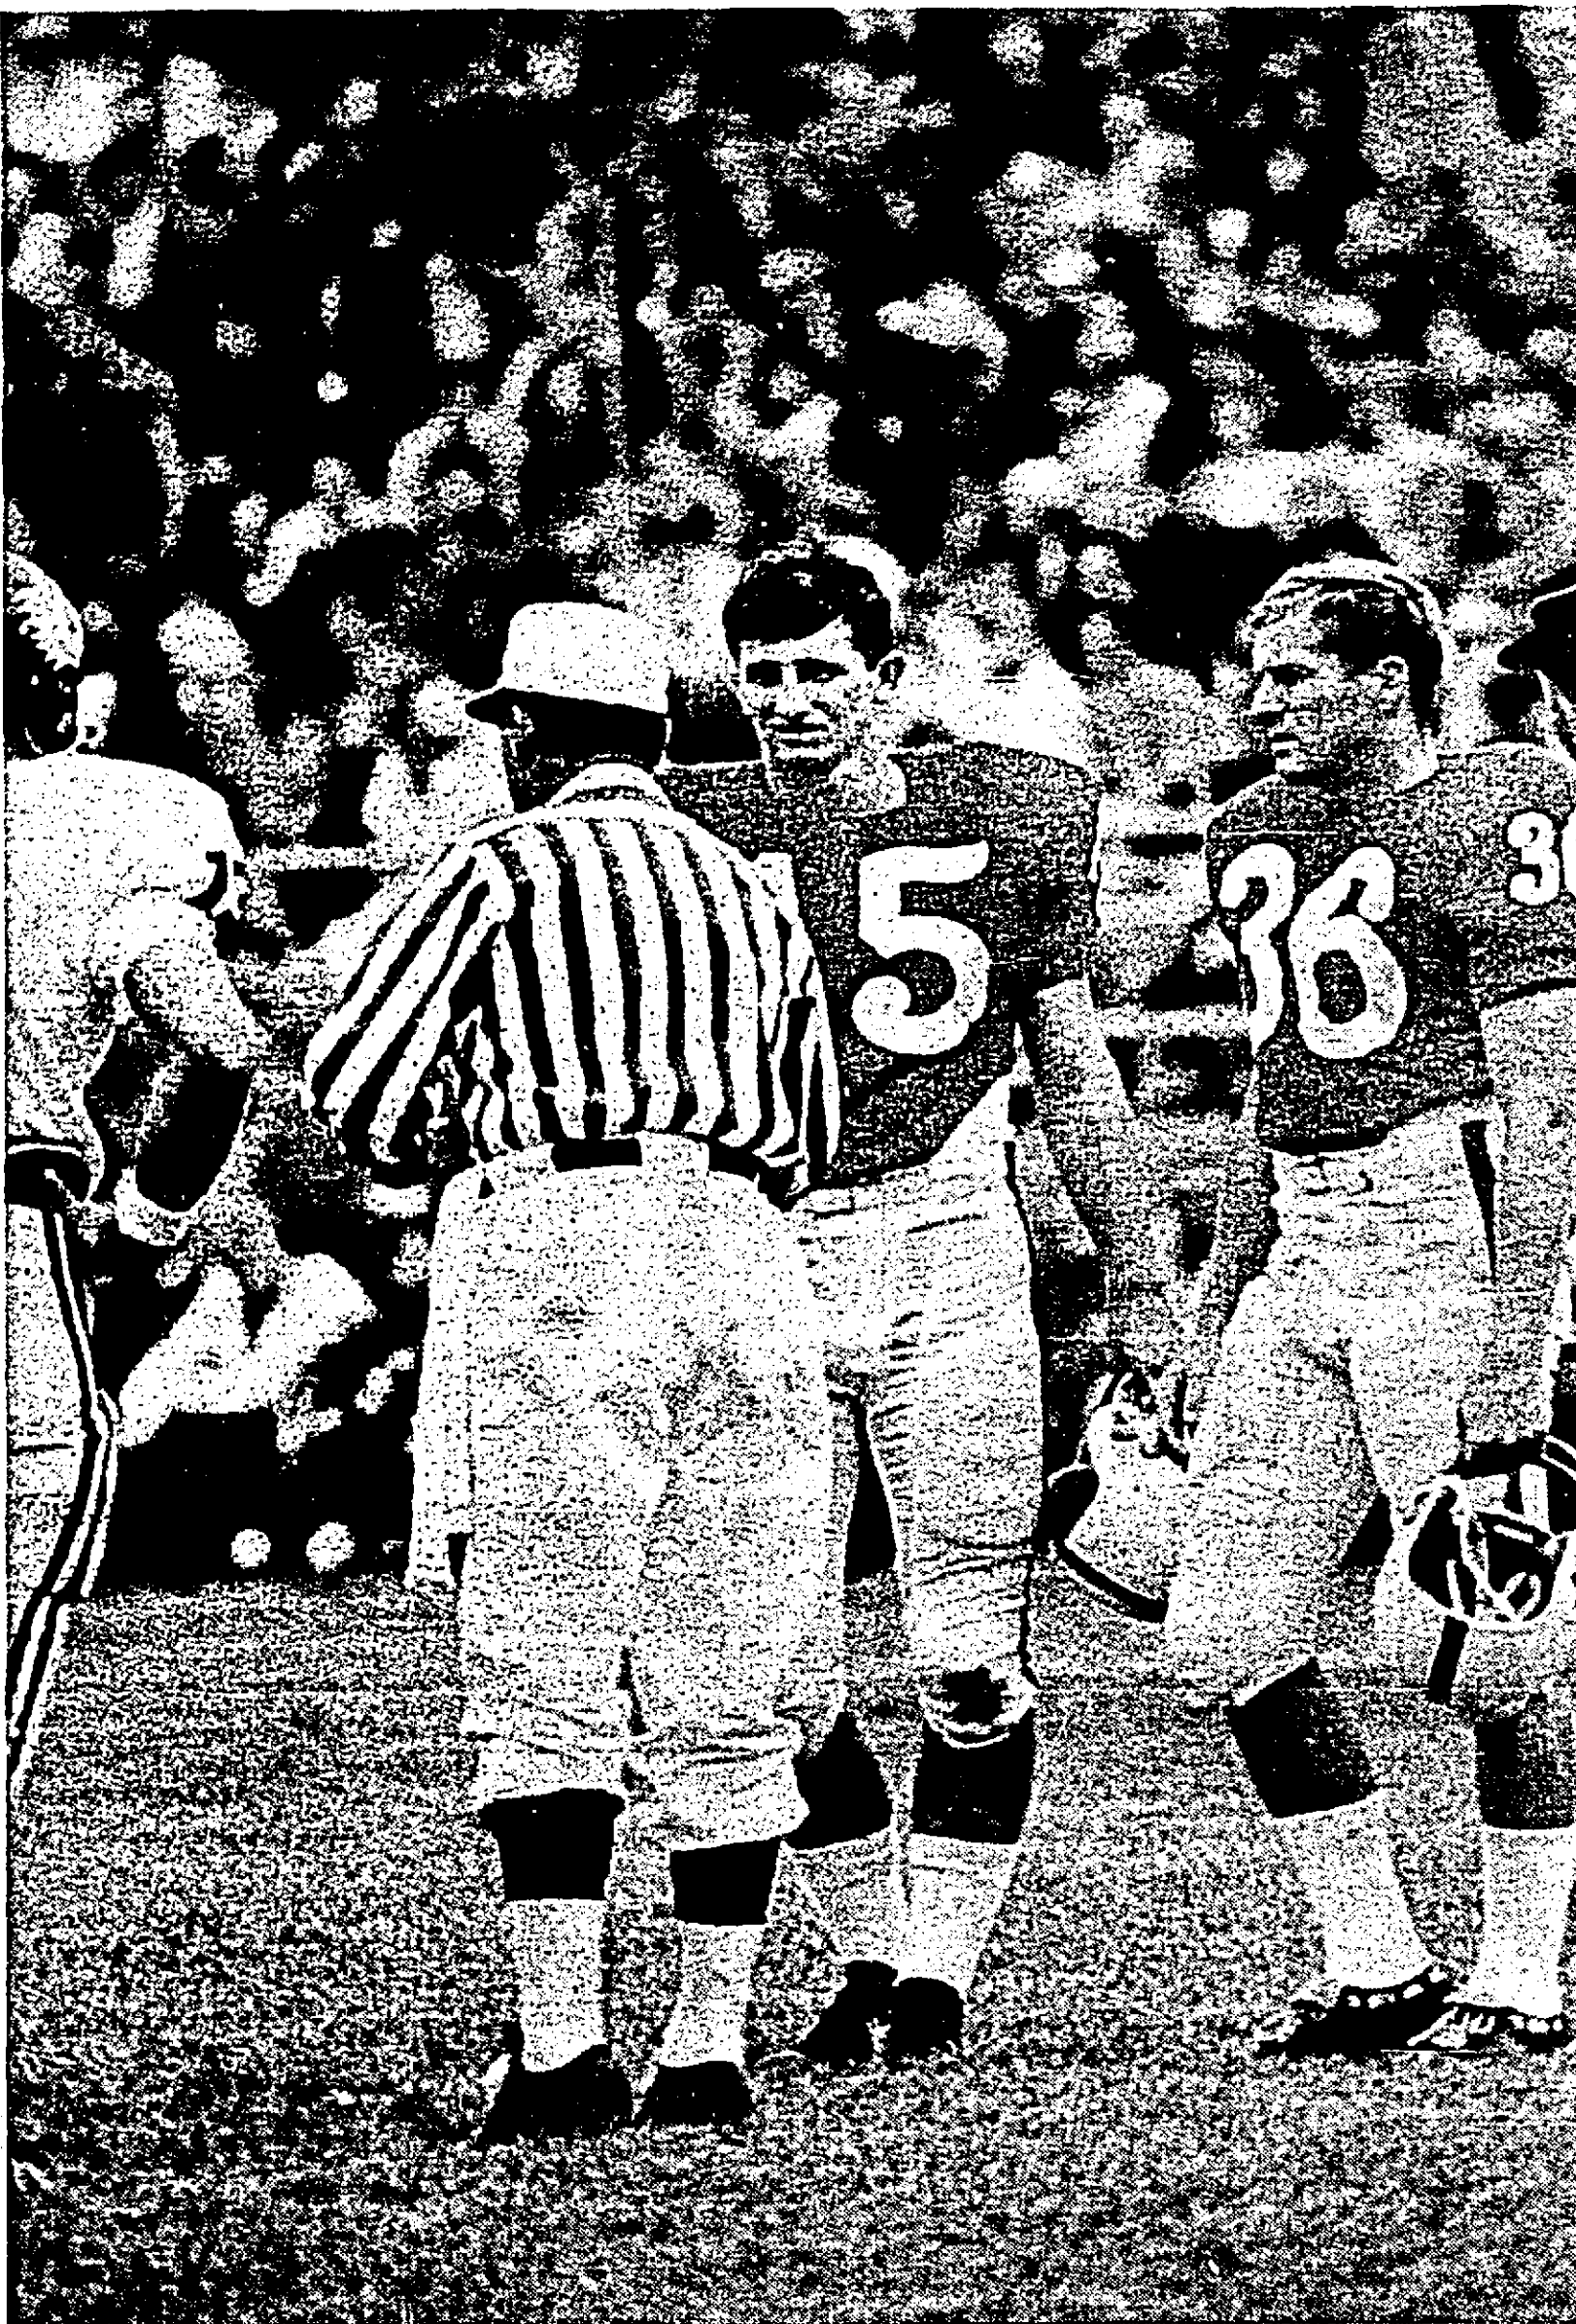

Churchich says one possible role is as a go-between the players and the coaches.

No Fire-Building

"Some guys might be afraid to go to the coaches with a problem, but they'll come and talk to us about them."

There is no real need in this pair's eyes to build a fire

Story of a Woman's Torment

Currently showing at the State is "Return of the Seven," with Yul Brynner in the key role in a story about the escapades of seven gun slingers. General audience.

MOVIES

Starting Wednesday at the State will be "Juliet of the Spirits," which won the New York Film Critics Award as best foreign film (it's from Italy) of 1965. Giulietta Masina is in the title role, with Sandra Milo, Valentina Cortese and Sylva Koscina, Marlo Pisu and Lou Gilbert in other important roles.

Federico Fellini directed this daring story of a woman tormented by visions and apparitions when she discovers her husband to be unfaithful. Color and contour are hauntingly beautiful and a subtle musical accompaniment enhances the mood as Juliet seeks — and finds — a measure of peace if not happiness. Adult.

Imaginative Miniaturization

Raquel Welch and Stephen Boyd make an extraordinary voyage at the Stuart.

It's 1995 and opponents in the cold war have a process for miniaturizing men and materials, setting the stage for "Fantastic Voyage", playing now at the Stuart.

Only one man in the world knows how to control the miniaturization and he has suffered a brain injury operable only from within his skull.

Even with an unknown saboteur among them, a submarine crew of five medical and technical experts is reduced to germ size, injected into the unconscious scientist's blood stream for the fascinating trip through his body to repair the damaged brain.

There's an able cast, starring Raquel Welch and Stephen Boyd, and the film profits from imaginative handling of the details of a living being. Adult-youth.

Film, Lecture On Argentina

A man "who knows Argentina as a South American" will present a color film program on the country's progress after 12 years dictatorship.

Swiss educated traveler Eric Pavel will present his program, "Argentina Smiles Again," Tuesday at 2 and 8 p.m. at the Nebraska Theater.

The film is one of a series sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce women's division.

Experimental Film for Society

"Hallelujah the Hills," an experiment with various techniques of movie-making by Adolfo Fekas, will be shown at the Nebraska Theater Wednesday but admission is restricted to members of the University of Nebraska Union Film Society.

Mekas, who made this film in 1963 at a cost of only $75,000 is described as a "hardshell cinema nut" from Manhattan's Lower East Side. The film is promoted as weird, woozie and wacky, corny and slapstick.

There will be a film forum for discussion of "Hallelujah the Hills" and "Eroica," which was shown earlier, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Nebraska Union.

It's Long Distance To the Far East

An oriental version of the spy thrillers in the James Bond style is "What's Up Tiger Lily?" now playing at the Varsity.

Woody Allen has all kinds of problems, including these individuals: Befuddled Tatsya Mihashi, shapely Mie Hama, Japanese bathing beauty Kumi Mizuma, the intriguing Eiko Wakabayashi, exotic strip-teaser China Lee and the Lovin' Spoonful, who ladle out some top tunes to accompany the riotous drama.

It's far out to the Far East, is one conclusion. Adult, mature youth.

Hollywood (AP) — Remember the 12-by-15-foot screen of silent movies and early talkies?

In 1952 Cinerama, using three cameras and three projectors, took happily screaming audiences down roller-coasters and across mountains on a massive screen twice as wide as it was high.

The next year Cinemascope unveiled Marilyn Monroe on a wide screen, and the year after that Todd A-O, challenging Cinerama's three-film process, issued "Oklahoma" on film 70 milli-meters wide—twice as wide as the previous standard.

Other 70-mm. systems followed — Ultra Panavision, Super Panavision, Super Technirama 70—and 35-mm. Vista Vision.

The latest is Dimension 150 or D-150, the brainchild of two ex-UCLA instructors who say it gives the highest fidelity yet in picture and sound.

United Artists Theaters, which own D-150, Inc., are installing the system in its new movie houses. Film Daily has said D-150 "has everything that has been claimed for it," and critic Bosley Crowther acclaimed its "stunning projection."

Dimension 150 was in the news last month when a New York appeals court, ruling on the manufacturer's petition, ordered "The Bible" shown in the process where possible. The $18 million spectacle is the only feature so far made in the system, but negotiations are on for others.

What's Dimension 150? The 150 stands for the number of degrees' spread it can photograph — nearly the field of human vision.

D-150 uses "wide-angle, telephoto and zoom camera lenses heretofore unknown to wide-film photography," says Dr. Richard Vetter, one of the co-inventors.

With special projector lenses it throws images on a deeply curved, floor-to-ceiling screen without distortion, he says, "giving audiences more sense of participation, involvement and realism."

Sandy Dennis Stars Again

Former Lincolnite Sandy Dennis, who recently completed the starring role in Warner Bros. "Up the Down Staircase," has been set to star again in a modern love story, "Sweet November."

Miss Dennis made her film debut in "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"

Banjos, Songs, Talk Blend With Fire Siren

By MIKE BAXTER

Armed with nothing but a nylon string guitar and a mouth harp, young Don Sutton walks unflinching into the darkened room.

Inside, he faces the three mobsters of musical taste. Bad, even for folk singing.

("I had heard," Sutton tells later, "there were four or five guys up there with banjos and guitars, trying to hit the same chord at the same time and not coming real close.")

He walks up to the stool-sitting three and he asks quietly: "There an empty seat up there?"

They move out.

From here on it's like the clean-shaven Good Guy teaching the tenderfeet how brones should really be broken, and not getting his white hat a bit dusty in the process.

Sutton, 22, a grocery store management trainee, University of Nebraska English major and former pro folk singer, plays flamenco briefly, then drives into "That'll Never Happen Again."

The song edges on the bawdy:

"I met a gal in a cabaret,
"Pretty Papa, well you goin' my way?"

"I'm mad to know what it's all about,

"Well you know she brought me home, just to kick me out..."

Sutton performs . . . and a personal encounter begins.

A close listener is the young man leaning on the coffee bar behind Sutton.

The song strings together a series of verses about person-meeting-person, and personal encounter is a big phrase in this man's vocabulary.

He is the Rev. Marvin Ruebsamen, three-year service veteran of the U.S. Navy and now associate minister of Christ Methodist Church. He is also general overseer of this onetime beauty shop where now the young meet to talk and sing.

Like a fairy tale toy shop, the deserted beauty parlor sleeps through the day until the street lights blink on and the babes are tucked away. Then it really moves.

Behind the tame facade lies the new Cross Winds Coffee House, 1233 F, where Tuesday and Friday nights the left-over scent of hair rinse blends with the aroma of hot capucino coffee.

A month ago, the only noise in the neighborhood came from Fire Station No. 3 at 1225 F.

Now there are mouth harps and banjos, guitars and gazoos, folk singers, waitresses, chessplayers, college and business school students, "cliff dwellers" from area apartments, and the curious.

A non-commercial venture, the Cross Winds is directed toward this personal encounter, the minister said.

"We want to bring about some producing dialogue between persons in a free atmosphere in which any concept, any idea could be presented.

"We feel like . . . revelation comes through the encounter of persons on a meaningful basis."

The Rev. Mr. Ruebsamen: Cross Winds spokesman

Its doors are open to all, but the main targets are "young adults who are really left out as far as Lincoln is concerned," the Rev. Mr. Ruebsamen said, "young adults who are working.

"On the college campus, activities aren't open to them; they don't fit into the high school crowd; they really find themselves the fifth wheel."

The Methodist minister and seven laymen, six from Christ Church and one from the Lincoln Unitarian Church, became interested last spring "in moving out into new areas of the community, becoming active as a renewal group," he said.

They rented the vacant, hall-like room and converted it to a coffeehouse. Up went a coffee bar. Up went modern art paintings. Up went a few low tables surrounded by pillows. Up went some lanterns.

The Coffeehouse Cadre, as the sponsors christened themselves, began selling coffee—their menu now lists eight kinds—and tea and cider.

In its first three weeks of operation, attendance has averaged 15 to 20 persons a night, about 10 of them regular customers. About half of the patrons are college students, and half are young workers, the Rev. Mr. Ruebsamen said.

No admission to the Cross Winds is charged. Ordinary coffee costs 25c for the first cup, but all later cups are free. Exotic coffees cost 30c.

With this financial underpinning, what chance has the Cross Winds of surviving?

The Cadre, the Rev. Mr. Ruebsamen conceded, is losing money.

But "these eight simply have taken a pledge to see that, financially, this goes. It's a strain on them, obviously, on time, on the pocketbook, but this was well worked-out ahead of time."

Partially offsetting low income is the low cost of entertainment, which is voluntary.

"We've had a little bit of luck," the minister said. Several performers like Sutton have "just dropped in, who can perform. They do it on the spur of the minute . . . We've never paid anyone, don't intend to."

Most entertainment is now musical, but "we hope to extend it beyond this . . . we'd like some drama, readings, things like this."

Contributions, he said, would be accepted.

'Deadwood Dick' At Broken Bow

Broken Bow — Wild Bill Hickok and such friends as Teetotal Tessie and Piano Annie will grace the Tiffany Theater stage here Tuesday through Thursday.

The "Deadwood Dick" melodrama will be the first for the Broken Bow Community Playhouse.

The play, based on Edward Wheeler's dime novels and written by Tom Taggart, will be performed at 8 p.m. each night.

Chess Contest Is in Omaha

The Midwest open chess tournament will be in Omaha next Saturday and Sunday.

Other special events on the Lincoln Chess Club's schedule in addition to meetings every Friday at Bennett Martin Library at 7 p.m., include a Feb. 11 Nebraska Scholastic Chess Tournament, for high school and college students, and some exhibitions dates to be announced.

ARE YOU HAVING ENOUGH FUN?

Most people blame the fact that they don't have more fun on lack of time, money or opportunity and over-conscientiousness. The real villain is our mental attitude. Fun is essential to your well-being. Studies show that the person who is getting the most fun out of life lives the longest. Having fun does more to relax nerve-sapping tensions than any therapy ever devised, according to noted west coast psychiatrist. If you're not having your share, it's time you broaden your interests.

ON THE COLLEGE STAGE

Jamison, Miss Kierstead . . . In "As You Like It."

'As You Like It' NU's First

Costuming and staging will be unusual, but the emphasis will be on words—Shakespeare's words—when the University of Nebraska Theater opens its second season in repertory Friday.

The play is Shakespeare's "As You Like It," directed by Prof. William R. Morgan.

The play will be performed on a turntable stage and the players will be costumed in attire patterned after the paintings of Watteau. Costuming thus places the play, written in the 1580's in a mid-18th Century setting.

But Morgan emphasizes that the words—such as the familiar "seven stages of man" passage—won't be upstaged by the staging.

Unrealistic Spoof

He described the play as an unrealistic spoof of the pastoral idyll. Noblemen, noble-ladies and clowns poke fun at the literary ideas and courtly manners of the day.

Central to the plot is the love affair between Orlando and Rosalind, a romance which blossoms in a peaceful, enchanted forest.

While Orlando writes love poems to Rosalind and hangs them on trees and shrubs in the forest, Rosalind—disguised as a boy—coaches him on the art of loving.

Playing lead roles in the first of five comedies the theater will present during the season will be Bobbie Kierstead of Lincoln as Rosalind, Bill Jamison of Springview as Orlando, Robert Hall of Lincoln as Touchstone, Jean McLaren of St. Charles, Ill., as Celia and Jack McCoy of Lincoln as Jacques.

Other cast members:

Mike Nelson, George Hauptman and Richard Haldon of Omaha, Ed Fern, Michael Otte, Bruce Borin, Tom Doty, Bill Dahlberg, Mark Beech, Terry Weymouth, Pam

Cossacks to Sing At Union College

The Don Cossack Chorus directed by Nicholas Koserukoss Kostrukoff will sing at the Union College auditorium, 49th and Prescott, at 8 p.m. Saturday.

The program by a group of men who are all American citizens but who claim the heritage of the Don River Basin in southern Russia, is a feature of Union College's series of weekly artist-adventure series. The Cossacks sing folk songs and do lively dances native to the Don country.

The artist-adventure series, open to the public, will include film features about national parks, lumberjacking in Alaska, sports, underwater exploration and other activities. On Oct. 29 a campus talent program is scheduled.

O'Neill Play by Doane Cast

Crete — Eugene O'Neill's "Touch of the Poet", will be presented by the Doane College Players as part of Doane College's Homecoming festivities. Performances are scheduled Oct. 21, 8 p.m.; Oct. 22, 7 p.m.; Oct. 23, 3 p.m.; Oct. 28 and 29, 3 p.m. and Oct. 30, 3 p.m.

'Marat/Sade' on NWU Schedule

Prof. Henry Blanke Jr. announces four major productions for Nebraska Wesleyan University's 1966-67 theater season.

Blanke said this "most challenging season" in his four years at Wesleyan will open Nov. 10-13 with a Moss Hart-George Kaufman comedy, "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

The musical, "Sound of Music," runs Jan. 12-15. The Shakespearean tragedy, "Romeo and Juliet," is March 8-11. "Marat/Sade," rated the best play of 1966, runs May 10-13.

"We try to pick good audience plays," Blanke said. "But . . . our first objective is to educate students interested in theater."

Blanke said all the 1966-67 shows are "big cast" productions, giving numerous stu-

Curtain time for the plays is 8 p.m. on weekdays and Saturdays and 2 p.m. on Sundays.

Like all hostesses who enjoy having guests we've tried to make preparations far enough in advance so that when the big day arrives, we can relax and enjoy the pleasure of our company.

Now let's face one of life's unpleasant truths. A lot of you good people take comfort in ridiculing clubwomen.

We are not blind or deaf or indifferent to your criticism and so we are constantly trying to improve our image. Why not investigate our efforts and give us some well earned praise for the constructive projects that do meet with your approval?

If it were not for clubwomen Ruskin would be without a public library, a kitchen in the community center, a representative at Girls State, tours for our young people, playground equipment in the park, Christmas and Easter gifts for numerous orphanages and institutions, scholarships for deserving students. That's only a few of the items we supply or contribute to in our town.

One of the fringe benefits of friendship is namedropping so as of this moment I would like to drop the name of a dear friend of mine, Arabelle Hanna of Superior.

Arabelle is one of the most devoted clubwomen in the state. Her entire lifetime, talents and energies have been devoted to the welfare of her community and in such quantity that words cannot express nor measure her gift.

Her fellow townsmen had so much confidence in her abilities as a clubwoman that they elected her to the office of mayor of Superior not once, but twice, and the second time by an overwhelming write-in vote. The manner in which Superior rewards her clubwomen is truly superior.

'Farm' Has First Tower

Omaha's "antenna farm," where the crop will be towers for each of the city's three television stations, begins operation with the dedication of KETV (channel 7) facilities at 9:30 a.m. on Friday.

The new tower, which stands 1,423 feet a b o v e average terrain, will be dedicated by Gerald L. Philippe, chairman of the board of General Electric Co. Philippe, a native of Iowa, graduated as a Phi Beta Kappa from the University of Nebraska with an M.A. degree in 1933 and was awarded an honorary doctorate from NU in 1960.

KETV Vice President-Manager Kenneth James said this tower will add nearly 90,000 homes to the station's potential audience.

The KMTV (Channel 3) tower at the "farm" is completed and testing has begun but no air date has been established for it.

The WOW-TV (Channel 6)
tower is under construction.
Target date for televising from it is Nov. 1.

Favorite Cruise Is in Caribbean

New York (UPI)—An increasing number of Americans are taking cruises, particularly to the Caribbean, but transoceanic sailings are showing a downward trend, says ASTA Travel News, publication of the American Society of Travel Agents.

The publication reports that more than 345,000 Americans took cruises during 1965, an increase of 55,000 over 1964.
But Atlantic crossings in 1963 dropped to 651,810 from 714, 000 in 1964 and Pacific crossings were off about 1% to 113,500.

Richard Mulligan portraying
Sam Garrett, who dashes off to the TV studio each day to portray a rugged and competent marshal but at home is
stumbling character.

Mulligan, who is fairly new to drawing room comedy, comes across warm and chuckily, if not always rip-roaringly funny. He even manages to make Garrett appear somewhat normal and plausible in his bumbings. Trouble is, the whole show bumbles.

Mariette Hartley is just a little too convincing as the efficient, loving wife. Too sweet also; most people prefer syrup with breakfast, not in the evening.

The writing is cloying and full of cliches and the situations so redundant the outcome is nearly always guessed in advance. This show deserves to stumble out of the TV lineup quickly.

Test Patterns

Jean Arthur, that grand comedienne of the past who was badly advised in doing her CBS sit-com series about a lady lawyer, is being cancelled. Her final telecast is set for Dec. 5. She will be replaced by "To Tell the Truth."

NBC officially confirmed that the police series Dragnet, one of TV's former "most popular" series, will return next season with Jack Webb starring. Harry Morgan will be his sidekick.

Mariette and Mulligan.

(His former sidekick Ben Alexander is in ABC's "Felony Squad" which is an unexpected hit this fall.)

Beauty Contest

ABC is preparing "Dream Girl '67," a new daytime program which will be a sort of continuing beauty contest, with the weekly winners returning for an annual gala beauty pageant.

CBS has signed Carol Burnett to star in her own hour-long musical-variety series for next fall.

NBC is readying "The Ballad of Smokey the Bear" for a color special to be telecast on Thanksgiving Day at 6:30 p.m. James Cagney will narrate the animated musical about the 21-year-old symbol of the U.S. Forest Service's fire prevention campaign.

Epic in Black

Television has accomplished what the movies alone couldn't. ABC-TV paid $5 million for "Cleopatra," which finally brought the film epic into the black, financially.

CBS is screening new shows for a possible mid-season replacement for "Jericho," which, due to poor ratings, appears doomed to bow out of its 6:30 p.m. Thursday slot.

Wilber — Place: Porky
Houska's Coffee Shop.
Props: one cup.

Time: most any Monday morning after Nebraska's Cornhuskers and the Wesleyan Plainsmen have played another pair. Scores immaterial.

Cast: Porky and the lawyer whose office is two doors east, Clarence Kunc. Both obviously papa-proud.

Porky: "Sure, my kid showed style, but oh, that one of yours . . . knees high, real fancy footwork, zig-zagged all over the field and never a fumble."

Clarence: "Thanks, Pork, but may I say your offspring called some of the prettiest stuff I ever saw. Calm as could be, adds real class to the outfit, good build, too."

Together: "Yeah, they're both chips off the old block, slices off the old ham, rocks off the rugged old mountain. Real carbon copies of . . . their mothers."

End.

No, Susie Kunc and Sandra Houska aren't footballers. They're the wow girls who bring oblique glory to little Wilber as they strut before Lincoln's two university bands.

Susie is the "Sunshine Girl" whose baton precision brings applause from 60,000 University of Nebraska fans each halftime. Sandra specializes more in routine than twirling as the drum majorette for Nebraska Wesleyan.

"The girls lived two blocks apart when they were Wilber schoolmates," recalled Mrs. Houska. "Susie was the featured twirler and Sandra the drum majorette. I think the town is proud of both—and I know their parents are."

schwede, NU kick-off specialist. When his WHS prepping got lost behind his parents' rural Crete address earlier in the season, it prompted more concern than Vietnam around the local pubs.

An NU sophomore, Susie is following quite literally in the footsteps of her long-time baton teacher, former Golden Girl Joyce Burns Thingan. The Pi Beta Phi hopes to become either a psychologist or guidance counselor.

Sandra is in her junior year at Wesleyan and her second at fronting the band. She plans to teach, is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta.

Undoubtedly both girls will

Miss Kunc . . . NU's 'Sunshine Girl.'

Miss Houska . . . Wesleyan's majorette.

be marching before national television audiences this season, as last. Nebraska takes on Missouri over the network Oct. 29, and the Plainsmen have been invited to perform Nov. 27 for the Green Bay-Chicago professional contest.

With four girls and no boys, incidentally, the Houskas are accustomed to football with a distaff slant. One daughter is KOLN-KGIN TV personality Sharon Prochazka. Another is Connie Wattjes of Lincoln, like Sandra, a former WHS twirler.

"We're still high school band-watchers, too," beamed the foursome's mother. "Our youngest, Gwen, is this year's majorette."

The Normal Teen-Ager

25% Have Experimented With Delinquency
But Only 3 Among 73 Became Delinquents

Chicago Daily News Special

What's the normal teen-ager like? A Chicago psychiatrist has studied in depth 73 normal suburban teen-age boys and discovered:

—About one of four experiment with delinquency in grammar school, yet only three of the 73 became juvenile delinquents.

—They struggle with worry, the blues, guilt and shame.

—They have anxiety about their role in boy-girl relationships. Two-thirds of high school freshman boys do not go out regularly on single dates and 45% have never gone with girls.

—Adolescent boys tend to feel closer to one parent than the other but rarely to both. Most felt they take after their fathers but that their mothers understand them better emotionally.

—Teens easily brag about sex but find it difficult to talk openly and freely about their feelings on the matter.

—Kissing and necking are common in the freshman year, heavy petting in the junior year. Four of five approve of sexual intercourse before marriage but only after high school. Only 10% had had sexual intercourse themselves by the end of junior high school year. The main conscious deterrent was fear the girl would become pregnant.

The psychiatrist, Dr. Daniel Offer of Michael Reese Medical Center, said the data "also question the myth that is perpetuated by the public and lay magazines about the appalling increase in dating and sexual behaviour among our high school students."

Even Oat Burners Have Castes

Hollywood (AP) — The mimeographed sheet headed "detailed shooting schedule" was actually a scene by scene breakdown of the actors, props and livestock needed in an episode of "Gunsmoke." The actors in scene one were the cast regulars, five cowboys and two women. The prop was a hatbox for Kitty, proprietor of the Long Branch Saloon. The livestock needed was "wagon & 1-up, 4 N.D. horses, 1 dog."

Robert J. Miles, "director of livestock" on the CBS hit, concentrated on the last. And on the day the scene was shot, a wagon drawn by a single horse stood on the set simulating Dodge City's Main Street. Four well-mannered horses drooped quietly before the hitching rail, and a dog, accompanied by his trainer, awaited the director's instructions.

The star system operates even in the TV animal business. At the bottom of the status pile is the "N.D. horse"—the initials stand for "non-descript"—and these are the animals just used to dress a set. Mostly they just stand around like extras to provide some color when the hero gallops dashing up in front of the saloon.

"The basic price for an N.D. horse is $10 a day," said Miles. "But that goes up to $15 a head when he has something to do. He becomes a 'semi-cast horse,' like a bit player."

For a full-fledged "cast horse" the price goes to $25 a day. These are the mounts of members of the cast, usually guest stars.

At the top of the heap is the "contract horse," whose owner is paid $100 a week under contract and which is never used on other shows. Such a horse is Chappo, the big animal ridden by "Gunsmoke" star Jim Arness. The animal which does not have a name in the show, is the fourth used by Arness under contract over the 11 years the series has been made.

There are types of horses, which are needed from time to time—rearing horses, falling horses, lay-down horses, jumping horses and dragging horses.

"A dragging horse—and I think there are only about two really good ones available—is trained to drag a stunt man, responding to hand signals," Miles said.

Specialty horses make good money for their owners. There is one woman who owns a sway-backed horse which she rents for $50 a day and has a corner on the market: The only other sway-back died recently of old age.

Miles, who has been a livestock specialist since the days of the old Cecil B. De Mille spectacles, says that the older a horse becomes, the better he is. Some of the most steadily employed are 20 to 23.

Cattle stampedes take a lot of arranging, are expensive and time consuming. At a minimum, a stampede costs $750, and most of the time producers simply buy stock of old stampedes—some recent TV shows movies made as far back as the 1930s—for $10 a foot of film and match up the current sets with the vintage scene.

"Most actors are not horsemen," Miles said. "Not more than eight out of 100 can really ride, and it is hard to keep the horses still because actors, when they are acting, start emoting with their hands and feet.

The horse responds because he is trained to hand signals."

Happy Art Collection At Sheldon

By HELEN HAGGIE
"It's obviously a happy collection."

This opinion of one viewer of the Howard S. Wilson Memorial Collection, now on display at Sheldon Art Gallery on the University of Nebraska campus, is shared by many who have seen the collection.

Mrs. Wilson has collected works by some very important American artists. And since 1939 has presented 11 of these works to the University of Nebraska Collections.

The other 20 paintings, drawings and one piece of sculpture are her personal possessions—and this is the first time the collection has been hung in one exhibition. That the collection is a happy one is indicated by the delightful variety of work, any one of which could be happily placed in a home of people who like to live with lovely things.

Seyler's "Il Mondo."

The magnificent and majestic painting of "Atlantic Beach Jetty" by Ben Benn contrasts with the small delightful "Corn" by Jean Jones Watts.

The near-collage effect of paint applied to panel with a putty-knife technique which Richard Pousett-Dart used in "Garden No. 2", an abstract, does not clash with the stern "Portrait of Emily Fairchild Pollock" by Thomas An-shutz.

Many of the works are by artists of the early part of this century, but happily associated with them are works of earlier as well as later dates.

Abstract, Impressionistic and realistic paintings are on exhibit in the same gallery—yet each has been so carefully chosen not one jars the viewer as not belonging.

The one very fine piece of sculpture—a bronze, "Il Mondo"—is by David Seyler, professor of art at the University.

The exhibit will be on view in Gallery C through Nov. 13.

Ernst Show Worthy

Perhaps it is a good idea to go from a collection of works of many fine artists to a one man show. And Nebraskans have just such an opportunity to do this if they visit Sheldon Gallery, then hike over to First National Bank at 12th and N where an exhibit of Jimmy Ernst's art is hung.

Color and line are predominate hallmarks of Ernst's recent paintings. And the circles and arc of circles are pointed up in use of diagonals, horizontals and verticals.

It is most fitting that these paintings of Ernst should be hung in the building on the south wall of which is one of his murals. The painting will be on view through Oct. 28.

Nebraska Capitol in Florida Panel

6,200-Ft. Mural Is Threatened

Prominent citizens of the area are striving to save a 6,200 square foot "America the Beautiful" mural at Palm Beach, Fla.

The mural, in the James Melton Museum which also housed the late opera singer's famous antique auto collection, contains a Midwest section (above) featuring the Nebraska Capitol in Lincoln, with Omaha and the Missouri River in the distance.

The mural was designed by Ella Margaret Burket, a former Lincoln artist who attended the University of Nebraska.

The mural was completed in 1954 by Wyooming artist Bernard Thomas, following the Burket design. Viewers in the museum hear a recorded narration by Lowell Thomas with background music by Melton.

The Melton autos have been purchased by Winthrop Rockefeller who is moving them to Arkansas where he lives. The vacated Palm Beach museum may be razed because of heavy taxes unless citizens' drive to save it and the mural is successful. Artists say the mural could not be removed without destroying it.

'Collectors' Choice'

Omaha—Price tags range from $20 to $75,000 at Joslyn Museum's "Collectors' Choice, 1966," exhibition which opens today.

The works included are fine examples of creative achievement in a variety of media and should appeal to many tastes and interests," said William McGonagle, Joslyn curator. There are 101 paintings, 165 graphics and 22 sculptures and assemblages.

The art objects were borrowed from 21 galleries in Chicago, New York, Detroit, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Des Moines and Omaha.

Audubon Topic: Birds on Stamps

Ornithophilately — birds on stamps—will be discussed at the Audubon Naturalist Club meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in Keim Hall on the NU East Campus.

Dr. Neva Preuss will be the speaker. She has a degree in entomology from Ohio State University and is on the staff at NU. The Audubon Naturalists welcome visitors.

Drugs on Stamps

"Drugs and Pharmacy on Stamps, Topical Handbook No. 55," is the title of the new Volume 2 of the medical handbook series of the American Topical Assn.

Author George Griffenhagen, R.Ph., M.S., editor of the Journal of the American Pharmaceutical Association, has balanced the scientific approach, of interest to physicians and pharmacists, and the popular for lay topical collectors.

The American Topical Assn. office is at 3300 N. 50th St., Milwaukee, Wis., 53216. The association previously published "Medical History in Philately, Handbook No. 39," by Gerhard J. Newerla, M.D.

Yeti Series

Bhutan's most famous character, the Yeti or Abominable Snowman, is being immortalized in a series of stamps.

The 15 triangular stamps to be issued by the Bhutan government depict the three known types of Yeti: the Chutey, which is large and fairly harmless and probably is actually a Tibetan blue bear; the Yeti, which is ape-like, bad-tempered and carnivorous, and the Thelma, a little "man" that is very like a gibbon.

The designs were taken from ancient Buddhist manuscripts, monastery murals and religious scroll paintings.

The Yeti stamps are another in a steady stream of philatelic curiosities that have been flowing from Bhutan since 1962.

Though it never entered an international sports contest, Bhutan issued stamps commemorating the last Olympiad. When telephone cables were being strung along Bhutan's national highway, it issued stamps commemorating the International Telecommunications Union. It noted the New York World's Fair with stamps and it plans an issue of three-dimensional stamps to follow the Yeti series.

Munsters' Car Part Of Display

One of the celebrities of the car world the "Munster Coach," a custom made car seen on the now-syndicated TV comedy series "The Munsters," will be featured Saturday at the Custom Auto Show at Pershing Auditorium.

The show running noon until 9 p.m., will display custom, rods, cycles, antiques and classics, said promoter Mike McAdams.

Husker Captains Setting Records

under the squad before a game.

"At the beginning of the year we did some talking before the game, but it's a matter of the whole team having to feel it," Churchich said.

There are some isolated examples of the captain taking the bull by the horns.

If in the heat of battle a player smartens off to an official, the captain can bring an end to that. Wachholtz says he's done that already this year.

And Churchich remembers well the great feeling it was for him when, as a sophomore, he entered the Iowa State game after Fred Duda broke his leg and heard both co-captains Lyle Sittler and Bob Hohn say: Don't worry about a thing. We've got confidence in you and we're with you.

But as Wachholtz and Churchich say, these instances are rare. Being captain, they feel, is an honor, and a call to lead by deed.

And if it does take a good example there are no better ones.

Churchich, a senior from Omaha North and Big Eight sophomore back of the year two seasons ago, is about to erase every school passing record at Nebraska.

Wachholtz, from North Platte, will leave his name in the record book for field goals and will also be remembered as one of the great punt return men ever in the Big Eight.

Coach Devaney is pleased with his squad's selection of co-captains.

"It seems we've always named quiet boys as captains," Bob said. "But the big thing is to show the other boys with action, not words."

Winning Wit

"Look down upon us with mercy and compassion . . ." One of the happier events of autumn is the Simon and Schuster cartoon collection "Give Up?" by Whitney Darrow Jr., the New Yorker artist. Its laugh quotient agreeable high, Darrow's humor is tinged with enough tartness to make you remember it. A characteristic scene at a fashionable wedding has one plump matron saying to another: "They should be very happy—they belong to the same hate group."

Mailer in Mellow Mood

Cannibals and Christians.
By Norman Mailer; Dial.

Can it be that Norman Mailer is mellowing just a little? Do I detect in this new collection of essays and occasional pieces an ebbing of that chip-on-the-shoulder churlishness? "Cannibals and Christians" is another installment of "Advertisements for Myself," and, like that book, compounded of brilliance, arrogance, and flashing insights.

Mailer

Mailer is the only novelist we have who is also a hard-slugging polemicist—the nearest thing to a latterday Menckens. After reading his last novel, the disappointing "American Dream," and being exhilarated by the cogency and sheer bullheadedness of "Cannibals and Christians," one wonders just which comes first.

Portraits and Pricks

The ingredients which made "Advertisements for Myself" such an eruption of stings and stars are all present here. We are given portraits of politicians—President Kennedy, his brother Bobby, New York's Mayor Lindsay, glimpses of LBJ and Barry Goldwater, most of them flayed with whips and scorpions.

So is the criticism—a needle-sharp dissection of Mary McCarthy's "The Group," less acerbic discussions of James Jones and Nelson Algren, and a roasting of President Kennedy pegged on a now-forgotten hatchet book about him. I imagine Mailer would rather forget his past writings on JFK.

Actually the book consists of an olla podrida of miscellaneous pieces, but Mailer has made a commendable effort to tie them together with a portentous preface labeled "Our Argument," plus interstitial comments in similar vein. This additional material is more interesting, in and of itself than for any cementing function it performs.

Vintage Mailer

The opening "Argument" is vintage Mailer in his best apocalyptic mood. "It has been the continuing obsession of this writer that the world is entering a time of plague," he begins, and we're off to the races. Mailer's world is divided into Cannibals and Christians—the Cannibals being the Right Wing, and the rest of us, of whatever race or religion, the Christians.

Some of Mailer's sentences leap off the page to sock you in the solar plexus. "The Christians are utterly opposed to the destruction of human life and succeed within themselves in starting all the wars of our time: every war since the Second World War has been initiated by liberals of Communists."

The best news in the book is that Mailer is apparently back at work on the long novel he's been talking about for years. Coming from one of the best writers in the country, that's heartening—and about time.

Puzzle Solution

Toynebee Views the Future Calmly

Change and Habit. By Arnold Toynbee; Oxford.

Toynbee, having long sharpened his preception in the perspective of history, looks forward to the future in this book.

He takes a calm view of the frightening possibilities of the atomic age, and optimistically estimates that mankind will survive the threat of irreversible doom from fission and fusion.

Not that it will be anything but a close squeak. The author's basic tenet is that as technology rapidly narrows the choice to either political unification or mass suicide, men will break the habits of thousands of years and concede enough social changes to permit survival. These are only habits (war-making among them) and not built-in instincts, he asserts — habits that are tough to break, but reversible.

He foresees an age when the habit of nationalism will be modified enough (but no more) to permit the organization of at least two world-authorities, one for the control of atomic energy and the other for the production of food for an enormous population.

One of his key chapters is "Is a World-wide World-State Feasible?" He concludes that a minimum of world government is both advisable and attainable.

Fortunately for us, he says, "the crucial leap in mankind's social history," from "societies based on personal relations exclusively to societies based on impersonal relations as well" was accomplished some 5,000 years ago. If the individual citizen can get used to political entities containing thousands of people, he argues, he can get used to others with millions of people.

In the final section, "The Impact of Technology on Life," Toynbee explores some of the horrors of future society, in which urbanization, congestion and automation will lead to regimentation and boredom.

One usual prediction is that the eventual affluence and leisure on this planet (after the threats of atomic suicide and starvation have been lifted) will release man to follow an inborn quest for ultimate spiritual reality — and that religion will be reborn.

Grim Documentary

The Boston Strangler. By Gerold Frank; New American Library.

If Truman Capote fashioned a "non-fiction novel" to describe the four murders in his "In Cold Blood," what shall one say of Gerold Frank's "The Boston Strangler," which records 13 murders, eight of them committed while he was researching the book?

As the author explains in a prefatory note, the book he meant to write changed character during his assignment. What originally began as a study of a city clutched by fear gradually turned into a chronicle of a manhunt, an arrest and a climactic self-revelation by a sex-obsessed man.

Here, then, we have a crime documentary which is genuinely sui generis. Because it is set down in the immediacy of the continuing present, the reader is made privy to the bafflement of the Boston police over the absence of clues and to their frustration as every lead ends in a blank wall.

All the victims were women, most of them elderly, and all of them ordinary persons of the kind who do not normally make news. All were attacked in their homes by someone they had obviously admitted. Most were sexually molested in bizarre fashion. Frank takes you through each murder in turn.

When the suspect is finally taken into custody (in surprisingly unspectacular fashion), there is almost a sense of letdown.

Reist Is Soloist With Symphony

Wesley Reist, associate professor of music at the University of Nebraska, will be clarinet soloist for the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra's first concert of the 1966-67 season. The concert at the Stuart Theater is to begin at 8:15 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 25.

This is the first time in years that a member of the Lincoln orchestra has been featured as a soloist.

Prof. Reist will play Claude Debussy's "Rhapsody for Clarinet."

Conducted by Leo Kopp, the program includes these orchestral pieces: Overture to "Euryanthe," by Weber; Beethoven's Fifth Symphony and Dohnanyi's Suite for Orchestra.

The same program, including Prof. Reist's solo, will be played at Nebraska Wesleyan's Fine Arts Center for 1,700 vocal, band and orchestra musicians from Nebraska high schools.

The young musicians will be in Lincoln Nov. 17-19 for Prof. Reist...clarinetist.

the Nebraska Music Educators conference annual meeting.

The next concert in the Lincoln Symphony Assn.'s series at the Stuart will be a solo recital by the young pianist Gary Graffman whose performances have won high praise from critics in the U.S. and abroad.

4-Concert Series by Ensembles

Four ensembles will perform at the Sheldon Gallery auditorium in a series of concerts presented this season by the Lincoln Friends of Chamber Music.

Opening the season at 8 p.m. Friday, Oct. 28, will be the Drole Quartet—Eduard Drole and Walter Peschke, violins; Stefano Passaggio, viola, and George Donderer, cello. Organized in Berlin, the Drole Quartet has performed in many European, South American and U.S. cities.

The second concert will be Dec. 9 by the Lincoln Chamber Players; the third will be Feb. 10 by the famous Juilliard String Quartet. The season finale will bring the Balsam-Kroll-Helfetz Trio to the Capital City.

The Lincoln Friends of Chamber Music is primarily a subscription group, headed by Prof. Robert Narveson of the University of Nebraska English department.

This Call Averted Headache

By HOWARD SCHENKEN
AND RICHARD L. FREY

Although a suit-preference signal can be used to spell out the suit in which a defender holds strength, it does not necessarily command the defender's partner to lead that suit.

All roads would have led to four hearts, but players sometimes miss the chance for a bid like South's direct jump to game. With a one-suited hand that offers no possibilities for playing in a different suit, the direct game call can simplify the auction and avoid headaches.

West opened his singleton spade and ruffed the return of the spade nine. The lead of an unnecessarily high card by a defender who is giving partner a ruff is a suit-preference signal, indicating strength in the higher-ranking of the two remaining side suits—in this case, diamonds. (Thus, if a defender gives partner a ruff with the lowest available card, he thereby indicates a preference for the lower of the remaining suits.)

Naturally, if partner tells you that he has strength in diamonds, it will usually be correct to return a diamond. That is what West did—but it wasn't the right play. No bridge slogan should be blindly followed regardless of the tactical situation, and West's "lazy" diamond return allowed declarer to make a contract that could have been set.

After the spade opening and spade ruff, declarer won West's diamond lead with the ace and ruffed a diamond. He continued with a trump to the jack, diamond ruff, trump to the queen, diamond ruff. Dummy's long diamond was now good. After drawing trumps, South crossed to the spade king, threw a losing club and claimed his contract.

West should have pondered a little before leading a diamond at the third trick. Knowing that East had the diamond king, West could calculate that South held only nine winners. West should have led a trump, removing an entry from dummy. This makes the vital difference in communications and declarer now has no way to win.

Guide to New Records

By DONAL J. HENAHAN
Chicago Daily News Special

Faced with the annual autumn flurry of releases, a record reviewer can only hope to lay down guidelines and to hit high spots. The notes that follow are to be translated flatly as "buy" or "don't buy," detailed discussion not being possible.

In the former category, do not hesitate to put your money on the Chicago Symphony's new RCA Victor coupling of Varese's "Arcana" and Frank Martin's Concerto for Seven Winds, Timpani, Percussion and orchestra.

No more stylistically diverse pair is likely to be recorded soon, let alone more successfully. Jean Martin, in his element, pulls off the explosive Varese piece magnificently, and the coolly calculated Martin calls forth spotless performances from the orchestra's first-chair brigade. The orchestra's sound in both works is transmitted with X-ray clarity and realistic presence.

In a contemporary vein, too, there is much to admire in an RCA two-disk album, "New Music for the Piano," encompassing works by 24 living composers.

Among them are such varied workmen as Ken Kenan and Milton Babbitt, Morton Gould and George Perle. All the pieces are collected in one published book, which adds to the record's practical value for pianists, though it also dictated the inclusion of several vapid efforts. On the whole, the four sides are well worth the serious listener's time.

Recommended listening in another pianistic universe is Raymond Lewenthal's entertaining excursion into Liszt Opera Transcriptions.

There is a properly florid put-down of Bellini, "Reminiscences de Norma," as well as the giddy "Hexameron," to which the composer contributed sections, along with Chopin, Czerny and others.

The most successful stereo version yet of Bartok's chilling opera "Bluebeard's Castle" is London's in which Christa Ludwig and her husband Walter Berry pass up the usual translations for convincing Hungarian. Istvan Kertesz conducts the Vienna Philharmonic.

Vladimir Ashkenazy, who should be the ideal Schumann pianist, misses the passionate sweep of the C Major Fantasia, but his latest London issue is nevertheless a must, if only for the "symphonic studies," also included.

Judged against the best Mozart available from Rudolf Serkin and Ingrid Haebler, the second album in Lili Kraus' traversal of the complete piano concertos is again disappointing.

This time Epic offers six works (Nos. 8, 9, 11, 17, 19 and 22). Madam Kraus plays them with too uniform an outlook, possibly because the soloist is rarely stimulated by her conductor, Stephen Simon.

Three In Dublin

NU Hosts Buchwald

Art Buchwald, whose nationally known editorial-humor column appears in The Sunday Journal and Star, will speak at a "talks and topics" program in the University of Nebraska Union, 14th and R, Thursday at 3:30 p.m.

Buchwald will give a humorous glance at current news topics. His program is open to the public.
